WHAT HAPPENS TO A WAR ORDER MARKED 'RUSH!'

A Tour Thru Mazes of Red Tape.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—THE TRIBUNE today presents the story of a single British "rush order" for war supplies. The story presents an amazing picture of what goes on behind the scenes in American arms production and the drive to speed aid to Britain.

The reporter tracked the jungles of British and American red tape on the trail of a contract for a vital item of military equipment. The quarry was tracked down when the trail was nearly four months old.

It is estimated that another three months will have elapsed before the material reaches the front at which it is needed. By that time the need for the material may have long since disappeared, but that is the risk that red tape brings.

The Story Starts.

Here is the story:

First week of March, 1941—Colonel A., with the sun baked forces of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell on the Libyan front, was impressed with the performance of an American combat vehicle. The vehicle was of a type which American industry is ready and equipped to turn out in quantity. The colonel persuaded his superiors that 250 of these combat vehicles were needed to stem the advance of axis powers. His request was given quick clearance by Gen. Wavell and a requisition was cabled to London.

March 7 to April 10—The requisition made the round of British bureocracy. More than 70 signatures were required before the order was given final approval. In that period it was examined by dozens of major and minor bureau heads and passed thru several ministries. Several cables were exchanged between Cairo and London on minor specifications. Dozens of copies were made of the order.

London Cables Washington.

April 11—London cabled British purchasing agents in Washington to ask that the 250 units be procured under the lend-lease program, which had been passed since Colonel A. made his original request.

April 11 to April 17—The order went the round of British purchasing offices here before it reached the proper hands. More signatures were necessary before the request could be transmitted to the American government.

April 17—Two British business men, dollar-a-year men attached to the British purchasing mission office, walked into the war department office of Col. XYZ, who is in charge of procurement of the item being sought. The American colonel, in sympathy with the need of the British colonel, who by that time had been waiting one month for the needed material, promised every aid. The American colonel, a reservist called to active service because of special aptitude, reported in the strictest confidence that he could have called up several pals in the manufacturing business and have had them turn out the needed 250 items by "a week from next Wednesday." However, the operation of the lend-lease act requires that he first secure a directive. Only the President of the United States can authorize expenditures under the lend-lease act.

Making the Rounds.

April 18—Started on round of war department.

April 19—Saturday and half day in the government. Nothing done on order in question.

April 20—Sunday. Full holiday.

April 21—Order continued round of war department.

April 22—Order moved across the street to Federal Reserve building to desk of Lend-Lease Administrator Harry Hopkins. Full day required for the trip.

April 22 to April 29—Order glided around spirals of red tape in Hopkins' office. Snagged several times. One day required to send order few blocks to White House.

April 30—Order in White House

Death Driver Speeding to an Inquest Jailed

Raymond Nestlehut Jr., 16 years old, was driving a car which struck Mrs. Ella Cleary, 79, near her home at 510 West Garfield boulevard May 29. Mrs. Cleary died June 6 in County hospital. Nestlehut was charged with:

Reckless driving.

Failure to have a state license.

Failure to have a city license.

Failure to have a safety sticker.

Raymond Nestlehut Jr.

Yesterday morning a park district squad car chased and halted a car in the Outer drive that was clocked at 55 miles an hour between 14th and Monroe streets and that was weaving in and out of heavy traffic. Young Nestlehut was driving, and he was indignant at being stopped.

Headed for Inquest, He Says.

"You can't arrest me," Sergt. Ralph Riley quoted him as saying. "I've got to get to an inquest on time."

Riley sent Nestlehut's car to a safety lane and took him to the county morgue in the police car. There a coroner's jury held him to the grand jury for manslaughter as a result of Mrs. Cleary's death. And witnesses testified that he was driving at high speed when he struck the aged woman.

Sergt. Riley last night said that Nestlehut's car, a 1931 model, still lacked:

A state license.

A city license.

A safety sticker.

A horn.

Workable lights.

At his home at 365 East 70th street his mother, Jane, said Raymond is a sophomore at St. Rita's High school and that he left home a little late for the inquest and was in a hurry. His father is an employé of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Nestlehut was taken to the county jail.

ROOSEVELT RENEWS PLEDGE OF FULL AID ON KING'S BIRTHDAY

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—President Roosevelt gave a renewed pledge of full material assistance to Great Britain and her allies in his birthday message to King George VI.

"Upon this occasion of the celebration of your majesty's birth it gives me pleasure to offer my felicitations and to extend my sincere wishes for your well being and for the welfare of all the peoples of the British commonwealth of nations, he said.

"I do not need to emphasize to your majesty my sympathy and the sympathy of the whole American nation in the great cause of freedom and justice which the peoples of the British Empire are now so valiantly defending. The United States has pledged full material assistance to Great Britain and her allies in this struggle and I assure your majesty of the determination of the government and the people of the United States to carry out that pledge."

2D CUT IN AUTO OUTPUT SOUGHT TO SPEED ARMS

Washington, D. C., June 13 [Special]—A second reduction in automobile production, of as much as 50 per cent, has been asked by the war department to release men, materials and management for the job of turning out airplanes, tanks, and other armaments, it was disclosed today.

The request was made by Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson in a letter to William S. Knudsen, director general of the office of production management.

OPM has ordered an "initial" cut of 20 per cent in automobile output, effective Aug. 1.

FIGHT BRITISH PLAN TO POOL EGG SUPPLIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—Farmers' wives in North Devon are up in arms against Food Minister Lord Woolton's egg pooling plan. Under this plan all poultry keepers having more than 12 chickens must sell their eggs to wholesalers and themselves register at shops for their egg ration.

The farmers' wives threaten that, rather than sell the eggs, they will wring the necks of their chickens. Hundreds already have arranged to sell their flocks to dealers.

To Be a Kiss It Has to Smack, Court Advised

Los Angeles, Cal., June 13 [Special].—Julius Goldsmith testified today in the Marion Talley-Adolph Eckstrom child custody case that he spent a night last December with his ear glued to the crack of the door of Miss Talley's New York apartment. Eckstrom hired him to do this, explained Julius.

The witness said he could not tell who was in the apartment, but he could tell what they were doing.

"I heard sounds of what I conceived to be osculation," he asserted.

Asked to Explain.

"Please explain what you mean by osculation," the witness was directed.

"The pressure of two pairs of lips against each other and the issuance of the sound by reason of the contact," he replied.

"Are you quite definite that the sound which you have described as one of osculation was completely audible to you to identify the sound?" he was asked.

"I know that this sound came from the apartment, just as I know that I am 49 years old and have done some kissing in my life myself—and from my experience I would say unqualifiedly that it was kissing," he replied.

Lawyer Is Dubious.

On cross-examination, one of Miss Talley's attorneys expressed some doubt, saying: "I thought that maybe—I may be wrong—the most intense osculation is soundless."

To this Julius retorted:

"I do not know what your qualifications are or your means of knowledge on the subject, but to my knowledge and my experience osculation is always accompanied by sound."

"Couldn't it possibly have been a Bronx cheer?" he was asked.

"O, no," replied the witness.

Judge Ingall W. Bull listened awhile, then ruled that the testimony was irrelevant.

Boss Closes Plant So All Can Open Fishing Season

Rochester, Ind., June 13 [Special].—Jack Davis, superintendent of the Rochester Metal Products company, today posted notices in the plant that the plant would be closed all day Monday, June 16, to give the 100 employés an opportunity to fish on the first day of the open season in Indiana. Davis is going, too.

ASSERTS SOVIET DOES NOT PLAN WAR WITH NAZIS

Action 'No Bearing' on Relations.

New Hitler Demands

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 13—It was indicated today that the Russian-German situation is moving swiftly toward a climax. New German demands are said to include the return of Bessarabia to Rumania; German control over a large section of the Ukraine and part of the Baku oil fields; removal of the Red army from the Baltic states, and revision of Russia's frontier with Finland. Reports from Moscow suggest that there is a conflict between the political bureau of the communist party, which wishes to avoid war and negotiate with Germany, and Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, commissar of defense, who maintains that the Red army is unwilling to accept Nazi demands. Germany has prepared an offensive from Kirkenes, Norway.

MOSCOW, June 13 (AP).—Soviet Russia tonight said that German troops, released for other assignments by the Nazi sweep of the Balkans, were being moved into eastern and northeastern Germany [facing Russia], but that "it should be assumed" the movement has no bearing on German-Russian relations.

The statement, issued thru Tass, official news agency, and broadcast to the world by the Moscow radio, denied that Germany had made any territorial or economic demands on Russia. It asserted that Russia planned no fight and guardedly interpreted the German troop movements as of no concern of Russia.

An Answer to Rumors.

Tass said that the "intense dissemination of rumors on 'the proximity of war between the U. S. S. R. and Germany'"—concurring with the consultation trip to London by the British ambassador to Moscow, Sir Stafford Cripps—had necessitated the statement.

Tass arrayed the rumors and then the Russian counter-statements, declaring that:

1. Germany had presented no territorial or economic claims to the U. S. S. R.

2. "According to information at the disposal of the U. S. S. R., Germany abides by the provisions of the soviet-German pact of nonaggression as unswervingly as the soviet union. . . . Dispatching of German troops, relieved from operations in the Balkans, to the eastern and northeastern district of Germany, which is now taking place, is connected, it should be assumed, with other motives having no bearing on soviet-German relations."

Abides by Treaty.

3. Russia abides by provisions of the Russian-German pact, "in view of which rumors to the effect that the U. S. S. R. is preparing for war with Germany are false and provocational."

4. "Summer camp drills of Red army reservists, held at present, and forthcoming maneuvers have no other purpose than training of reservists and checking of the work of the railroad organization."

The statement charged that the rumors were but "clumsily concocted propaganda of forces hostile to the U. S. S. R. and to Germany and interested in further extension and unleashing of the war."

Predicts Important Events.

MADRID, Spain, June 14 [Saturday] (AP).—The Berlin correspondent of EFE, Spanish news agency, today told Spaniards that they may expect events of "capital importance" between Germany and Russia.

Finland Restricts Travel.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 13 (AP).—Finland tonight announced travel restrictions on both the Swedish and Russian borders.

A presidential decree voided travel cards between Finland and Sweden. Passports and visas will be required henceforth.

HULL HITS VICHY'S STAND ON SYRIA; DEFENDS BRITISH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—In another administration blast at the Vichy government, Secretary of State Cordell Hull tonight accused some French leaders of using the French people to fight Germany's war in Syria.

Cordell Hull.

Hull's attack, contained in a formal statement issued in response to press inquiries, was seen as increasing the strained relations between the United States and the Vichy government and approaching rapidly the break which Hull threatened last week.

In this event it was assumed that the United States would probably recognize the "Free French" government of Gen. De Gaulle, now collaborating with the British.

War Promise Reported.

Hull's attack on Pierre Laval, ousted vice premier of Marshal Petain's cabinet, and his successor, Vice Premier Admiral Francois Darlan, came on the heels of a report in Paris that the United States has promised to enter the war immediately if France drops its present policy of collaboration with Germany.

"There is no basis for that story; it's a fake," declared the state department spokesman, Michael J. McDermott.

[The report from occupied France was contained in an editorial in Les Nouveaux Temps, according to Paris dispatches. It claimed American Ambassador William D. Leahy had promised American entry into the war to the Vichy government. Details on page 4.]

In his formal statement, Hull specifically named Darlan and Laval as the French leaders who are fostering Franco-German collaboration. Last Tuesday Darlan appealed to the French people for continued support of the collaboration policy with Germany, else France will perish.

Hull declared that the adoption of Hitlerism would set the world back "five to 10 centuries," and that it remains to be seen whether the French people will accept this.

France Fails to Object.

"The original scheme of the Darlan-Laval group to deliver France politically, economically, socially, and militarily to Hitler seems now to have been brought out into the open," Hull declared. "When Germany recently desired to make use of Syria to attack British forces in Iraq, no objection was made by France, altho the terms of the armistice did not require that France permit territory under French control outside occupied France to be used as a base for German military operations.

"The use of Syria is a vitally important part of the general plan of Hitler's to invade Iraq, Egypt, the [Suez] canal area, and Africa. When French authorities in Syria, acting under the Vichy government, made no effort to prevent German use of Syria as a military base, and when they permitted even the shipment from Syria of military supplies of French manufacture to be used by the Germans against France's former ally, they permitted Germany to extend the theater of war into French mandated territory.

British Being Opposed.

"To resist this further expansion of German aggression the British forces in the near east entered Syria to prevent German actions there which the French, under the direction of the Vichy government, were permitting, if not abetting. Yet the French authorities in Syria have considered it necessary to contest bitterly this British effort to prevent Syria from being used as a German base.

"These facts unmistakably demonstrate that the German military effort is making use of France and that the German initiative in Syria is resulting in a conflict, not only of France against Britain, but of Frenchmen against Frenchmen. Germany seems to have prevailed on the Vichy government to do Germany's fighting in Syria."

Dozen Seamen in Lifeboat 30 Hours After Torpedoing

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, June 13 (AP).—About a dozen seamen, believed to be the only survivors of a crew of 45, arrived here last night aboard a freighter after their ship had been torpedoed while crossing the Atlantic. The men spent 30 hours in an open lifeboat before they were picked up by the freighter.

BROOKLYN BALL PARK DENIED TO AMERICA FIRST

MacPhail Accused of Hurling Insults.

Erase Lindbergh Drive

Charlotte, N. C., June 13 (AP).—It was Avon avenue today instead of Lindbergh drive. The city council changed the name after Mrs. Sidney Astor, a property owner, requested it. She said that "judging from the man's [Charles A. Lindbergh] stand in regard to his country he does not deserve to have a street in Charlotte named for him."

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 13.—The gates of Ebbets field, home of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball club, have been slammed shut on the America First committee, it was disclosed today. It had been planned to hold an anti-war rally, with Charles A. Lindbergh as speaker, in the ball park.

William T. Leonard, business man and executive chairman of the America First committee's Brooklyn chapter, revealed the refusal in a letter of protest to Leland Stanford [Larry] MacPhail, president of the Dodgers, a National league team.

MacPhail, who is accused of turning thumbs down on the request in a flood of picturesque and vituperative language, is chairman of the Brooklyn division of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. The CDAAA is a leading interventionist propaganda organization.

Previous Incidents Recalled.

Prowar groups in other cities, notably Miami, Fla., and Philadelphia, Pa., have attempted to prevent the holding of America First rallies and muzzle free speech one way or another.

According to Leonard's version of the imbroglio, he called MacPhail on the telephone Wednesday to start discussions for renting the field for "any available date." He was answered, he said, with "unseemly" insults for Lindbergh, Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], and other anti-war stalwarts of the America First committee.

"MacPhail said it was the policy of the board of directors to steer clear of controversy, but in this case he, personally, would refuse the request," Leonard related. "He said we were a lot of Nazi so-and-sos."

MacPhail Confirms Story.

Reached at his office at Ebbetts field this afternoon, MacPhail confirmed the story.

"I told Leonard the America First committee couldn't have the ball park for a rally and they're not going to have it," explained MacPhail. "Other than that I don't care to comment."

Asked whether he had uttered the type of language Leonard referred to, MacPhail admitted "it was possible."

MacPhail then was asked whether he would apologize.

"Yes, indeed!" he replied. "I'll apologize on Feb. 1, 1999, right on the steps of Borough hall—if the committee is still in the league."

Leonard declared the Brooklyn division of the CDAAA was smarting under the fact that the America First committee had drawn a crowd of 5,000 in the Brooklyn Academy of Music recently, while MacPhail's organization attracted only 846.

Reports 20,000 Members.

Leonard said that Brooklyn now had 20,000 members of America First and the chapter was started only five weeks ago. He added that the average contribution was less than one dollar and many were only a nickel, indicating the common man's support.

It was recalled that Leonard was chairman of the Brooklyn "Democrats for Willkie" organization during the Presidential campaign last November. He said he had been sadly disillusioned since.

In his letter to MacPhail, Leonard

NAZIS CRY: 'WE'LL FIRE AT ANY SHIP WITH WAR GOODS'

America Can't Buffalo Us, Berlin Says.

BERLIN, June 13 (AP).—Germany "won't be buffaloed by American or English discussions concerning the Robin Moor," an authorized German source declared today, and he added:

"Whenever any ship with contraband sails for England we'll shoot at it, whether it is the Robin Moor, the Exmoor [the vessel's former name], or anything else."

[The ship, a United States freighter, was sunk in the South Atlantic on May 21, bound for Cape Town, South Africa, and survivors said it was a torpedo from a German submarine that sent her under.]

Adopt British Practice.

It was stated here that Germany had no information from her own sources as to whether the Robin Moor had in fact been destroyed and whether, if sunk, it was by a German submarine.

But in any case it was declared that the question turns on what is contraband, and in this connection a spokesman said:

"So far, all presumably factual statements are from British and American quarters. But if the facts as presented by these interested quarters are correct there were railroad rails aboard the Robin Moor. The British have declared rails to be unconditional contraband and in these matters we invariably adopt the British practice. What is contraband to them is contraband to us. The British are traditionally disposed to make the conception of contraband wider than we are inclined to do."

Fair Game for Warship.

The general attitude expressed in responsible quarters was that if the vessel had contraband intended for England or for the British in any theater of war it was fair game for any German warship.

"We have said times without number that we sink any vessel bound for England with war materials, and the world with the utmost formality has been informed that we are conducting a total blockade of England," the spokesman said.

U. S. IN NO PERIL OF SUSTAINED AIR RAID: LA GUARDIA

New York, June 13 [Special].—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, national civilian defense director, today admitted that the United States is not in any danger of sustained air attacks. He also told delegates from 85 women's organizations called together by the Federation of Women's clubs that there is only a 5 per cent chance that the United States will get into the war.

La Guardia said cities of the United States might be subjected to short, surprise attacks, but, he added:

"Unless the British fleet is destroyed and England conquered and our fleet riddled, and we lose some of our outpost bases, we will not be subjected to sustained and repeated long attacks such as the cities of Britain have had."

In asking support for his civilian defense program, La Guardia said he doubted if there ever would be any need for evacuating children from the nation's cities.

Silver emblem which will be worn by army's parachute troops.

Washington, D. C., June 13 [Special].—A new silver emblem has been approved by the war department as a badge for the army's parachute troops. The emblem, a replica of an open parachute between wings that curve upward, will be worn above the left breast pocket of the jacket or shirt. Only soldiers of the 501st infantry parachute battalion at Fort Benning are now qualified to wear the emblem.

STORY OF 18 DAYS OF HORROR AT SEA IN AN OPEN BOAT

U. S. Ship Survivors Tell of Perils.

RECIFE, Brazil, June 13 (AP).—Survivors of the American freighter Robin Moor tonight pieced together the details of the sinking and of their 18 days at sea in an open boat, drenched by torrential rains, scorched by a broiling sun, and in constant fear of death.

William Cary. [AP Wirephoto.]

Antonio Santos of Newark, N. J., chief cook of the Robin Moor, one of the 11 picked up by the Brazilian rescue ship, Ozorio, said that an armed German in the boarding party from a German submarine seized the vessel's radio and prevented the flashing of an SOS.

Look for Rescue Boat.

The 4,999 ton ship was stopped by signal lights from the submarine, he said. Twenty-three minutes after the 46 crewmen and passengers were ordered to the lifeboats a torpedo amidships and shells from the submarine's deck gun sent her to the bottom, he added.

The cook said that all four of the Robin Moor's boats stayed together for several days, but then went in different directions in the hope of locating a rescue ship.

Three of the boats, with 35 persons, have not yet been reported.

Those 18 days and nights were spent in almost constant rowing, the cook said. Torrential rains drenched the survivors, but helped replenish their lowering water supply, he said.

Interested in Autos.

William Cary of Delmar, N. Y., another survivor, said that one submarine officer seemed especially interested in the Robin Moor's deck cargo of automobiles.

The same officer, Cary said, told the first officer of the Robin Moor that "we are very sorry, but you are carrying cargo bound for a country which is fighting us," and then explained that the submarine would have to sink the ship and its cargo.

Cary said that on the 10th day of his lifeboat's voyage, "we sighted a ship and lighted a signal fire, but they did not see us. During the horrible voyage we sang and joked as much as possible, trying to keep our morale high until the Ozorio found us."

Ship Chartered by Swiss Sinks Near Italian Port

BERNE, Switzerland, June 13.—One of the ships chartered by the Swiss government to ferry cargoes from Lisbon, Portugal, to Genoa, Italy, sank near the latter port, it was learned today. The 4,500 ton freighter, which was flying the Spanish flag, was believed to have struck a mine.

U. S. TO DEMAND NAZIS PAY FOR SINKING OF SHIP

No 'Warlike' Action by Roosevelt Seen.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Altho a vigorous protest will be addressed to Germany, demanding payment of damages for the loss of American life and property, the sinking of the steamship Robin Moor is not likely to be made the pretext for more warlike action by the Roosevelt administration.

This was learned today in official quarters where it was revealed also that administration leaders in congress are urging a policy of extreme caution with respect to the Robin Moor incident.

Even Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla], most vociferous spokesmen of the interventionists in congress, said he would "not go to war" as a result of the sinking of the Robin Moor, altho he would retaliate by sinking a German merchant ship or U-boat.

Criticize "Precipitate" Action.

Privately, some administration leaders in congress criticized the state department for acting "precipitately" yesterday and again today in accusing a German submarine of sinking the ship in violation of international treaties and law.

Nevertheless, if the administration expected the Robin Moor incident to inflame congress and the country to such an extent that it could be made the pretext for war, the result was disappointing, according to congressional leaders.

The state department yesterday released a summary of statements by survivors saying the Robin Moor, en route to Cape Town, South Africa, was torpedoed by a German submarine on May 21. Today Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles said the facts of the sinking were indisputable, and by implication he accused Germany of violating international law. He insisted the vessel carried no arms.

International Law Cited.

The United States, Welles said, will stand on the principle of international law that proper provisions for the safety of the passengers and crew must be made before a ship may be sunk. Welles intimated doubts that such precautions were taken, but asserted that a formal statement of this government's position will be deferred until depositions from the 11 known survivors arrive from Recife, Brazil, by Clipper plane next Monday.

Congressional authorities on international law noted that the Robin Moor admittedly was carrying steel rails and automobile truck parts, both items on the unconditional contraband lists of Germany and Britain.

Officials of the Robin Steamship Line were authorized to let reporters examine the vessel's manifest today. The only firearms aboard were one case of .22 caliber rifles, without ammunition, and 10 cases of shotgun shells consigned to a sporting goods store.

Admit Chemicals Aboard.

Line officials admitted there were some chemicals aboard, but declared they were of a type used in industrial fields only, particularly mining. Germany considers chemicals contraband.

Articles listed in the manifest were valued at 2 million dollars. They included 459 automobiles and trucks, 48,000 gallons of lubricating oil in 50 gallon drums, and hundreds of articles such as food, clothing, toilet goods, medicine, glassware, paints, hardware, and machinery.

Congressional leaders said the evidence so far would not support an accusation that the submarine failed to make reasonable provision for the safety of the passengers and crew. Since they were placed in lifeboats and given food, the only question is whether the submarine had an opportunity to report their location to possible rescue ships. Survivors said the submarine commander promised to broadcast their location by radio.

Speaker's Son to Fly

THREE VERSIONS OF MOSCOW AND BERLIN ENIGMA!

LONDON, June 13 (AP). — The enigma of the true state of relations between Russia and Germany thickened tonight as the soviet officially admitted that the Red army and newly arrived German veterans are facing each other across their eastern European frontier.

Three versions of the situation were current in London:

1. The semiofficial British view that Berlin-Moscow relations are strained as a result of Adolf Hitler's demands for concessions in the Ukraine oil fields.

2. The view of a good many diplomatic observers that Britain is using reports of German military concentrations along the Russian border to stir up a "nerve war" of her own in the hope of loosening the bonds of German-Russian economic collaboration.

3. That Britain is trying to bring Russia and Germany to war by creating mutual suspicion.

BUILD WINCHES FOR CONTROL OF BALLOON TRAPS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 13 [Special].—Equipment for barrage balloons is being manufactured by the Marmon-Herrington company here. Winches that raise and lower the balloons are being turned out at the plant. America never before has had barrage balloon equipment except in an experimental stage.

Such balloons, some of which may be 87 feet long, are anchored to wires and cables. The network of wires and cables is intended to trap enemy planes. The balloons will be produced by rubber companies.

Marmon-Herrington has expanded its plant to produce all-wheel drive trucks and small tanks for the war department.

Britain Revives Curb on Soldiers' Visits to London

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—An order which was in effect during the intensive German air raids on London last autumn, banning all army men from visiting London on leave unless their homes were there, was reissued today.

HYDE PARK POLICE SERGEANT SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS SELF

Sergt. John McCarthy, 58 years old, of the Hyde Park police station, last night shot his wife three times during a quarrel in the kitchen of their home, then shot himself to death. The wife, Marie, 50, is in critical condition in Illinois Central hospital.

According to a statement made to Lieut. John Leonard of the Woodlawn station by Mrs. Marie Mandell, a daughter of Mrs. McCarthy by a former marriage who was visiting in the McCarthy home at 1355 East 61st street, there was a scream from the kitchen, followed by several shots. She, her husband, and a maid, Marie Brygadzin, ran in and found Mrs. McCarthy lying on the floor. The policeman then stepped in from the back porch and shot himself in the temple. A previous shot had grazed his head.

McCarthy, known as Buck to his friends, was described as a jovial man. He was transferred to the Hyde Park station from Wabash avenue about two months ago and had been on the force for more than 25 years. He has a son, John, by a former marriage.

Warning Lights to Cease in Traffic Safety Test

Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer, announced yesterday that yellow warning lights will be eliminated soon from stop and go signals at four intersections on La Salle street. The intersections are at Oak, Division, and Schiller streets and North avenue. The experiment is being conducted at the direction of Mayor Kelly.

BRITISH DEFENDER OF KING LEOPOLD WINS AN APOLOGY

Keyes' 'Gallant Soldier' Description Upheld.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—Settlement of the libel suit brought by Sir Roger Keyes, admiral of the fleet, against the Daily Mirror which had blasted the admiral for his description of defeated King Leopold of Belgium as a "gallant soldier," was approved in court today.

Sir Roger Keyes. [Acme Photo.]

Keyes, a world war naval hero who had been called from retirement to serve as naval attaché in Brussels for liaison work with King Leopold, also advised suspension of judgment on the Belgian surrender May 28, 1940, until "the facts are known."

Defense Attorney G. O. Slade told the court that the "dignified and fair-minded attitude of Keyes was abundantly justified" and that a "very grave injustice has been done the king of the Belgians." He said the Daily Mirror tendered a sincere apology to both.

It was not revealed what damages were agreed upon, but Justice Tucker, in approving the settlement, said the libel action "appears to have served most useful purposes and has resulted in statements being made which will give very wide satisfaction."

Tells of Surrender.

Sir Patrick Hastings, representing Keyes, told the story of King Leopold's surrender and how the king had notified the allied commanders seven days before capitulating that if contact with the northern French and British armies were broken such action would be inevitable.

"On May 20 the British army and the French northern army were ordered to prepare to fight to the southwest to regain contact with the main French army and, unless the Belgian army could conform to this movement, it was clear that it would involve a breach in the contact between the British and Belgian armies," he said.

"Sir Roger informed King Leopold of the order and he was asked to inform the British government and Lord Gort [then chief of the British general staff] that the Belgian army had neither tanks nor aircraft and existed solely for defense.

Belgian Army Withdrawn.

"The king did not feel that he had any right to expect the British government to jeopardize perhaps the very existence of the British army to keep contact with the Belgian army. But he wished to make it clear that if there were a separation between the two armies, the capitulation of the Belgian army might be inevitable."

At the request of the French high command, Hastings declared, "the Belgian army was withdrawn on May 23 from a strongly prepared position on the Scheldt river to a much weaker and longer line on the Lys to allow the British army to retire behind the defensive frontier line to prepare for the southward offensive.

"On the evening of May 26," he continued, "a breakthru on the Belgian line seemed inevitable and King Leopold moved the remaining French 60th division in Belgian vehicles to a prepared position across the Yser river, which by then was flooded over a wide area, and its bridges were mined.

"Fighting on the Belgian frontier had been continuous for four days and the Belgian army by May 27 was running short of food and ammunition and was being attacked by at least eight German divisions, including armored units and wave after wave of dive bombers.

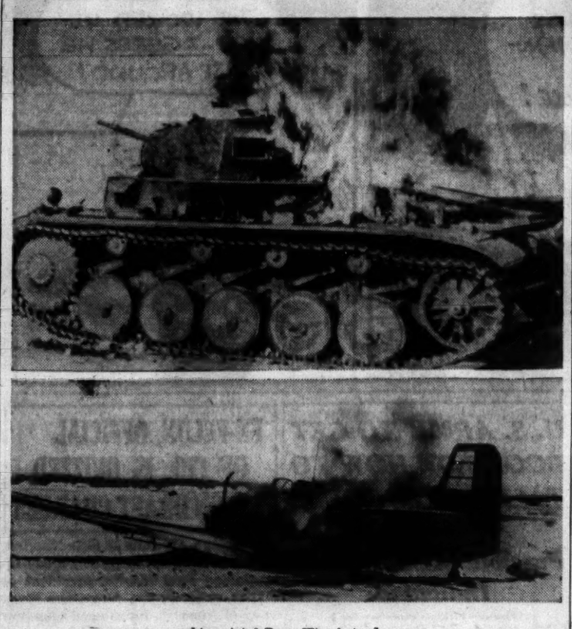
"That morning the king asked Sir Roger to inform the British authorities that he would be obliged to surrender before a debacle took place. A similar message was given to the French.

"By afternoon the German army had driven a wedge between the Belgian and British armies. Every road, village, and town in the small part of Belgium left in Belgian hands was thronged with hundreds of thousands of refugees. Men, women, and children were being mercilessly bombed and machine gunned by low flying aircraft.

"Under these circumstances—at 5 p. m. on the 27th—Leopold informed the British and French authorities that he intended at midnight to ask for an armistice to avoid further slaughter of his people.

"This message, like the earlier ones, was promptly received by London and Paris, but all communication with the British army was cut and altho wireless messages repeatedly were sent out, it is now known that these did not reach the commander in chief."

German War Machines in Flames



[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

The upper picture shows a German tank burning after being hit, the British said, by a "Molotov cocktail" during the British defense of Tobruk, Libya. The "cocktail" is a bottle filled with pitch and benzine which bursts and burns when thrown against any object. The lower picture, according to a British caption, shows a German Junkers plane down in flames after an attempted raid on Tobruk.

Pair Seized After Chase Identified as Robbers

Romolo Messucci, 30 years old, and Mike Caringella, 27, who were arrested by Shakespeare avenue police last night at Fullerton and Kimball avenues after a short chase, later were identified by victims of three robberies. Messucci gave a fictitious address, and Caringella said he lives at 3258 Jackson boulevard. Among victims who identified them were F. F. Moffat of 1359 North Mayfield avenue and Miss Lila Johnson, 150 North Parkside avenue, who were robbed as they sat in a car on the west side.

GOEBBELS DISCUSSES INVASIONS IN STORY; PAPER IS CONFISCATED

BERLIN, June 13 (AP).—An edition of Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter carrying an article by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels on the possibilities of an invasion of England was confiscated today.

Authorized spokesmen, declining to comment on the reasons for the confiscation, smiled when it was suggested to them that Goebbels had been censored.

"If today the events of Crete are hotly debated in England," the propaganda minister wrote, "one need merely substitute the word England for Crete to understand what is meant." This was an indication that what happened to Crete might happen to England.

Goebbels hinted that developments surprising to England might be in prospect within the next few months.

Anti-Aircraft Guns Foil Night Raid on Gibraltar

GIBRALTAR, June 13 (AP).—Anti-aircraft guns on the rock of Gibraltar awoke inhabitants at 2:16 a. m. today and enemy planes dropped a small number of bombs, but there were no casualties or damage. An alarm was sounded later in the day but no planes were seen and no gunfire was heard.

[A report from La Linea, Spanish city opposite Gibraltar, said the aircraft carriers Ark Royal and Furious, with a cruiser and a submarine flotilla, left their base at the British stronghold Friday.]

EGYPT: BRITAIN'S QUESTION MARK IN BATTLE FOR SUEZ

Young King and Court Lean to Axis.

BY ROBERT NEVILLE.
[Copyright.]

New York, June 13—Did Britain want Egypt to declare war when the Italians a year ago started their ill-starred drive to the Suez canal? That was a delicate question when I reached Egypt last February.

The British embassy version was that Britain did not want a declaration of war from Egypt, because Cairo might be bombed, and moreover, the Egyptian army was not too good and might even get in the way.

Despite all this, I have reason to believe that official Britain wanted an Egyptian declaration of war. No belligerent wants to have a general headquarters in the capital of a so-called neutral country. It is hard to establish an anti-espionage police in such a place, for one thing. And in Cairo there were diplomatic missions from Vichy, France, pro-German Hungary, occupied Rumania, and Bulgaria—most of them living within a stone's throw of British general headquarters.

Kept Neutral by Axis.

But the Egyptians did not declare war. They had been lured into neutrality partly by the smooth tongues of axis diplomats. And they like the Italians. [This is hard to comprehend because the Italians in Libya have treated the native Arabs just about as badly as any native population has ever been treated.] They had no faith in a British victory and no impulse to back the losing side.

British successes in Libya changed this pro-axis feeling and at one point Egypt was almost ready to come in. It was suggested in Cairo that Libya really should be an Egyptian province, and during the Ethiopian campaign that Eritrea really belonged to the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

In Egypt during the last several years there has been a revival of Moslem nationalism, and as one phase, the Egyptian parliament strives continually to devise ways of hindering all foreign enterprise.

Palace Powerful Factor.

The palace is a powerful factor in Egyptian politics and young King Farouk's closest advisers are the sheiks of the great medieval Mohammedan university called Al Ahzar. These men are reactionary, opposed to liberal and foreign influences, and ambitious for wealth and power.

One sheik said he believed Egypt would become the leading power of a renascent Moslem world and Egypt's king would become a caliph, wielding both spiritual and temporal power over Egypt and other lands. Several treatises advocating a pure Mohammedan legal code for Egypt have been written recently.

Thus anti-foreign sentiment rises under a young, weak, and easily influenced king, and the British position is jeopardized. While the British try to discourage anti-foreign legislation, they cater to Moslem fanaticism instead of encouraging those elements that would like to modernize Egypt.

Into this picture come the Italians and the Germans. When the late Italo Balbo visited Egypt the year before war was declared, he is said to have told the king, "stick by us, and we will make you caliph of all Islam." Mussolini previously had played up that thesis, and the daily Arabic broadcast from Bari and Berlin kept harping on the greatness of Islam and the perfidy of Britain toward Islam.

Of all prewar diplomats in Cairo, the closest to the palace was the Italian minister, a clever person who flattered the king and made good friends with the Al Ahzar sheiks.

Farouk's chief of the royal cabinet—Ali Pasha Maher—was notoriously unenthusiastic about the British cause. When war began the British got rid of him, but if the Germans get to the Nile, watch for Ali Maher's name in the news! The Egyptians probably will welcome the Nazis with open arms.

Pro-Axis Groups Active.

There are several pro-axis groups in Egypt. The Royal Hunting club is notorious and the Green Shirt organization, which long ago swore to push the British into the Nile, is functioning underground.

The basic weakness of Britain in Egypt is the fact that they have never catered to popular feeling and have always preferred to have understandings with a few highly placed individuals around the palace rather than with a few men who might direct and solidify public opinion.

LEST WE FORGET

President Roosevelt, on October 30, 1940, speaking to fathers and mothers on the selective service act.

"And while I am talking to you mothers and fathers I give you one more assurance.

"I have said this before, but I shall say it again and again. Your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars.

"They are going into training to form a force so strong, that by its very existence, it will keep the threat of war far away from our shores.

"The purpose of our defense is defense."

BRITISH TORPEDO PLANE CRIPPLES NAZI BATTLESHIP

Cloud of Smoke Billows from 'Pocket' Raider.

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—Britain announced tonight that one of Germany's dwindling supply of the heavily gunned but lightly armored pocket battleships was torpedoed by British airmen off the southern coast of Norway early today.

Just 18 days after flyers closed in with British surface vessels to sink the battleship Bismarck, 35,000 ton pride of the Nazi navy, coastal command aircraft struck this fresh blow.

A long range, twin engined Beaufort swept low around the stern of one of several screening Nazi destroyers, British sources said, to ram home the explosive amidships as the German headed northward—apparently raiding bent—past Egersund. Another torpedo quickly followed.

"Dense clouds of white smoke rose from the vessel," the air ministry said.

"Soon after 10 o'clock this morning the battleship was stationary some miles off Mandal, on the most southern point of Norway, and later the whole force was observed to be retiring toward the Skagerrak at greatly reduced speed."

Severe Damage Indicated.

Informed sources said severe damage was indicated by that reduced speed, a gait of 10 miles an hour or less.

None, however, identified the pocket battleship by name and there was speculation as to whether she was the Admiral Scheer or the Luetzow, the only two of the strong, swift 10,000 ton craft, armed with 11 inch guns, which Germany is known to have since the scuttling of the Admiral Graf Spee at Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 17, 1939.

The torpedoing followed up heavy aerial thrusts against the 26,000 ton battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the cruiser Prinz Eugen, consort of the Bismarck, anchored at Brest.

A Clear Patch of Weather.

The air ministry news service said the plane which attacked first was piloted by a flight sergeant from the oft bombed city of Coventry, with a sergeant from Saskatchewan as navigator.

"We flew in at right angles across the stern of the battleship," the pilot said. "Then we made a right about turn and came back at her broadside less than 100 feet high. I let the torpedo go and then veered off to the left, crossing about 100 yards in front of the battleship's bow.

"A few seconds later my rear gunner yelled, 'There's a column of water.' As I turned the aircraft to look back I could see a great patch of white foam against the ship and a dense cloud of dirty white smoke amidships. We got away without a shot being fired."

This fresh blow at German sea power followed closely upon the heaviest raid which British bombers thus far have unleashed against Germany's great manufacturing region, the Ruhr valley. The raids cost the RAF six planes.

London had its second air raid alarm of the week late tonight. No bombs were dropped.

Germans Sink 28,000 Tons.

BERLIN, June 13 (AP).—German planes sank 28,000 tons of British shipping space last night and also destroyed eight British planes, the high command asserted today. Four merchantmen were said to have been sent to the bottom in St. George's channel and four others damaged heavily in those waters and off the Scottish east coast.

The high command acknowledged that several civilians were killed or wounded and a number of apartment houses destroyed or damaged in British attacks on western Germany.

BRITISH BLAST 'AXIS SHIPPING IN MEDITERRANEAN

CAIRO, Egypt, June 13 (AP).—British bombers today set afire several enemy ships and attacked airdromes on the Italian Island of Rhodes a communique said tonight. At Bengazi, Libya, two ships were set on fire. In the central Mediterranean, the communique said, bombers "attacked a convoy of merchant ships escorted by destroyers and auxiliaries. A number of direct hits were made on a merchant vessel of about 7,000 tons, causing a large fire . . . the vessel is reported to be a total loss." At Rhodes, British bombs started fires at Calato airdrome.

RAF Attacks Ruhr.

LONDON, June 14 [Saturday] (AP).—British bombers last night attacked Germany's Ruhr industrial district for the third straight night, it was reported today. The German held French port of Brest also was bombed. It also was reported that axis planes dropped seven bombs on the British Mediterranean island of Cyprus. The morning communique reported light German air activity over England during the night causing small damage and few casualties. Five enemy aircraft were reported downed.

Two Bombers Downed.

BERLIN, June 14 [Saturday] (AP).—Two British bombers were shot down last night during raids by small RAF forces on western Germany and the northwestern coastal area, the Germans reported today. Little damage was reported.

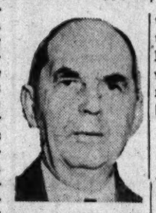
FRENCH HEAR U. S. WILL JOIN WAR IF THEY SHUN NAZIS

Told Leahy Bids Vichy to Scrap Deal.

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, June 13 [via Berlin].—Admiral William D. Leahy, the American ambassador to France, has notified the Vichy government that the United States will enter the war immediately if France drops its policy of collaboration with Germany, according to an editorial in today's Les Nouveaux Temps by Editor Jean Luchaire.



Admiral Leahy.

Had it not been for the strong isolationist sentiment of the American public, Luchaire asserted, President Roosevelt already would "have sought and found an opportunity to let loose an armed conflict between his country and Germany."

Sees United States-British Plot.

The editorial writer saw in Britain's attack on Syria a "Churchill-Roosevelt plot," cooked up in a desperate effort to "get out of the blind alley into which the new French policy of collaboration has cast them."

The writer asserted that the underlying purpose of the British-American maneuver is to put the skids under Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan of France and his supporters, drive a wedge between France and its government and exert pressure on Marshal Petain, French chief of state, to return to the Anglo-Saxon fold.

Cites Leahy's Efforts.

"In Vichy," Luchaire said, "Admiral Leahy is hinting that he will do everything in his power to bring about a complete reversal of the British attitude toward France, providing the French government is willing immediately to halt the conversations going on between it and the reich and to denounce the economic agreements concluded between France and Germany."

The writer charged that Leahy has promised France "a few shiploads of foodstuffs" if the French cease their collaboration policy. He added that the ambassador "has insinuated that a right about face in the present French policy automatically will bring the United States into the war."

VICHY FORBIDS JEWS TO ENTER BUSINESS IN UNOCCUPIED ZONE

VICHY, France, June 13 (AP).—The French government clamped down today on Jews in the unoccupied area, virtually barring them from all professions and business in a special law which provided heavy penalties for Jewish violators.

The new law, which exempts certain categories of war veterans and their relatives as well as long established Jewish families in France, provides penalties of five years imprisonment and a fine of 20,000 francs [about $460], or both, for violation.

Xavier Vallat, the government's commissioner for Jews, announced that the general lines of the anti-Jewish policy will follow that already imposed by the Germans in the occupied zone, including the placarding of Jewish owned shops and, possibly, the appointment of gentile managers.

Hint Capt. Jimmy Inspects British Gibraltar Base

LONDON, June 13 (AP).—Capt. James Roosevelt of the marine corps, en route to London from Cairo, probably will arrive in Lisbon tomorrow, it was reported today. He left Cairo June 1 and had been expected here earlier this week, but an American source said he stopped off "to inspect something" along the way, presumably Britain's Gibraltar base. It was anticipated he would fly to London immediately on his arrival in Lisbon. The President's eldest son has been to the far east and the middle east as an observer.

U. S. ARMY TO GET BOOKS ON HOW TO TALK PORTUGUESE

Possible AEF Plan Is Indicated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Further evidence that the war department is expeditionary force minded was disclosed today with the announcement that a group of scholars, poets, and literateurs is engaged in the compilation of a series of military dictionaries.

"Possible use of the hand books for intelligence and combat officers are practically unlimited," the war department said, "They will be valuable in deciphering documents and interrogating prisoners.

"They will facilitate communication with inhabitants of occupied territory, whether friendly or enemy."

Spanish Dictionary First.

In the battle of words the first of the dictionaries has just come off the press. It is the Spanish-English edition. The Portuguese-English edition is expected by the end of June.

While the Spanish and Portuguese dictionaries would facilitate communication with Latin-American neighbors in event this nation would be called upon to defend South America from invasion, they also have European implications. Portugal and Spain are now the only avenues left for an expeditionary force in Europe.

Portugal has been allied with Britain for centuries because the British have insisted on maintaining a supply of good port wine into their country. In the world war Portgual declared war after Germany treated her as an ally of Britain. In the present conflict Portugal has been or more value to Britain as a neutral than she would be as an ally.

Spain Faces Threat.

Germany has recognized possible employment of Spain as an avenue of attack on the axis powers and is reported to be prepared to launch an attack on that nation at the first indication of allied operations in or against Spain, which has been exhausted by civil war.

Other dictionaries will be handbooks of the German, French, Italian, and Russian language. The German volume is to be ready this summer. All of the books will contain technical words, military terms, and the slang of soldiers.

FALL KILLS BRIDEWELL GUARD.

Walter Kravetsky, a Bridewell guard, died yesterday in St. Anthony's hospital a few hours after he fell two floors from the rear porch of his flat at 1428 South Kedvale avenue. He was 54 years old.

EX-FELON, OFFICIAL OF CIO, IS QUIZZED ON DRAFT CHARGES

Cleveland, O., June 13 (AP).—The federal bureau of investigation today investigated Paul Martin, president of a CIO union at the Aluminum Company of America, for alleged violation of the selective service act.

Information that Martin "falsified his name, age, and birthplace" in registering for the draft was turned over to the United States district attorney's office today by police, then referred to the FBI. Prosecutor Francis Kavanagh said the unionist, listed in prison records as Paul Mehringer, registered under the name of Martin and gave his age as 26 and his birthplace as Winter Haven, Fla. Records showed he was born in Cleveland Feb. 11, 1906.

"I wanted to give the government a break," Martin was quoted as saying. He also said he hoped to avoid connection with a prison record by using the name of Martin. He served more than seven years in Ohio penitentiary, beginning in 1931, for robbery.

GERMANS CLAIM CHURCHILL SANG HIS 'SWAN SONG'

BERLIN, June 13 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill's address yesterday, in which he envisaged a new European order without Adolf Hitler, was called "a political dance of death" by authorized Berlin commentators today. "The speech, in the shadow of fallen governments, was his swan song," a spokesman said. "It was not even the swan song of a European politician, rather of a former European politician who is now nearly a puppet of gentlemen across the sea."

Churchill addressed representatives of the refugee allied governments and the British dominions.

Without answering specific charges, the commentator said it was ridiculous to compare the British plan for the future with the broad reconstruction program which the axis, in the midst of war, is accomplishing in Europe.

PLUNGES INTO RIVER; SAVED.

Eino Keramen, 35 years old, of Detroit, Mich., plunged into the river from the Harrison street bridge yesterday and was rescued by police and bystanders.

NEIGHBORS SNIFF ROAST PIG; BERLIN COUPLE PUNISHED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 13.—The delicious odor of roast pig, slaughtered on the sly, wafted to the envious noses of unneighborly neighbors brought a prison sentence and heavy fines to a married couple today. They were convicted by the Berlin special court of an "offense against war regulations."

The couple, who had slaughtered their own pig for home consumption last October, were betrayed to the police by next door "friends."

The meat was confiscated. The husband was sentenced to 6 months in prison, and his wife to a fine of 200 marks [about $80]. In addition, the couple must pay the usual slaughter tax evasion fine plus the pig's assessed value.

FALLS FROM FREIGHT CAR; DIES.

Earl Hardwick, 30 years old, of Itasca, Du Page county, died yesterday in Washington Boulevard hospital of injuries suffered May 14, when he fell from the roof of a freight car at Davis Junction, Ogle county. Hardwick was employed by the Milwaukee railroad as a laborer.

PUSH AUSTRALIAN TROOPS OUT OF KEY SYRIAN CITY

French to Rule Damascus an Open Town, However.

VICHY, France, June 13 (AP).—Australian troops driving northward along the Syrian coast toward Beirut fought their way into the outlying houses of the town of Sidon today and then were driven out by what was described as a "brilliant" counterattack by defending French troops.

In the other principal sector of fighting, around Damascus, there was disagreement on the exact status of the rival positions, but a dispatch from that capital itself said it had been decided to declare the city open, thus sparing the population of 200,000 the dangers a defense would bring.

South of Damascus.

Earlier reports in Vichy said British and "Free French" forces were battling the defenders of Damascus in the environs of the city, but later messages declared the allied forces still were stalled at Kissoue, about 10 miles south of the ancient town.

[Authoritative sources in Cairo said that "Free French" forces had surrounded Damascus and apparently were awaiting outcome of negotiations for a peaceful occupation of the city.]

Of the battle in which the Australians were driven out of Sidon, the French said:

"The enemy pushed action against Sidon with tanks aided by artillery and by fire from the fleet. After having gained a foothold in the first houses of Sidon, he was chased out by a brilliant counterattack. Our troops reoccupied their former positions."

20 Miles from Beirut.

Sidon is only 20 miles south of Beirut, which was heavily bombed last night.

[The British said their forces operating along the coast had reached the Sidon area, while officials in London said the allied columns had advanced beyond the coastal town. In Cairo the British announced that three German bombers bearing Italian insignia were shot down by Australian fighter pilots when the Nazis attempted to attack British naval units off Sidon.]

Inland, to the north of Merdjayoun, another British column, composed mostly of Canadians, according to the French, was trying to drive toward the French airdrome at Rayak. The French conceded that the Canadians had been able to gain a foothold in that sector.

[In the north the Syrian city of Aleppo was expected to fall to the British Sunday, according to reports received by the Turkish general staff in Ankara. The British, this dispatch from Ankara said, have passed Ebukebir, about 115 miles east of Aleppo.]

Exchange of Notes.

LONDON, June 13 (AP). — The French government has informed Britain it would "avoid taking any action which might aggravate or spread the conflict" in Syria and Lebanon.

The Vichy régime, in a note dated June 8, asserted, however, that the allied attack on the French mandated territories "risks producing the gravest consequences."

The British government, expressing pleasure at the French assurances, replied that its action in Syria was based on "facts" and that "his majesty's government can not be expected to enter into an argument with Marshal Petain's government on the subject of the meaning of the word 'collaboration.'"

[Vichy reports said a second and stronger note had been sent to Britain reiterating the French assertion that there were no German troops in Syria.]

The notes were exchanged thru Admiral William D. Leahy, United States ambassador to Vichy, by way of the British embassy in Madrid.

TALK OF MOVING ICC TO CHICAGO STIRS UP STORM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Members of the house interstate commerce committee today became aroused over reports that the interstate commerce commission may be moved to Chicago.

Harold D. Smith [top] and Joseph B. Eastman.

At a secret session of the committee it was voted to draft a letter to President Roosevelt protesting against the proposed removal. Altho officials claimed the meeting was executive and information could not be divulged on the reason for the action, it was suspected that ICC officials may have been responsible.

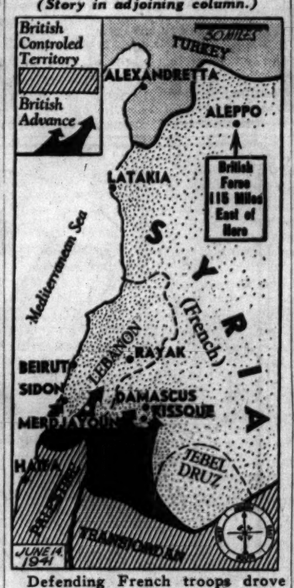
It all came about thru a letter from Budget Director Harold D. Smith to Joseph B. Eastman, ICC chairman, asking why the ICC could not function outside of Washington, where there is no longer breathing room for the overflowing government bureaus. The matter of obtaining office space and housing accommodations for the influx of government employés has become acute.

U. S. Troops in Puerto Rico Practice Coastal Defense

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, June 13.—United States infantry, artillery, and engineering units in joint maneuvers here are concentrating on coastal defense, it was reported today. They have simulated conditions prevailing in Crete, and both day and night defense operations have been ordered.

The War in Syria

(Story in adjoining column.)



Defending French troops drove an Australian force out of Sidon yesterday, according to a Vichy dispatch. Damascus will be declared an open town to prevent fighting there, it was said. Reports in Ankara, Turkey, were that a British column moving westward was 115 miles from Aleppo.

AGITATORS MUST BE OUSTED, SAYS ADMIRAL DARLAN

VICHY, France, June 13.—Vice Premier Darlan today ordered prefects to exert all their energy toward rallying every support to the régime. He also called for the ouster of agitators within government ranks.

His statement demanded "active vigilance" to clean up tendencies to "revert to the errors of the régime responsible for the French defeat." It asked the prefects' help in educating the public to the necessities of collaboration in the national recovery.

Darlan's instructions emphasized the necessity of "especial action" to eliminate all obstructionism within the ranks of government employés. "The work of cleaning up the administration," Darlan said, "demands that all those who appear incapable of collaborating in the national recovery should be eliminated from the ranks of public office. The slightest attempt at agitation cannot be tolerated at a moment when the union of Frenchmen is more than ever necessary."

WARN BERLINERS OF A NEW TYPE OF BRITISH BOMB

BERLIN, June 13 (AP).—The Berlin district air defense command advised the capital's inhabitants today to go to air raid protection cellars immediately when sirens sound because "the enemy's new type weapon has a severe effect."

The warning noted that many persons go to cellars only when anti-aircraft artillery goes into action with the result "that there have geen a great number of bomb victims."

[British reports of recent air operations against Germany have described the devastating effects of a new super-bomb.]

ARMY DRAFT NOT NEEDED, CANADA PREMIER ASSERTS

Tells American Women of Voluntary Effort.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13 (AP).—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King told a group of American women reporters today that "Canada will get all the men needed voluntarily." This assertion was in reply to a question whether he considered conscription a possibility or a necessity in Canada.

Mackenzie King.

The premier told the newspaper women, who are on a tour to get an idea of Canada's war effort, that the glory of the dominion's contribution was that it all had been done voluntarily.

Mackenzie King also told the reporters that President Roosevelt had sent him a letter in which he said he hoped he could soon make his projected trip to Canada.

Declines Comment on CIO.

Mackenzie King declined to comment on an interview given the reporters by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario, who described the CIO as the greatest enemy to the North American continent at present. He said he had no quarrel with Hepburn, and added: "But Canada hasn't a single strike in industry today."

Asked to compare Canada's war effort in the present war with that of the last world war, he said Canada's contribution now exceeds many times that of the previous conflict.

The number of infantry men rapidly is approaching that of the last war, he said. At the outbreak of the last war, Canada had practically no navy. Now she has 20,000 men in naval service.

Train 50,000 Flyers.

Canada is making a big and important air contribution, he said, having already trained 50,000 men.

In industry, he said, Canada has turned the country "completely from a peace basis to war effort," and has taken on the task of supplying Britain with a larger quantity of war supplies. These supplies, he estimated, have passed the billion dollar mark.

Owner Injured in Fire at Tanneries Concern

Maurice Arenberg, 44 years old, of 5759 Winthrop avenue, owner of the Universal Tanneries, was injured seriously last night when fire attacked the second floor of the building housing the concern at 341 East Ohio street. Firemen responding to the alarm found him in the doorway, overcome by smoke and suffering from a possible head injury received in falling. Rescue squad No. 1 under Lieut. Walter Mulvihill worked over Arenberg two hours at the scene and at Passavant hospital. The fire damage was estimated by Chief William Quail of the 2d battalion at $2,000. Supplies of leather and chamois were burned.

ROOSEVELT, WILLKIE BOOED AT ANTIWAR RALLY IN CALIFORNIA

Pasadena, Cal., June 13 [Special].—Possibility of a British victory was discounted at an America First committee meeting here tonight.

The audience booed when the names of President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, Winston Churchill, and Wendell Willkie were mentioned.

"I do not believe a British victory possible or desirable," said Charles H. Cobb. "Germany was made to sign the Versailles treaty at the point of a gun," Cobb said. "There still is such a thing as retribution. England and France are paying for their perfidy in blood, sweat, and tears." He urged an immediate drive for repeal of the lend-lease act.

Dr. Michael Francis Dillon, University of California at Los Angeles professor, charged that President Roosevelt already has made congress like the German reichstag.

The meeting adopted a resolution demanding that the President not take advantage of emergency powers to nullify congress' power to declare war.

NAB EX-CONVICT AS SUSPECT IN HOLDUP MAY 13

A Fillmore police squad under Detective William Broderick last night arrested Arthur Halpin, 25 years old, an ex-convict, who gave his address as 4806 Congress street, in connection with the $60 robbery May 15 of a filling station at 1900 Elston avenue. Halpin was turned over to Hudson avenue police, who on May 16 arrested Michael Scarumuzzi, 23, of 419 South Spaulding avenue, in connection with the same holdup.

Scarumuzzi was shot by one of his two alleged accomplices, and was found by police at 1908 Bissell street. He is now in the county jail awaiting trial for the robbery. Halpin served a term in Pontiac reformatory for burglary, according to Detective Ambrose Mahoney of Hudson avenue station.

Interned German Seaman Escapes Camp in Dakota

Bismarck, N. D., June 13 (AP).—An interned German seaman escaped from the detention camp at Fort Lincoln last night by tunneling under a 10 foot wire fence with a shovel. Police Chief B. A. Woehle of Bismarck said the man is Johan Hendrik Theodor Marquenie, 38. The exact hour of the escape was not known, but local enforcement agencies received the alarm at 3 a. m. More than 200 German seamen have been interned at Fort Lincoln for several weeks. This is the first reported escape.

U. S. Aids Cuba in Probe of Sedition; Three Seized

HAVANA, June 13 (AP).—The national police said today they had arrested three men at Guanabacoa, near here, in an investigation into suspected sedition and had seized large quantities of totalitarian propaganda. A United States secret operative was said to have coöperated with the Cuban police.

NEW CONFERENCE BETWEEN JAPAN, EAST INDIES SEEN

TOKIO, June 13 (AP).—The cabinet today approved instructions to Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's envoy in the stalemated economic negotiations with the Netherlands East Indies, and indications were that he would be directed to confer further. The government spokesman intimated a "recommendation" that Yoshizawa return to Japan, but in Batavia, scene of the negotiations, the envoy showed no haste to depart.

"Japan cannot retreat," he was quoted as saying in a telephone interview with the newspaper Nichi Nichi, "nor can the Indies make a further concession, it is claimed, with the Batavia parley completely stalemated.

"The difficulty in the final stage of economic negotiations is traceable to the international situation. I have made tentative reservations aboard the steamer Nissho Maru for June 29. However that is not definite until I see Tokio's instructions."

237 Majors, 284 Captains Get Promotions in Army

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Mass promotions announced by the war department in today's army orders advanced 237 majors to the temporary rank of lieutenant colonel and gave 284 captains permanent promotions to the rank of major.

BRITISH FARMER HAS WOES, BUT A DEBT'S A DEBT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—Troubles besetting Britain's farmers in wartime were brought out at the Edmonton County court today when a farmer was sued for a £20 [about $80] debt.

The farmer told the magistrate that he had no income at present; he had planted 100 acres of land but expected bad crops; altho the government paid farmers for every acre of fallow land plowed up he had lost money; that he had sold a fat cow thru the ministry of agriculture but was not satisfied with the price; and that he couldn't cut his hay because he could not get help.

Despite his woes the judge ordered him to pay off the debt at the rate of £1 [about $4] monthly.

Nazi-Controled Rumania Signs to Send Oil to Turkey

BERLIN, June 13 (AP).—Turkey and Rumania signed an oil treaty at Bucharest today, DNB, official German news agency, reported from Bucharest. The agreement, effective immediately, pledged Rumania to supply petroleum and petroleum products to Turkey. [Since Germany controls Rumania's oil output this pact may be interpreted as a friendly Nazi gesture toward Turkey.]

SOLDIERS TRAIN WITH OLD GUNS; WAIT NEW ONES

55,000 Learning Combat Duty at Fort Bragg.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Bragg, N. C., June 13.—Down here among the pine trees of North Carolina's hot sandhills, an army of 55,000 men, a large part of them young draftees, are learning how to function as combat teams in the army's largest field artillery training center.

While they wait for the assembly lines to produce the newest and latest arms equipment, they learn to shoot with weapons which in many cases will be superseded in actual combat by newer guns, when, as, and if. The officers speak of priorities, and mention the production earmarked for Great Britain. They also speak of July 1. By that time, they expect that each unit will have a fair supply of modern equipment.

But in speaking of modern equipment, they do not always include the new 105 mm. howitzer. This weapon is to replace the old French 75 mm. gun, which the army also is in the process of modernizing.

Three 105s at Fort Bragg.

There are now at Fort Bragg 232 75s and three 105s. Two of the latter are to be shipped somewhere else soon. Few of the 75s have the latest development, the split trail. Most, however, have high speed mounts, for fast motor transport. The others, for the most part, are used in training draftees at the recruit replacement center. They are set up for school work, near the barracks. When the batteries go out to the firing ranges—this post boasts of having the largest in the world—they use guns on the latest rubber tired mountings.

"No combat unit has ever left for duty in the islands or elsewhere without full equipment," said Maj. Urban Niblo, an ordnance officer. However, he did not refer to the 105s in speaking of full equipment.

"But even in the islands they haven't had as much firing with 105s as have the men here at Bragg," he added. "As a matter of fact, there is little difference in actual firing of the guns. On the whole I am very optimistic about the entire situation, much more than I was three months ago."

Expect More Big Howitzers.

Two battalions of the 79th regiment have 14 of the big 240 mm. howitzers, the heaviest mobile artillery, which is tractor drawn, at about eight miles an hour, weighs 28 tons, and fires a 330 pound shell. By July 1 they expect to have a total of 20.

In time the 240 mm. howitzers will be replaced by the new 8 inch gun. Fort Bragg now has one 8 incher. It differs little in range or in firing from the 240 mm., according to artillery officers. There are also on hand several 155 mm. howitzers and guns.

For small arms equipment the men at Fort Bragg have 23,000 rifles. All, with the exception of 1,500 of the Garand semiautomatics, are the old Springfield bolt actions. None of the replacement troops are being trained with Garands, which go to combat units. By July 1 officers expect that 60 per cent of the combat troops will be using Garands. Beyond that date no one can say.

Use World War Ammunition.

On the firing ranges, according to Maj. Niblo, the men are practicing with much ammunition of world war vintage. The percentage of duds, he said, is comparatively low. This type of ammunition even in cases which are known to contain duds, is suitable, he explained, for training center troops.

"There is no danger in the actual firing," Maj. Niblo declared, "and it makes a loud noise, serving the purpose of conditioning the men to battle sounds. We also have a constant patrol of the ranges to locate and destroy all duds."

The ordnance department also has developed a mobile machine shop, equipped with almost every mechanical device necessary, including a crane with a 6 ton lift, to service the guns in the field. Maj. Niblo said he encourages the batteries to make all repairs possible by use of the field machine shops before sending a gun to the ordnance repair shop.

SEVERAL LONDON TOBACCO SHOPS HAVE NO TOBACCO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13.—Familiar "No Cigarets" signs outside tobacco shops were changed in several places today to boldly printed cards stating, "Nothing."

Many shops did not even trouble to open, one tobacconist locking his premises early this morning and saying, "It is not worthwhile burning electric lights for the sake of a few ounces of pipe tobacco, which is all I have."

At some tobacco stores where cigarets still were available, customers lined up.

ANNE GREENE.

Boston, Mass., June 13 [Special].—Pretty 19 year old Anne Greene, Vassar sophomore and daughter of a Harvard professor, was sought by police of eight states tonight, 48 hours after she disappeared from her home here.

Because the girl believed she may have flunked some of her Vassar exams, her father, Prof. William C. Greene of the Harvard classics department, said the family "feared for her life."

The family said Anne had no steady boy friends. She left home in her auto saying she was going to return a typewriter to a girl friend. She has not been heard from since.

ANCHORED GLIDER MAKES FLYING INSTRUCTION SAFE

A new safety device, virtually a glorified kite, for instructing beginners in the rudiments of flight was demonstrated yesterday for the first time at Lewis School of Aeronautics airport near Joliet by Commander Eugene McDonald Jr., its manufacturer. Army air corps officers now at the field learning the arts of gliding and soaring were among the observers.

The device consists of a series of wind-making machines and a full size utility glider. The glider is anchored to the ground by two 100 foot lengths of line. The wind machines are lined up so that when they are in operation a current of air blows back against the glider and lifts it off the ground.

Never Rises Above 10 Feet.

Several demonstrators—one an experienced glider pilot and the others novices—made a series of "flights" in which they showed that the normal controls of the glider operate as if the machine were in free flight so long as the air blast blows against them. Yet the machine is anchored so that the student flyer never gets more than 10 feet off the ground.

An experienced pilot can hold the machine level, deflect one wing and then the other, raise and lower the nose, and perform many basic flight control maneuvers. The beginners who flew the glider bounced up and down and jerked erratically from side to side as they made errors in handling the controls. All, however, "landed" safely and proved the inventor's claims.

Four Machines Supply Wind.

The wind-making machines consisted of four small automobile trucks on each of which a two-bladed wooden propeller of 7 feet diameter, geared to the truck motor, whirled at 1,800 revolutions per minute.

Because a propeller blast is turning in a corkscrew motion due to the blade action on the air, huge circular "screens" of metal were placed behind each propeller to straighten out this "air-kink." Thus when the 35 to 40 mile hour current reached the glider anchored 40 feet away it was flowing straight and smoothly.

"All equipment is relatively inexpensive but it does the job," said McDonald. "The device will be presented soon to military and civilian flying training operators."

HODES BATTLES MOVE TO REOPEN CLEANING PLANT

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes filed a motion in federal court yesterday seeking dismissal of the injunction suit brought by Gaines Dry Cleaners, Inc., to prevent the city from interfering with the reopening of the Klever-Shampay cleaning plant at 4631-41 Cottage Grove avenue.

The motion was contained in an answer to an amended petition filed by the Gaines corporation. The city charged that the Gaines corporation, incorporated in Delaware last month, has the same management and ownership as the Klever-Shampay corporation which was reputed to be dominated by Murray Humphreys, ex-convict and former Capone gangster. The Klever-Shampay plant was closed by Mayor Kelly on April 28 after an inspection by building and health inspectors.

BROOKLYN BALL PARK DENIED TO AMERICA FIRST

declared this was still America and "those who attempt to browbeat any one they do not agree with are usually followers of a totalitarian idea—these are the methods of the European dictators."

Calls Insults Amazing.

"Your indulgence in offensive and insulting language over the telephone to the chairman of a committee of thousands of Brooklynites who treated you with complete courtesy is simply amazing," said Leonard's letter.

"Our committee is made up of thousands of loyal American citizens, just as good Americans as you or any one of the pro-war committee, of which you are chairman. It is particularly surprising that this sort of language should come from one who is supported by the Brooklyn public of all shades of opinion."

Leonard demanded an apology and said he had no tolerance whatever for any bundists, communists, or fellow travelers.

Defends America First.

"Our committee members are loyal, patriotic Americans, whose only difference with you and your committee is that we represent the true American policy of George Washington and all the Presidents down to the present time," he said. "If we temporarily disagree, it does not make us any less American than you are.

"Just because you make a smearing statement about the members of this committee does not make it true. You apparently have joined in the army of professional smearers."

It was only natural, Leonard said, that he and many others who contributed toward MacPhail's compensation, as president of the Dodgers, were resentful of his attitude.

WAR MONGERS BLOCKED, SAYS SENATOR NYE

Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], a leading noninterventionist member of congress, declared yesterday that he believes the United States is destined to remain at peace. Overwhelming expressions of anti-war sentiment in recent weeks have thwarted attempts by the Roosevelt administration to plunge the nation into the European conflict, he said.

It was obvious from the first that the administration wanted to draw the nation into Great Britain's war on Nazi Germany, Senator Nye continued, but the question is whether it still wants to, in view of the setting of public opinion against such a step.

The senator, in Chicago on his way to attend a wedding today in Hammond, Ind., said the evidence that the Robin Moor was sunk by a German submarine is too conclusive to permit any other supposition. In New York City on Thursday he had suggested that the sinking might have been engineered by the British to create an incident to further the administration's war policies.

Beginning Tuesday, Senator Nye is scheduled to speak before several rallies under the auspices of the American First committee in Ohio, Indiana, and Kansas City, Mo. He will address the annual Swedish midsummer festival in Minneapolis, Minn., on June 22.

HIGH COURT VOIDS ORDER QUASHING MAU INDICTMENT

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday reversed and remanded with directions a Criminal court order of Judge John F. Bolton which a year ago quashed a forgery indictment against Ernest W. Mau, former Berwyn treasurer. The high court ruled Mau was subject to prosecution on a charge of falsifying a special assessment sheet thru which $381 was withdrawn from the Berwyn treasury to pay off a nonexistent bondholder.

Mau and Matthew Berg, another former Berwyn treasurer, were freed Feb. 14, 1940, of a charge of embezzling $3,726 from the suburb after prosecutors staged a "sitdown" strike when Judge William J. Lindsay ordered contempt proceedings against the state's two star witnesses and disbarment procedings against one of them, an attorney.

June 10—Secures all the remaining signatures. If Col XYZ had not personally carried this order to the OPM offices himself, it would have spent three weeks to a month shuttling around the various offices.

June 11—Bids are asked on the contract. Here the story ends for the present, but Col. A. is still a long way both in time and distance from the combat vehicles he asked the first week in March.

Next week contracts will be signed. More signatures. The material will be turned out in two weeks. Inspection will necessitate more signatures. Shipping by freight will require more signatures. Still more will be needed to get the items aboard a vessel bound for their destination.

By late August, with the best of luck, Col. A. of his majesty's North African forces may see the first of the vehicles he ordered—if he is still alive and if there is a British North Africa.

AMERICA FIRST SPEAKER ASSAILS FOREIGN POLICY

Dr. Anton J. Carlson, University of Chicago physiologist, told an America First rally last night at 3730 North Clark street that "a foreign policy differing radically from the Monroe doctrine should not be adopted thru guile and propaganda in a period of fear and hysteria."

The way of democracy, he said, is to place all the cards on the table and decide the issue when minds are calm.

"In my experience and judgment," said Dr. Carlson, "racial animosities are intensified by war, not minimized. We disregarded the advice of Washington in 1917. Are we myopic enough to repeat in 1941?"

COUNCIL TO VOTE NEXT THURSDAY ON TRANSIT PLAN

Judge Igoe Insists That Is First Requisite.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Judge Michael L. Igoe abruptly shut off arguments on transit finances and merger plans in federal court yesterday, and told city officials to pass the long pending traction unification ordinance. William H. Sexton, city traction counsel, and Philip Harrington, traction commissioner, assured the judge that the ordinance will be called up for passage by the city council next Thursday.

Judge Michael Igoe.

Mayor Kelly, who returned from Washington during the day, disclosed that the city would not oppose the proposed increase in street car fares from 7 to 8 cents unless the Chicago Surface Lines balk at acceptance of the traction ordinance. There is no reason to support a fare increase, said the mayor, unless the lines also agree to a transit merger and better transportation.

Comments on Jones Letter.

At the court hearing Judge Igoe chose plain words to comment on Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, who on Thursday sent a letter to Mayor Kelly insisting that the Chicago Motor Coach company be included in the unified transit system. When the letter was submitted to the judge he said:

"We know that Mr. Jesse Jones is trying to foist the bus company into Chicago's traction system. I don't know what his great interest it is in. I can't understand it at all. Every time we come close to Jesse Jones we come back with the odor of the Chicago Motor Coach company. If he wants to run it, let him run it."

It was recalled that Jones last summer, in making a tentative offer of a 53 million dollar transit loan to Chicago, insisted on the inclusion of the motor coach lines. The traction unification ordinance was drafted accordingly.

Ask 10 Million Dollars.

Later the owners of the bus company asked 10 million dollars for their properties. This price was assailed as excessive by the city council and by transit lines officials, and last month the city amended the ordinance draft to make optional the purchase of the bus lines. Jones early this week rejected the city's request for a transit loan based on the amended draft.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that purchase of the bus lines will be left optional in the traction ordinance. It is up to the new company to buy the bus properties and to get a federal loan, the mayor asserted.

Henry F. Tenney, attorney for the largest group of surface lines' bondholders, asked Judge Igoe, in view of the uncertainty of the loan negotiations, to proceed with hearings on a separate court reorganization of the surface lines, apart from the "L" and bus company. The court continued this request and the entire traction matter to June 27.

Two Sides to Problem.

Judge Igoe also quashed a suggestion by Sexton that the loan and other financial phases of the unification be discussed yesterday.

"There are two sides to this problem," the judge told Sexton. "One is the ordinance and the other is the financial picture. The city has had since 1927 to pass the ordinance. Pass it. Let the bankers and the bondholders worry about the loan."

Mrs. Mae Krenn, 39 years old, of the Blackstone hotel, was granted a divorce on grounds of cruelty yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath from Edwin Krenn, 50, of 40 East Oak street, real estate dealer and president of a lighting fixture company. They were married Dec. 22, 1934, at Richmond, Va. Mrs. Krenn testified that her husband threw a deck of cards at her and pushed her against a radio. Judge Sabath enjoined Krenn from molesting her after Mrs. Krenn said he threatened her on May 24, the day they separated. Her lawyer, Frank X. Brickley, said there had been an out of court settlement.

Navy Gives Liner America New Name; It's West Point

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—The navy gave new names today to the liner America and two other recently acquired liners. The America, largest American built passenger ship, was renamed the West Point, for the military academy. The trans-Atlantic liner Manhattan was renamed the Wakefield for George Washington's birthplace in Westmoreland county, Virginia. The liner Washington becomes the Mount Vernon, in honor of Washington's home on the Potomac river.

100,000 CHILDREN HOLD PARK RALLY ON FLAG DAY EVE

City to Mark Birthday of Old Glory Today.

More than 100,000 elementary and high school students participated yesterday in a pre-Flag day celebration in 30 parks and in Chicago schools. The city will observe the birthday of the flag, June 14, 1777, by displaying the colors on public buildings and homes today.

The largest ceremony of the city-wide school celebration yesterday, which was sponsored by the Board of Education, the Chicago park district, and the American Legion, was held in Stanton park, at Rees and Vine streets. Here 10,000 students of one high school, seven elementary and one trade school marched from their schools to the park carrying flags made at the Washburne Trade school.

Scouts Present Colors.

Presentation of colors by Boy Scout troop No. 25 of the Chicago Boys club, songs by the girls chorus of the La Salle school, and the flag raising, directed by the Waller High ROTC featured the celebration. Theodore Kirchberg of Scout troop No. 25 led the gathering in the pledge of allegiance, and eighth grade pupils of the Schiller school sang "Thank You, America."

More than 4,000 school children attended ceremonies at Humboldt park, and similar observances were held in Bessemer, Ogden, Jackson, Washington, Garfield, Columbus, Sheridan, and Field parks. In addition all schools held assemblies and patriotic exercises.

W-G-N Program Tonight.

Flag day will be celebrated at 9 o'clock tonight on station W-G-N. The program will open with Victor Herbert's American Fantasy. Marion Claire, soprano, and Dennis Morgan, motion picture actor and singer, will participate. Morgan will lead the studio audience of 600 in the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

The Grand Army of the Republic Memorial association of Cook county will observe Flag day by holding its annual meeting at 7:30 p. m. tonight in Memorial hall, 65 East Randolph street. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

Don Rogers, district superintendent of schools in charge of textbooks, will celebrate Flag day by displaying at his home, 6293 Louise avenue, a homemade flag. Rogers, his wife, and children, Don Jr., 17, Walter, 13, Robert, 10, and Marjorie, 20, constructed the 9 by 5 foot linen flag.

GRANT REPRIEVE FOR ONE MONTH TO AUDITORIUM

Backers Will Apply for Non-Profit Charter.

The Auditorium, long enshrined in Chicago tradition, was given a new lease on life yesterday. The building, whose scheduled closing June 30 had saddened thousands of opera and theater lovers, was granted a month's respite with the strong indication that it will continue to function thereafter as a nonprofit music foundation.

The plan to keep open all divisions of the famous structure—the theater, the 10 story office building, and the hotel of 330 rooms—one the north side of Congress street between Michigan and Wabash avenues, was decided on at a meeting yesterday in the University club. Civic leaders present included John Goodridge, president of the Auditorium Building corporation, and representatives of the Greater Central District association and the Wabash Avenue District association, which sponsored the rescue movement.

Will Seek State Charter.

"After conferences with officials of the estates controling the corporation," Goodridge said, "and with appreciation of the public demand, it has been decided that the Auditorium will stay open under present arrangements until July 31.

"Tenants and guests are being notified of the extension. Meanwhile attorneys for the corporation interests are preparing a petition for a state charter to keep the Auditorium property in operation under the name of the Chicago Music foundation, a nonprofit organization."

Attorney Matthias Concannon, who will prepare the charter, said that if it is granted the tax burden on the Auditorium will be materially reduced, the levy being based on actual income rather than theoretical value. The closing of the Auditorium had been scheduled because of the property's inability to meet past due tax bills, which with penalties exceed 1 million dollars.

Promise from Assessor.

County Assessor John S. Clark notified the corporation officials early this week that the assessment could and should be reduced to a point where back taxes could be paid and current tax bills met, the reduction to be retroactive for past years.

"William Alvin Dudley, managing director of the Greater Central district association, said he believed the corporation owner interests were agreeable to reorganization of the property on a nonprofit basis. He said it had not yet been decided what money would be due these interests in the reorganization nor how the money would be raised.

Incorporators of the new foundation are Goodridge, Dudley, William F. Krahl, president of the Stevens hotel and of the central district group; Frank M. Whiston, president of the Wabash avenue group; Albert H. Wetten, real estate man; Robert Hall McCormick, chairman of the Chicago Opera company; Elmer Rich, president of the Simoniz company; Philip F. W. Peck, vice president of the Civic federation; William Schuyler Thurber, real estate man; Joseph K. Brittain, real estate man, and Wallace J. Stebbins, a director of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

BRIDGE WEIGHTS STOLEN.

The theft of 15 lead counterweights, weighing 50 pounds each from the Outer drive bridge, was reported yesterday by Harry Gathemann, city machinist inspector. Gathemann said the thieves scaled an eight foot fence to reach the weights. They were valued at $125.

ARREST TOMAN CLERK IN $8,000 TAX FUND THEFT

Arraignment Set Tuesday on Embezzle Charge.

John L. Fitzsimmons, 58 years old, 816 West 54th place, a clerk in the office of County Treasurer John Toman, was arrested while at work yesterday on a charge of embezzling more than $8,000 given him for payment of tax judgments owed by the Beardsley and Piper company, 2541 North Keeler avenue, a foundry equipment concern.

John L. Fitzsimmons.

Fitzsimmons was taken before Judge Mason S. Sullivan, who fixed his bond at $5,000. He was later freed when a professional bondsman put up that amount. He is to be arraigned Tuesday in Felony court.

Tells Story of Case.

John Phillips, assistant state's attorney, said that Fitzsimmons had told the following story:

He [Fitzsimmons] was approached in 1937 by a woman employé of the Beardsley and Piper company concerning the payment of $8,122 in judgments the county had obtained for delinquent 1932, 1934, and 1935 taxes. He told the woman he thought payment of penalties and some of the interest could be avoided but that $500 would have to be paid.

At Fitzsimmons' instructions, the woman returned Dec. 3, 1937, with the $8,122 plus $500—all in cash—and handed it over to Fitzsimmons. Three days later the company received by mail certificates of payment.

Phillips said the alleged embezzlement was discovered a week ago when sheriff's deputies went to the Beardsley and Piper company to collect the taxes under threat of attachment. The company produced its certificates of payment, which were genuine. Examination of books in the county treasurer's office disclosed, however, that a false entry had been made and later erased, Phillips said. The arrest of Fitzsimmons followed.

Gives Prosecutor's Stand.

Phillips said the state's attorney contends that the three year statute of limitations does not apply to the case because the alleged embezzlement has just been discovered.

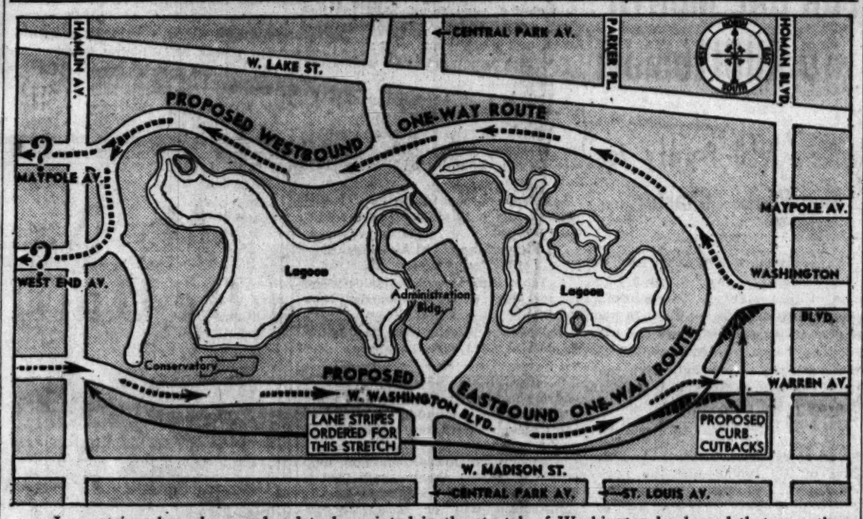
Fitzsimmons said he turned all the money over to a cashier in the treasurer's office whose name he does not remember, Phillips reported. Phillips added that prosecutors are searching for other possible cases of conversion of funds which may be uncovered by the current drive to collect delinquent taxes.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], in whose ward Fitzsimmons lives, said that he knew Fitzsimmons and understood that he has been in the county treasurer's office for 18 years. "I don't know anything about the embezzlement charge against him," McDermott added.

KILLED IN GRADE CROSSING.

Cedar Falls, Ia., June 13 [Special].—Richard Hansen, 20, Janesville, Iowa, carpenter employed here died today from injuries received when auto which he was driving was struck by a Rock Island passenger train at street crossing here.

Proposed Traffic Changes in Garfield Park



Lane stripes have been ordered to be painted in the stretch of Washington boulevard that runs thru Garfield park, as shown on this map, and the other indicated changes are to be made if proposed system of one-way streets for west side is adopted. Question marks at left indicate that either West End avenue or Maypole avenue will be the westward route.

LANES TO SPEED TRAFFIC ORDERED IN GARFIELD PARK

Funds Not Available for Straightening.

BY HAL FOUST.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, yesterday ordered lane stripes painted on the curves of Washington boulevard thru Garfield park. Further improvements to ease the way for a traffic of 47,000 automobiles a day are planned for the future.

The curves, inherited from an era when a boulevard was a pleasure drive, are a handicap to the multitude of motorists bent on getting somewhere rather than in enjoying the scenery en route. A Chicago Motor club survey found that the curves could be flattened by cutting back curbs and moving trees and shrubbery.

Greater Costs Ahead.

"The proposed straightening," said Mr. Dunham, "is desirable but is more costly than is apparent, involving electric conduits, lamp posts, and drainage sewers as well as curbs and pavements. The proposal is one of several awaiting available funds. At present our peg levy bill has been ensnared by a wrangle in the legislature.

"Furthermore, future improvement for east and west travel thru Garfield park will be influenced by any extension of the Washington-Warren one way traffic system.

"We can't carry Washington straight thru the park, as we did with Jackson boulevard a few years ago, without losing part of the lagoon and valuable trees and without interferring with a conservatory and with the old west park administration building. But the pavements can be made straighter than they are, as soon as money is available."

West bound traffic has the entire 50 foot width of Washington boulevard in approaching Garfield park. On entering the park, most of the automobiles swing south on a radius that has necessitated a bumper guard rail on the outside of curve to protect the shrubbery from being hit.

East Bound Also Affected.

Thereafter, the boulevard traffic has only a half of a 50 foot pavement in bearing to the right, west bound on a wavering course to leave the park in Washington boulevard.

East bound traffic from Washington boulevard also follows this wavering course, on half of the 50 foot pavement, before curving into Warren boulevard, where it has exclusive use of a 48 foot pavement.

SEARS-ROEBUCK GIVES $10,000 TO USO FOR MILITARY RECREATION

Sears Roebuck & Co. yesterday made the first corporate contribution to the United Service Organizations campaign in the Chicago area, a gift of $10,000. Announcement of the donation was made by Herbert J. Lorber, vice chairman of the campaign organization, who is in charge of the commerce and industry committee. The money was given directly to the Chicago campaign committee by Thomas J. Carney, president, and Gen. Robert E. Wood, chairman of the board of the company.

Swift & Co. also donated $7,000 to the fund, it was announced.

Hughston M. McBain, general chairman of the fund drive, flew to Camp Forrest yesterday to confer with Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton on the type of recreation centers most fitted for use in towns near the camp. McBain also will interview Chicagoans stationed at the camp on their wishes and recommendations in the USO program.

The Chicago campaign goal is $679,500.

FOREST SINGERS FETED; CONCERTS OPEN TOMORROW

Community sings in the Cook county forest preserves are another reason why Chicago can claim to be the hub of music in America, Dr. Edgar Nelson, choral director, said last night at a dinner in the Normandy House restaurant. At the banquet were the conductors of the 21 choirs which will appear in the fourth annual series of Chicago Tribune Sings, which will begin tomorrow afternoon in three forest preserves.

Three superintendents of forest preserve districts told the choral directors that every courtesy will be extended their groups when they appear at Caldwell, Thatcher, and Dan Ryan woods in the 5 o'clock vesper services. The superintendents are George Smith [Caldwell], Don Joyce [Thatcher], and Frank Blake [Dan Ryan].

William O'Malley, representing Clayton F. Smith, president of the Cook County Board of commissioners, said the concerts were highly appreciated by the forest preserve district and that they drew thousands of music lovers to the woods each Sunday for seven weeks.

TWO KILLED IN 1919 AUTO.

Waterloo, Ind., June 13 [Special].—Driving his 1919 Dodge touring car was a hobby to Alfred Bartholomew of Waterloo, until today. The car was smashed by a truck in a crash a mile west of here and Mrs. Bartholomew and James Van Sholck, Nutley, N. J., were killed.

AURORA AUTOIST KILLED BY TRAIN IN GENEVA CRASH

Fred C. Hodges, 31 years old, 222 South River street, Aurora, was killed yesterday when his car was hit by a North Western thru passenger train at 3d street crossing in Geneva. He was employed by a riding academy at La Fox, northwest of Aurora.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 406 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 298 were killed in Chicago where 10,447 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

Anne Bullitt Makes Her Debut in Capital Society

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Miss Anne Bullitt, 17 years old, daughter of former Ambassador William C. Bullitt, made her formal bow to society here last night at a dance given in her honor by Mrs. Frederick A. Sterling, wife of the United States minister to Sweden. Earlier yesterday, Miss Bullitt was graduated from fashionable Foxcroft school at Middleburg, Va. Mrs. Sterling had Washington's swank Sulgrave club transformed into a rose garden for Miss Bullitt's dance.

PILOT IS BLAMED IN RICKENBACKER AIRPLANE CRASH

Board Charges Failure to Check Altimeter.

Washington, D. C., June 13 [Special].—The Civil Aeronautics board in a formal report issued here today declared that an Eastern Air Lines sleeper plane crashed near Atlanta airport last Feb. 26 because the commanding pilot neglected to check the airliner's altimeters during a "blind" landing problem. Eight persons were killed and eight others injured, among them Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, Eastern's president, in the accident.

The report pinned the blame on Capt. James A. Perry, 29, the flight commander, who was killed along with two other members of the flight crew. The board also censured Eastern because the company had no routine procedure for checking controls and instruments for an "instrument letdown" such as was attempted by Perry at the time of the crash.

Flying Below Fixed Altitude.

Key to the evidence brought out in the investigation, the report stated, was the fact that the landing problem was attempted at from 800 to 900 feet below the altitude above the terrain where a normal let-down would have placed the ship. The investigators, however, found that one of the two altimeters in the airplane was .98 of an inch of pressure in error.

This one inch of pressure difference would have corresponded to 883 feet —about the amount of actual error— at the temperature of that time. The other altimeter was so manifestly in error as to indicate that it had been damaged by the crash, said the report. It was presumed by the investigators that the instrument with the one inch error was used in the landing.

The setting of the altimeters preparatory to making an instrument letdown is done in accordance with instructions from the ground. These are transmitted by radio. The ground operators of the airline gave the proper instructions to the plane. These were acknowledged correctly by one of the two pilots as proved by dictaphone records of the conversation, the report said.

Responsibility on Captain.

"It is not clear from the evidence which member of the crew received the barometric setting from Eastern's radio station at Atlanta and acknowledged it correctly," the report continued. "Nor is it clear whether the altimeter being used during the instrument approach was incorrectly set or was not functioning properly.

"However, in any event, it was the responsibility of Capt Perry to conduct it [the approach] in accordance with the highest degree of care, which certainly would include cross checking of the two altimeters to determine if both were correctly set and functioning properly."

"A substantial contributing factor was the absence of an established uniform cockpit procedure on Eastern Air Lines by which both the captain and the first pilot are required to make a complete check of the controls and instruments during landing operations."

The report added that on May 8 the board recommended to the Civil Aeronautics administration that it institute an informal investigation of operating procedures being followed by Eastern and that this investigation is still in progress. Two special committees of the senate and house also investigated the Atlanta crash but have not completed their findings.

JOE BAILEY DIES AT 80.

Keokuk, Iowa, June 13 [Special].—Joe Bailey, 80, a grocer, died at a hospital here today after a short illness. He had operated a store near the high school and was known to hundreds of children. He and his wife celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary last Christmas.

PICK PRYSTALSKI AS CHIEF JUSTICE OF CIRCUIT COURT

Circuit court judges at their annual meeting yesterday named John J. Prystalski as the new chief justice of the Circuit court and nominated Robert Jerome Dunne as chief justice of the Criminal court. Superior court judges concurred in the selection of Dunne. Criminal court judges formally elect the chief justice, but they invariably ratify the choice already made.

Judge Prystalski will succeed Judge Philip J. Finnegan during the first week of July, and Judge Dunne will succeed Judge James M. Fardy Sept. 1. Superior court judges deferred selection of a chief justice until November, but the choice will automatically be Judge Grover C. Niemeyer. A court rule provides that the judge with the shortest remaining term is named chief justice.

MR. HULL EXPLAINS TO PORTUGAL.

Mr. Hull, the secretary of state, seems to have some difficulty in convincing the government of Portugal that all is well with its possessions in Cape Verde and the Azores. Mr. Roosevelt, when he said that our Bunker Hill of tomorrow may be several thousand miles from Boston, mentioned these Portuguese islands.

When the head of a government makes pointed remarks about another country's territory, that country, particularly if it's a small one, may take alarm. Portugal replied to Mr. Roosevelt's speech by saying it was neutral and that the islands had not been the object of any threat by any other power. Portugal was, therefore, astonished not only by Mr. Roosevelt's references but by the suggestion of Senator Claude Pepper that the United States should seize them.

Mr. Hull replied with assurances that this country had no aggressive designs; but he mentioned the defense needs of the hemisphere and Portugal didn't receive his communication as being an absolute guaranty that no expansion of the American frontiers would engulf anything it possessed.

It may be a delicate matter for Mr. Hull, because when he looks it over it seems to bear resemblance to certain occupations of territory "for defense" which have been denounced by the state department as aggressions.

Mr. Hull has already taken over Greenland by arrangement with the Danish minister in Washington. The government of German occupied Denmark repudiated the agreement, but that was understandable because Denmark has a gun at its head. Mr. Hull recognizes the Danish minister as the free agent of a captive government which could not consent to an arrangement altho in its own best interest. Portugal thus far has not been occupied and its government feels that Portuguese property should not be spoken of as a prospect for occupation by a nation with which it is at peace.

There is something to be said for this point of view, but Mr. Roosevelt wanted to persuade his own fellow countrymen that they are in very grave danger many thousands of miles from their shores. If in trying to alarm Americans he also alarmed the Portuguese, Mr. Hull will have to do the best he can to square the matter.

Our secretary of state is in a more heated series of communications with the French government at Vichy, to which he has adopted a tone of stern remonstrance and admonition. Admiral Darlan, the French vice premier, unavailingly protests that France has been attacked several times by its former allies and has given no provocation for it, unless its desire to hold its empire intact is provocation. France, having lost the war, is now confronted with the necessity of some time making a peace. Its government may be less confident than either Mr. Churchill or Mr. Roosevelt of just what that peace will be.

Some Frenchmen may even perceive the possibility of a separate peace being made by the British empire on terms fairly satisfactory to it, but not including any provisions for France or any other part of Europe. Mr. Hull, in effect, forbids the French government to consult its own best interests, altho no one gave France much help to avert the military catastrophe which it itself was powerless to avert.

PVT. JAMES CROW.

Toward the close of one of his interesting stories from the southern camps John Thompson, a Tribune reporter, called attention to the fact that a considerable number of Negroes from the 6th [Chicago] corps area had been sent for training to Camp Davis, near Wilmington, N. C. Most of these young men were born and brought up in the north and are therefore having their first experience of Jim Crow laws. Needless to say, it is a distressing experience which the communities in the vicinity of Camp Davis, despite their enthusiasm for war, are doing little or nothing to relieve.

Too many of the camps have been located in the south in response to the political desires of southern congressmen, but there are still many posts in the north to which the northern colored boys could have been sent. The New Dealers talk a lot about their sympathy for Negroes, but they seldom give any evidence of it.

BILL VS. THE HON. WM.

It wasn't the Bill Knudsen of General Motors who indorsed the St. Lawrence power scheme the other day; it was the Hon. William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management. Many who had known Bill thought he would stay Bill even after he became the Hon. Wm. Many others, knowing their Washington and what happens to men who are translated to high political office, said Washington would get him and it looks as if they were right.

Mr. Knudsen went to Washington to obtain the maximum production of war materials in the minimum of time. He was chosen for the task because he was widely and justly regarded as a master smasher of bottlenecks. He has only so many skilled men to work with, only so many machines, and only so much raw material. It is the essence of his job to get the maximum of production from the limited means at his disposal.

Bill Knudsen of General Motors knows that he has no mechanics and certainly no experienced engineers to spare to design and build a power scheme which won't deliver current for many years and probably not until the war is over. He knows that if additional power is needed there are other and quicker ways of getting it. He knows that at a time when every effort is being made to find metals for tanks, guns, shells, and a score of other ordnance requirements, we have no steel and copper to waste on Mr. Roosevelt's pet projects and no machine capacity to waste in constructing turbines.

Bill knows all that and much more to the same effect, but the Hon. Wm. has nevertheless approved the project as desirable for the national defense. All that can be said for the Hon. Wm. in this connection is that he isn't the first man to have his head turned by high political office. He is only the last of a long line of them. Washington turns them out by Mr. Knudsen's own method of mass production.

JOBS FOR RELIEFERS.

State Treasurer Warren Wright was asked by Gov. Green to see what might be done about getting people off the relief rolls and back into private employment. He tried turning a group of reliefers over to private employment agencies for placement.

Out of the 90 persons for whom Mr. Wright sought jobs, 56 have landed them. Twenty-three more, he says, expect to be placed soon. Nine turned down work that was offered them, and two accepted jobs, but failed to show up.

That is an astonishingly good showing. The group was small, and it would probably be false optimism to hope that the same ratio of placements would prevail if the same process were applied to all the thousands of employable persons receiving relief.

The success of the private employment agencies in the project does not put the Illinois free employment service in any too good a light. Mr. Wright charges that the state service is falling down on the job because it doesn't go out and hunt for jobs as the private agencies do, but waits for employment requests to come in to it. Martin Durkin, whom Gov. Green has retained to date as head of the state labor department, retorts that Mr. Wright doesn't know what he is talking about.

The fact remains that the state employment agency's record for placing reliefers in jobs is far from impressive. The agency claims that it has no more obligation to place reliefers than any other jobless person. This, as we have said before, is a serious error in policy. The relief load is a serious financial drain on the state and local communities. All governmental agencies ought to cooperate to cut it to the minimum. The Wright experiment indicates that the free employment service would probably benefit by a shaking up of its methods, and perhaps of some of its personnel.

About one in six of the persons for whom jobs were found either refused them or failed to report for work. The group taking part in the experiment was too small to make this any fair indication of the number of loafers on relief, and for lack of evidence to the contrary it may be said that some of those who refused jobs were justified in doing so.

However, it is no secret that there are a certain number of loafers on the relief rolls. Private social agencies had to contend with them when they were the principal dispensers of home relief, and it is certain that their number has not decreased under the more lavish distribution of public relief.

The policy should be established that any employable person who refuses a job that he is capable of doing shall be denied further relief. There is no law by which people can be forced to work if they don't want to, but there is also no reason why the public should support them if they refuse work.

AN INSURRECTION THAT WAS NOT DISTURBED.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan in the debate on the plant seizure bill disclosed parts of a war department report on the CIO strike against the Ford company's River Rouge plant. It revealed that the picket lines were composed largely of men who were not Ford employés and that over 1,000 persons who were not employés had gained access to the plant and "had cut off power, shut off machines, and damaged equipment in general."

The report said that the persons who succeeded in penetrating the plant knew exactly how to do the most damage by wrecking key machines. Senator Vandenberg exhibited pictures of workers being slugged by the pickets and produced copies of the communist cards of some of the rioters. As usual in Michigan, the law enforcement officers did little to prevent the rioters and have done less to see that known persons were punished.

This was a typical New Deal treatment of a violent attack upon private management. Such attacks have had the sympathy and encouragement of the federal government under Mr. Roosevelt. Punishment for outrageous acts has been infrequently imposed. Protection for plant management and nonstriking workers has been infrequently given. Law enforcement has adjourned when the lawless moved in.

Attorney General Jackson had nothing to say of the Ford strike.

DON'T YOU REMEMBER——?

Every one has his favorite memory of the Auditorium, and ours is of a party we gave in the lobby, after the show, in collaboration with Guy Hardy, then the assistant manager of the house. Our idea was to entertain our friends in a way they would never forget. Opera singers, ballet dancers, chorus girls, and other glamorous creatures were drafted as atmosphere. That was in the winter of 1915, or thereabouts. Maybe the guests have forgotten about it, but the hosts are still talking. We maintain that it surpassed all the great parties of history, including the more gaudy entertainments of the Roman emperors.

Many pages of Shakespeare's life are blank, but a scholar named Thomas Whitfield Baldwin has discovered what he did on Oct. 5, 1588. He attended the execution of William Hartley, a priest, and made literary use of his impressions in "The Comedy of Errors."

This week's college commencement ceremonials bring back vague memories of our own: A circus tent on the University of Chicago campus, near the present site of Mandel hall; a sultry day, too hot for cap and gown; a violent thunderstorm while the program was in progress and numerous leaks in the tent, one of them spilling a small cataract down the neck of the orator. Then the vacant feeling, with diploma in hand and nowhere to go but out.

VERSES FOR FLAG DAY.

Red for the courage of stalwart men,
Red for the wives of the pioneers,
Sacrificing on wild frontiers,
Building a nation beyond their ken;
Red for Valley Forge blood on snow,
Red for the Alamo, honored still,
Gettysburg's heroes and San Juan Hill,
Belleau Wood and the Road to Vaux,

White for the limitless hope they gave,
Wide opportunity open to all;
Whether his talents be great or small,
Never a man is to be a slave;
White for the cotton fields, mile on mile,
White for the snow-covered mountain peaks,
Freedom from fear for the man who speaks,
Freedom to work, and worship, and smile.

Blue for the loyalty needed today,
Guarding the freedom our fathers built,
Peaceful, yet watchful, with hand on hilt
Daring to stand for our cherished way;
Blue for the lakes and the midnight skies
Spangled with planets and stars untold,
Watching and waiting as years unfold,
History's teaching must make us wise.

Never a flag in the whole wide world
Half so beautiful, fluttering free—
Half so rich in its meaning to me—
Hail to the colors today unfurled!

Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star.

Among many other things, the Auditorium theater helped to start two famous actors of the movies on their road to fame. On Sept. 1, 1907, I witnessed the opening there of "The Girl Rangers," a musical comedy. Among the performers was John Bunny, later a national figure as a funny fat man of the silent screen. A footnote to the playbill for this show tells another and more important story, thus:

"Incidental to Act I., Mr. Will Rogers, universally conceded to be the greatest rope thrower in the world, who has just returned from his European triumphs, will introduce his famous exhibition of artistic lariat manipulations."

The drama ends as life's brief play must end,
Directed by a dramatist of power—
Our God, who knows and governs every hour.
In simple form His truths immortal tend
To light our pathway and to show our end.
We love Him for His gifts of sun and shower,
The wondrous lessons in each fragrant flower.
Our actions all upon His love depend.
Of wisdom's voice we learned in classic halls
To live content until the final knell.
Life blooms afresh on passing from the walls,
Fair, hallow'd place, where memory may dwell.
The last look backward o'er, the last word falls.
Lips tell, but hearts will never breathe—farewell.

Regarding Mr. Pepys' use of the phrase, "Stoughton bottle" [June 9]:

Readers are asking for an explanation without taking the pains to consult the unabridged dictionary, which says:

"Stoughton bottle [after a Dr. Stoughton, the maker]—A bottle containing Stoughton's Elixir, a tincture of wormwood, germander, rhubarb, orange peel, cascarilla, and aloes, once widely used as a flavoring for alcoholic drinks, and as a tonic.

"To sit, stand, etc., like a Stoughton bottle: To sit, stand, etc., stolidly and dumbly."

LOCKJAW FROM NEGLECTED WOUNDS.

LONG before scientists discovered the minute forms of life which we now call bacteria, physicians knew about lockjaw. They had witnessed the convulsions and had recorded many accurate descriptions of the disease. Altho they recognized that this severe malady was preceded by a wound of some sort, they were well-nigh helpless to aid these unfortunate victims.

It was not until 1890 that the causative microbe was identified. Observing its behavior, several characteristics of the tetanus bacillus were identified—namely, that it was fond of mangled flesh and that it liked to be in the company of some "bug" such as the streptococcus or the staphylococcus. Moreover, it was found that it did not like oxygen. We are now aware of the fact that it can remain dormant within the tissues for a long time—a hundred days or more, altho such instances are rare.

From this we can understand that any scratch, cut, or puncture of the skin may plant this invader beneath the cuticle. It is so widespread and occurs in so many places—within the intestinal tracts of animals and human beings—that even the dust of roadsides may harbor it. Then, too, it can manufacture a poison which may endanger life.

Apparently these organisms growing within lacerated muscles or torn epidermis are capable of elaborating a noxious chemical which may be carried along the motor nerves to the spinal cord and the brain. There is some reason to believe that the veins and the lymph channels likewise may transport this deadly substance. At any rate, when it reaches the nervous system a dangerous illness may ensue.

The first manifestation may be a sore throat, with a feeling of tightness between the shoulder blades. This is followed by some stiffness of the neck, which is usually accompanied by a slight cough. The abdominal muscles may cramp, with shooting pains across the back.

As the ailment progresses the patient complains of inability to open the mouth fully and difficulty on attempting to swallow. Unfortunately, this gradual onset may be deceiving, as nothing out of the ordinary may be suspected. In fact, the sufferer often assumes that he has a cold or a stiff neck.

Now all of this emphasizes the importance of attention to every wound, no matter how tiny. This is especially true if the skin has been in contact with the dirt of the roadside or the barnyard. It is now a well accepted plan to administer a sizable quantity of tetanus antitoxin as a precautionary measure. But, to be completely effective, this preparation must be employed early.

Physicians associated with industry are constantly cautioning workmen to report promptly every lesion whereby these microbes could possibly gain access to the body. After cleaning and cauterizing the laceration a preventive dose of the serum is utilized. This varies from 2,000 to 5,000 units and is injected before the first dressing is applied. We must recall that the bacilli remain where they enter, altho the toxin may travel far. If we would get rid of the poison factories, therefore, we must eliminate all dead cells which harbor these germs.

Children can be protected easily. They can be rendered immune thru the use of the combined alum-precipitated toxoids of tetanus and diphtheria, which may be given at the same time. Other than some local tenderness and swelling, the reactions are few and mild.

YOU IRRITATE THEM.

REPLY.

You must be a veritable snuffbox or quite too peppery. Some individuals are highly sensitive to the slightest irritant. They are the allergic victims—not you.

CAUSE OF NEURITIS.

M. F. K. writes: In neuritis, must there always be a focus of infection?

REPLY.

Many factors may be responsible, such as a food deficiency or a toxin from an infection. This condition will yield to proper treatment after the source has been discovered.

SOME ADVICE TO HOTELS.

Oconto, Wis., June 12.—The writer notes that a Chicago hotel seeks to woo tourists from highway cabins. One suggestion is to arrange things so the tourist can dodge the hotel lobby. That's a good idea. Here are some other ideas:

Let the hotel pay its bell hops a living wage so that every time you look in their direction they won't expect a 15 cent tip. Continual hotel tipping costs the tourist on the average of $1 a day. But it aggravates him more than a dollar's worth.

Pay the porter down in the washroom a living wage so he doesn't forever pester people with that damn broom of his.

Arrange free checking of hats for your customers who go into your lunchroom to give you money for food. This continual buying back of the hat is a petty holdup business.

Put signs up in hotel elevators saying that if a man does not remove his hat so as to get it crushed when a crowded elevator admits a woman on the second floor who steps out on the third, he can still be a gentleman. Of all the fool customs this hat removing business in a hotel elevator takes the cake.

A READER.

PERILOUS R. R. CROSSINGS.

Chicago, June 9.—I wonder how much longer the people will stand for the killing and maiming of south side citizens by the Rock Island railroad along unprotected crossings between 95th street and Blue Island, in the Vincennes avenue vicinity? The railroad company seems to be able to purchase new high speed streamliners that go tearing thru unprotected territories within the city limits at a speed of 60 miles or more an hour, yet seems totally indifferent toward protecting these dangerous crossings with watchmen or even automatic gates. The crossings at 107th, 111th, 115th, and 119th streets are especially dangerous.

My 29 year old son was struck recently by a Rock Island suburban train, northbound, speeding along at 60 miles an hour, while driving his clean towel truck over the 119th street crossing. His truck was demolished and he was thrown a great distance, and, while he suffered terrible injuries, he is still alive but not out of danger.

RACINE THOMPSON.

CORRECTING BARNUM.

Chicago, July 12.—Dear Americans, war mongers, and others:

P. T. Barnum was wrong when he said there was a sucker born every minute. According to the United States bureau of census, approximately one American is born every 14 seconds. Feverishly yours,

OUR LOCAL SLAUGHTER.

Hollywood, Ill., June 10.—In Cook county alone since Jan. 1 395 people have been killed and 10,099 injured in auto accidents. And we worry about lives lost in war.

We want to stop wars; what are we going to do about this slaughter?

W. W. D.

THE WORLD'S PRIZE SAPS.

Chicago, June 12.—Your recent editorial, "Ships for Britain," was timely. We, too, have been wondering just why all this requisitioning of American vessels serving the important trade routes to South America and the orient. It, of course, is to be assumed that our laden vessels for England are not to be returned empty. Hence, we may reasonably infer that cargoes of English manufactured products will be dumped on our shores, or, possibly, vessels diverted on return move to South and Central America where such commodities will continue to compete with our own export trade. "Great Britain delivers the goods"; no doubt about it, but, we are the world's prize saps. Chicago should be interested.

This great central states territory originates over 60 per cent of our dry cargo exports, yet our chambers of commerce, senators, and representatives, all of them, are looking out of the window.

ANCIENT MARINER.

ASKS FOR A PIECE OF PARITY.

Chicago, June 13.—Now that the farmers have secured parity prices via the federal deficit the next step should be to give parity wages to the 30 or 40 million unorganized workers. Let the federal government subsidize all wages below $50 per week [or whatever parity calls for] up to that figure. Why should the unorganized workers of America get nothing but the higher taxes and the higher prices involved in affording political workers and the groups that keep them in office "our way of life"? Put us to a vote and see how many of us will turn down the offer.

Give us all some semblance of consideration in the distribution of the federal deficit and we will all see things the same way.

G. Y.

WANTS NO PART OF IT.

Chicago, June 12.—By all means let us stay out of this "Union Now" business; we want no part of it. Let's save what is left of this republic as it was given to us in 1787 by a people who knew more about international intrigue and the problems that confronted the world than we know today. Let us always bear in mind that these early founders not only understood the problems, but in drafting the constitution provided an instrument for us to follow so that we could remain secure from foreign double-dealing and intrigue.

ON MONTROSE CAR LINE.

Chicago, June 13.—I note the traction company is contemplating an 8 cent fare. Well, I could swallow it if the Montrose car line could be improved so we patrons would not have our daylights shaken out of us or be thrown against the seats causing bruises when trying to walk to or from the door.

This car line is a disgrace to the city and an insult to the patrons. Buses from Broadway to Narragansett avenue would be greatly appreciated by the northwest siders.

DISGUSTED RIDER.

FINAL WORD ON "O. K."

Chicago, June 10.—In answer to O. P. Sammons' version of O. K. In the new, all-American dictionary now about half completed by University of Chicago boys, O. K. is really an abbreviation for "oll korrect." And the earliest reference to it appeared in the now defunct Boston Transcript in April, 1840. The term itself is derived from the Choctaw Indian term "oke" which means "it is certain" or "it is correct."

A. BENNETT JR.

MARCH OF THE MAD HATTERS.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 5.—As a profoundly dissatisfied citizen and a former newspaper man, I have been following with the keenest interest the marvelous campaign of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE against the feebleness of the New Deal setup in both domestic and foreign affairs. My attention was particularly attracted to your recent use of front page blackface boxes on the war issue—a device with which I was somewhat instrumental in winning political campaigns when I worked in the newspaper field.

Cannot something be done to stop the march of the mad hatters, and restore America to the American way of life? I believe it can be. As a lifelong Democrat until the advent of the New Deal in action, I feel profoundly that something must be done and want to have a part in doing it. Pitiless publicity, pitiless exposure of the defects and rottenness of the New Deal in action undoubtedly is the principal means to doing something about it. THE TRIBUNE deserves the appreciation of the nation for the part you are taking in such an exposure.

THE SOKOL CARRIES ON.

Cicero, Ill., June 13.—The day of the great American Sokol Slet is drawing near—June 29 in Soldiers' field.

Since Germany's occupation of so many countries in Europe, the Sokol organization has sadly suspended in those countries, and, until the day when freedom and joy shall once again be restored, America carries on. The spirit of the Sokols remains alive and you shall see at Soldiers' field a spectacle of such patriotic inspiration as shall never be forgotten.

To see thousands of performers—men, women, and children—from all over the United States, performing as one individual, is truly an inspiration for every one of us.

Come all to see this gorgeous display of patriotism, gymnastics, and calisthenics, the like of which may not be seen again for a long time to come. Many famous persons from all over these United States as well as from foreign countries will be present so I urge all Americans to be present also.

PROPERTY CONVEYANCE.

Chicago, June 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—To create a joint tenancy in real estate, would appreciate your advising which set of deeds you would suggest using. Warranty and quit claim, two quit claim or two warranty. Have spoken to different attorneys and each has a different opinion, one using the warranty and quit claim, and the other the two quit claim.

M. S.

On the conveyance from the present owner to a neutral third party we do not see any importance to the question. On the conveyance from the neutral party to the respective joint tenants it would seem reasonable to use a quit claim deed since there is no reason why the outsider should warrant the title.

A quit claim deed conveys such title as the grantor may have. In addition, a warranty deed carries an undertaking by the grantor to remedy possible defects in the title, but it is not wise to rely on such warranties. The important question is whether the title conveyed is clear and the grantee should employ an attorney to make sure of this.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 23.

1. Which one of these seas does not exist? Red Sea Green Sea Yellow Sea Black Sea.
2. A guffaw would most likely come from a Taxi Driver Debutante Deaf Mute Opera Star.
3. When steel girders come from the mills, they usually wear a protective coating of paint which is colored White Green Orange Blue.
4. Many people feel that the decline of once strong nations occurs because they allow "banana oil" to become their chief national lubricant in place of Alemite Tung Oil Elbow Grease Ambergris.
5. How many spoons are on the right side of your plate at a formal dinner? 1 2 3 4.
6. The poetry of motion and rhythmic precision demonstrated by a double play combination on a professional baseball diamond, thrills thousands of Americans probably as much as skilful fingering of piano keys. But there are many other similarities in technical terms between baseball and music. You deserve five points if you can select the term below which is not employed in both music and baseball.

	Baseball.	Music.

SUPREME COURT REJECTS ATTACK ON PAROLE LAW

Refuses to Halt Action Under New System.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 13.—Advocates of the new parole reform law—Gov. Green, who originated it, and the legislature, which passed it—won the first round with opponents today when the Illinois Supreme court refused to declare the act invalid before it becomes effective July 1.

Attorneys said the court's action, however, does not close the door to further attacks on the measure after it becomes law.

The court denied, two days after its filing, a mandamus petition challenging the constitutionality of the forthcoming law recently signed by the governor. Filed by Henry Stefany of Chicago, as a taxpayer, the petition sought to prevent Cook County Criminal court judges from recommending prison terms under the provisions of the bill.

Permits Advisory Sentences.

As amended by the Green-Rennick bill—so called because of its sponsorship by the governor and his house floor leader, F. W. Rennick [R., Buda]—the law, after July 1, will give judges the right to make minimum and maximum advisory recommendations, within the outline of the indeterminate sentence act, which cannot be overruled by the parole board save by a vote of at least four of its five members, plus the approval of the director of public safety.

Stefany contended that this authority to judges conflicted with the powers of the parole board, but the Supreme court, in almost record time, refused to consider his plea.

It was also contended that the Green administration bill establishing the department of public safety, effective July 1, was unconstitutional because the revised parole law is linked with the new parole board.

Attacked as Indefinite.

Stefany insisted that the new law is invalid for "indefiniteness, uncertainty, and by virtue of uncontroled discretion vested in the division of corrections and in the director of public safety."

Heads of the division of corrections will comprise the five man parole board after July 1. They will hold the posts of superintendents of prisons, paroles, supervision of parolees, and crime prevention, and state criminologist. The present seven man board will cease to exist as a state agency.

Neither of Stefany's contentions brought action from the Supreme court.

ORLANDO DRAWS ONE TO 10 YEARS FOR VOTE FRAUD

Sam Orlando.

Sam Orlando, Democratic precinct captain, was sentenced yesterday by Judge John F. Bolton in Criminal court to serve from 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary for vote frauds in the 1939 judicial election. Judge Bolton overruled a motion for a new trial before pronouncing sentence but allowed Orlando to remain at liberty on a $5,000 bond, pending appeal, which must be filed within 90 days.

Orlando, who was convicted on May 23, had been tried twice before in the Criminal court and acquitted both times. The first trial—for vote fraud—was in December, 1939. Investigation by state's attorney's police after the not guilty verdict brought to light evidence that the jury had been bribed.

Orlando was indicted with his attorney, George Crane; John Howe, a suspended state policeman, and James Creed, superintendent of city dumps. The trial also resulted in acquittal, the jurors stating afterward that they were unimpressed by the state's chief witness, an ex-convict.

STRANGER PICKET BAN IS VOIDED BY STATE HIGH COURT

The Illinois Supreme court, reversing a ruling made two years ago, yesterday followed the lead of the United States Supreme court in declaring that labor unions have the right to picket business houses peacefully, even tho such establishments are not involved in direct employer-employé disputes.

The Illinois court reversed a Cook county Superior court order and directed the lower court to modify an injunction restraining the AFL Milk Wagon Drivers' union from picketing 57 Chicago stores in an attempt to unionize truck drivers who supplied the stores with milk.

In 1939 the Illinois court found that such so-called "stranger picketing" was illegal. Yesterday the court described a recent opinion of the United States Supreme court, holding stranger picketing legal, as presenting a new view of the constitutional right of free speech. The decision of the United States Supreme court, handed down last Feb. 10, permitted an AFL local to picket a Chicago beauty shop as a means of "peacefully persuading" employés of the shop to join the union.

Army Maneuvers Itself Out of 56 Nice, Fresh Pies!

With the Army in Tennessee, June 13 (AP).—Somewhere in the Tennessee war maneuver area are 56 uneaten pies and 30 disappointed soldiers. The soldiers, of New York's 106th Field Artillery, ordered the pies from a farmhouse near their camp. They received unexpected orders to move many miles away. They had paid for the pies, but they wouldn't wait for them to finish baking.

Named in Suit

OLYMPE BRADNA.

Hollywood, Cal., June 13 [Special].—Olympe Bradna, screen actress, today filed a general denial to charges in a plagiarism suit recently brought against her and Paramount Pictures, Inc., by John Ardizona, asserted to have once been the voice teacher of the film star.

In his petition Ardizona said he gave the actress a manuscript and that the company later used the material in the production of "Night of Nights" without paying him or giving him credit. He asks $150,000 damages.

In her answer Miss Bradna states that she remembers that Ardizona gave her a manuscript entitled "The Bird On the Flying Trapeze," and that she was to read it and nothing more. She declared she read the manuscript and had it for about three days. She denies that the Ardizona story was plagiarized. The company also denied the charge.

IERC SUPPORTS NEW JOB HUNT FOR RELIEFERS

Hears Attack on State Employment Service.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday threw its support behind State Treasurer Warren Wright's plan to find jobs for reliefers thru private relief agencies after a three hour debate had probed the weaknesses of the present job getting setup—the Illinois state employment service.

Wright, who is also a member of the commission, explained the working details of his plan. The commissioners voted to ask an opinion from Attorney General George Barrett as to whether the IERC can legally assist the project or whether additional legislation is necessary.

No Work, No Relief.

Under Wright's plan, already tested by an experiment with 250 reliefers, each physically capable person on the relief rolls would be interviewed and helped to find a job. Any one refusing to work would be refused relief.

The private employment agencies would charge a fee of $7.50—approximately actual cost—for each placement made. The fee would be payable 30 days after the reliefer had taken the job, presumably by the commission.

"Our plan is to reduce relief costs by finding reliefers jobs," Wright said. "We're set up to do a job the ISES hasn't been able to do. We need no social workers or salaried officers—just practical men."

George J. Crawley, chairman of the executive committee of the Illinois board of private employment agencies and a member of Gov. Green's committee on unemployment of which Wright is chairman, said there are 19,000 jobs available at employment agencies in Chicago now.

Promise to Give Action.

"We can give action, because that's our business," Crawley said on behalf of the agencies. "We regard our clients as merchandise and we do all we can to sell them to the employer—something that certainly can't be said for the state employment service."

Out of the 250 persons sent to the agencies in the experiment, 75 received steady jobs, 50 are being considered, and the others either couldn't or wouldn't work, he said.

The attitude of private industry toward the plan was presented by Paul Whaley, production manager of the Chicago plant of the Westinghouse Electric company.

"Industry wants to reduce relief costs and taxes," he told the commission, "and I recommend this plan of Wright's.

Shoe on Wrong Foot.

"In the last six months my company has obtained only 42 workmen from the ISES, despite frequent calls to them. But I hold the shoe is on the wrong foot—the employment service should be calling us, asking us if we can use so many men qualified to do such and such.

"They [the state employment service] don't present us with a catalog of men available, explaining the workers' qualifications. Perhaps the service doesn't know what those qualifications are.

"And I might add that we've found many good workmen who were once on relief—men who can hold their own with any one. We'd rather give a job to a man on relief than to a man who isn't, but so far we've had little chance."

Other discussion disclosed that the state service keeps no record of whether its enrollees are on relief, that its placement figures include workers who found their own jobs and even an odd job is counted as a placement.

Senate Committee O. K.'s $81,115,000 Naval Works

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—The senate naval affairs committee approved bills today which would authorize appropriations totaling $81,115,000 for naval works. The measures already have been approved by the house. Among the authorizations in the bills were: Expansion of naval training station, Great Lakes, Ill., $1,265,000; expansion of naval training station at San Diego, Cal., $1,440,000;

FEDERAL RADIO BODY ACCUSED OF FAVORITISM

Industry Welcomes Quiz, Senators Told.

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Mark Ethridge told a senate committee today that the radio broadcasting industry was willing to "risk life or death" in a broad congressional investigation of the federal communications commission and its proposed new rules for chain broadcasting.

Ethridge, general manager of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal and Times, is a former president of the National Association of Broadcasters.

In indorsing a congresional investigation of the FCC, he told the senate interstate commerce committee that he knew of three instances where the agency had violated its own principles in behalf of "friends of this administration."

Cites Three Instances.

The three instances, he said, involved radio stations at Houston, Tex., in which Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator was interested; a clear channel grant for a Boston radio station; and what he called the 'Winston-Salem" case.

Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] immediately demanded that Ethridge present all details and facts on these cases and other matters of 'political pull," but the witness insisted that the senate committee should order an inquiry.

"This isn't complete," Tobey shouted. "This isn't getting down to brass tacks. Damn this stuff. We can't have half truths and beat around the barn."

The senator then told Ethridge that he would have to mark his testimony "important if true."

"You are entitled to your own opinion," the witness replied.

Proposes Revision of Laws.

This exchange came during testimony on a proposal by Senator Wallace H. White [R., Me.] that proposed FCC regulations for chain broadcasting be held up while the senate conducted an investigation looking to a possible revision of all present radio laws.

Chairman Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] said he agreed with Ethridge, other witnesses, and Senators on the committee that present radio laws should be revamped but questioned the wisdom of delaying the FCC chain broadcasting regulations meanwhile.

Wheeler said it was wrong for congress to set up an agency to control the railroads, radio or any other field and then hold up the agency's regulations because the industry protested.

Ethridge testified that this was one of the few times when an industry had come to congress and requested an investigation while the federal agency, set up to control it, opposed such action.

Tells of Houston Cases.

Ethridge said he did not believe there "was any corruption involved" in the Houston radio cases but added that the stations were owned by Jones or newspapers in which the cabinet member was interested. Ethridge said two of these stations were granted increases in power by the FCC after that agency had ordered an inquiry into newspaper ownership and operation of broadcasting stations.

"Was that political pull?" Tobey broke in.

"It was not too remote from it," Ethridge replied.

WIFE OF SLAYER TELLS OF ILLICIT LOVE FOR VICTIM

Details of her illicit romance with her husband's business partner were recounted before a Criminal court jury yesterday by Mrs. Edythe Lindner, mother of two children. She testified as a defense witness for her husband, Bernard Lindner, 38 years old, who is on trial before Judge Joseph A. Graber for the murder of Albert Neiman.

Mrs. Edythe Lindner.

A smartly dressed brunette, Mrs. Lindner admitted numerous secret meetings with Neiman, who was shot and killed by her husband during a quarrel in a lawyer's office growing out of attempts to solve the love triangle.

She said Neiman had a key to her apartment and used it on several occasions while her husband was at work in a Downers Grove liquor store. Neiman's last visit to her apartment, she said, was less than a month before the shooting. Lindner is expected to take the stand today in his own defense.

Defy Superstition

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Shirley H. Haran, age 20, who was awarded order for temporary alimony against husband she said is superstitious.

The only Friday the 13th of the year passed yesterday with little evidence that luck was worse than usual. For some, it was better.

True, superstition kept visitors at the marriage license bureau down to a smaller figure than usual, but Alvin Vraney, 39 years old, and Miss Mabel Schlei, 27, were so little perturbed by 13th worries that they came here all the way from Milwaukee to be married.

Mrs. Shirley Haran, 20, a model, of 5644 Division street, who told Judge Joseph Sabath that her husband, Thomas, 23, is superstitious, took advantage of his disinclination to come to court on the 13th by getting an order for $20 a week temporary alimony and support for two children. She also reinstated a divorce bill which she dropped last August when she and her husband became reconciled after he was hurt in an automobile accident.

'GOON' CASE JURY DISMISSED; CAN'T AGREE ON ATTACK

Judge Jay A. Schiller yesterday dismissed a Municipal court jury when it failed to agree after three and one-half hours of deliberation on charges of labor terrorism against William Bibby, business agent for local 27 of the Garage Helpers, Chauffeurs and Taxicab Drivers' union. The court set July 8 for a new trial.

Bibby in testifying earlier in the day denied he slugged Furlin Thomas, employé of a garage at 1240 Morse avenue, during a dues collecting visit. He said he "pushed" Thomas only after the latter began to berate him.

Thomas had testified previously that Bibby beat him when he complained about paying dues to a union that "had done nothing for him." Edward Brown, colored, a former employé in the garage, who had told police he saw the slugging, changed his story when he got on the stand. He asserted he merely saw Thomas fall against an automobile. Conviction on the assault charge carries a maximum penalty of $100 fine.

THE BEACH GUARD IS FLIRTPROOF—IF GIRLS BEHAVE!

Final tests were given at North avenue beach house yesterday to select 200 "flirtproof" life guards for duty at 13 beaches and 52 outdoor pools under Chicago Park district supervision this summer. There were 450 applicants, most of them college students. The guards earn $100 a month from July 1 thru Labor day.

Joe Mansfield, supervising captain of guards, admitted that while it was highly desirable that guards keep their eyes on their work instead of on the girls, it was practically impossible to achieve 100 per cent results.

"A guard is human, after all," he said, "and if a pretty girl starts hanging around and pestering him, what can he do? There will always be some beach romances."

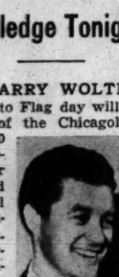
FLAG DAY SALUTE ON CHICAGOLAND HOUR OVER W-G-N

Cast and Audience to Join in Pledge Tonight.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A salute to Flag day will open the broadcast of the Chicagoland hour from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system. Victor Herbert's "American Fantasy" will be presented by the W-G-N orchestra and chorus in tribute to the flag. The entire cast and audience will join Dennis Morgan, motion picture and concert tenor, who is to be the guest headliner, and Marion Claire, feminine star of the show, in the Pledge to the Flag.



Dennis Morgan with beard grown on 2-day fishing trip.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be speaker.

Old Tunes to be Presented.

Another feature of the show will be the presentation of a group of century-old tunes just brought to light in a Chicago attic. The 100 year old music was discovered recently in an old brick dwelling on West Delaware place. F. McK. Wills, a commercial artist who had just bought the place, found more than 100 old songs while exploring the premises. Charles Field, his brother-in-law, brought the music to W-G-N.

Producer William A. Bacher has selected four of these numbers for presentation under the title "One Hundred Years Ago." Earle Wilkie and the chorus will interpret them. Henry Weber directs the orchestra and Bob Trendler the chorus.

Morgan recently completed the new picture, "Affectionately Yours," in which he is starred with Merle Oberon.

The Complete Program.

The complete program:

"American Fantasy".....Herbert
Orchestra and chorus.
"My Name Is Mimi" ["La Boheme".....Puccini

Attilio Baggiore, regularly featured on the Chicagoland hour, will make a guest appearance on the Pageant of Melody at 9:30 p. m. Monday. He will return to the Chicagoland hour next Saturday.

WPA APPROPRIATION OF $885,905,000 IS APPROVED BY HOUSE

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—A relief appropriation of $885,905,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, calling for a 41 per cent reduction in WPA rolls, was passed by the house today and sent to the senate.

The fund, $95,000 less than President Roosevelt requested, would provide WPA employment for an estimated 1,000,000 persons, compared with an average of 1,700,000 this year and 1,300,000 this month.

The bill was passed by a voice vote.

JULIANA GIVEN DEGREE IN LAW; SEES 'VICTORY'

Boston, Mass., June 13 (AP).—After receiving an honorary degree of doctor of laws at Mount Holyoke college today, Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands was tendered a reception tonight at the late Mrs. Jack Gardner's palace, now a museum.

The Dutch room, containing four Rembrandts among other examples of Netherlands art, was used in the ceremony. Six hundred prominent persons met the princess and the Prince Consort Bernhard.

In accepting the degree from Mount Holyoke, Princess Juliana asserted her countrymen stood unfalteringly "against the most ruthless oppressor the world has ever known," but that "final and complete victory would be won." She predicted that a "new world" would arise, "a better world for all."

H. S. Hart, Railway Car Builder, Leaves $500,000

The will of Harry Stillson Hart of Barrington, a railway car manufacturer who died May 27, was admitted to record yesterday by Probate Judge Martin C. Decker in Waukegan. The petition asking that the will be probated estimates the estate's value at $400,000 in personal and $100,000 in real estate. Beneficiaries under various trust arrangements are the widow, Zalome; three daughters, Mrs. Miriam Harmon, Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. Elizabeth Bateman, and Mrs. Pauline Smith, and a sister, Mrs. Pauline Evans.

Actress Tallulah Bankhead Receives Divorce in Reno

Reno, Nev., June 13 (AP).—Tallulah Bankhead, stage and screen actress, received a divorce today from John R. Emery on her charge of "cruelty, entirely mental in character." Divorce proceedings were brief and private. The Emerys were married in Jasper, Ala., in August, 1937, and they had no children. Demetrios Vilan, New York stage producer, who obtained a divorce at Carson City, Nev., three weeks ago, was the actress' frequent companion until he returned to New York last week.

Horse Show Season Opens in Hinsdale

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE outdoor horse show season opens today when the 12th annual Hinsdale show will have its first performance. There will be another tomorrow. The show will be given on one of the Oakbrook Polo club's six fields at York road and Twenty-ninth street. Both performances will start at 9 o'clock and will run straight thru with no intermissions for luncheon. This does not mean, however, that the participants and spectators will go hungry, for a commissary committee will serve food and liquid refreshments on the grounds. This, incidentally, will help to swell the proceeds of the show which will go, as usual, to the Infant Welfare society of Hinsdale.

Walter P. Saunders, president of the Horse Show association, is to be the announcer and judging will be Mrs. Robert Lee Henry of New York, William J. Cunningham of Bixby, Okla., and Christopher Wadsworth of Kenmore, N. Y. Mrs. Henry is quite young to be an accredited judge as she is only 23.

Three Girls to Receive First Judging Training.

Three young Chicago girls, all about 18, will have their first training in judging today. Lucille Lorber is to judge in the saddle class, Nancy Miller in the hunter, and Paddy Price in the equitation. Their decisions will not determine to whom the ribbons will go, but they will be checked with the judges'. All three girls are taking part in the show. Lucille is the daughter of the Herbert J. Lorbers of Glenview, Nancy is a daughter of Mrs. William Miller and the late Dr. Miller of Chicago, and Paddy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McC. Price of Hinsdale.

An innovation at the show will be a field where youngsters who tire of watching the events in the ring can take pony rides. Tonight the Theodore A. Mohlmans, the Eugene T. Scotts, and Lieut. Col. P. Wilson Evans will give a cocktail party and buffet supper at the Oakbrook club.

Dr. Arthur D. Bissell and Bride to Visit Chicago.

The many friends of Dr. Arthur D. Bissell are looking forward to seeing him and his bride when they visit in Chicago this month. They arrive from their home in Santa Barbara next Thursday and will be here until the following Wednesday, June 25, when they will depart for a visit in Mrs. Bissell's old home, Philadelphia. She was Miss Laura Smith until their marriage last September. She is the stepdaughter of Mrs. Albert L. Smith of Long Island, who was the former Mrs. Lawrence Viles of Chicago.

Dr. Bissell's sister, Mrs. Paget Cady, and Mr. Cady are giving a cocktail party at their East Division street apartment for the visitors on Friday. The Elliott Donnelleys are giving a dinner at their home in Lake Forest on Saturday night and the J. Beach Clows, who also live in Lake Forest, are entertaining at luncheon on Sunday. On Monday Dr. Bissell's mother, Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell, is inviting some of her friends to her Astor street home to meet her son's wife.

Three Parties Being Given for Bride-to-Be Today.

There will be three parties today for Miss Katherine Ann Wenter, who is to be married to Gilbert B. McIntosh on June 21. Miss Mary Evelyn Cleary is giving a luncheon, Miss Nadine Kinney and Miss Betty Allen are giving a handkerchief shower, and George O'Brien is giving a dinner.

Mrs. John A. McGuire and her mother, Mrs. Frank A. Lagorio, are planning a personal shower for Tuesday. The spinster dinner will be given on Wednesday at the Kenilworth home of Mr. McIntosh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. McIntosh, and the bridal dinner will be given the next night at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Frank Wenter Jr., in Wilmette. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh Jr. will entertain on the eve of the wedding.

Miss Dorothy Brown will entertain at cocktails tomorrow in Winnetka for Miss Mary Wood and John Willard Marshall, who will be married on June 28 in Christ church, Winnetka.

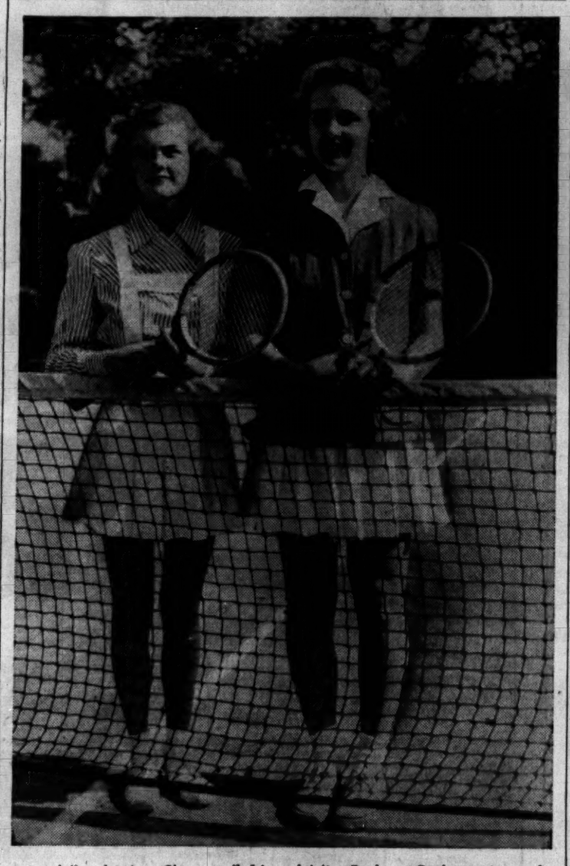
Miss Patricia Austin and Renslow Drew Sherer, who will have a dress rehearsal for their own forthcoming marriage when the former's sister, Barbara, is married today to Robert Lake Foote, will be special guests tomorrow at a tea given by Mr. Sherer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Renslow Parker Sherer of Highland Park.

Evanston Junior League Has Housewarming, Exhibit.

Mrs. Philip C. Biggert, Mrs. Oliver M. Babcock and Rosemary Irwin yesterday won the three grand prizes in the Evanston Junior league's housewarming and art exhibit at Grosse Pointe lighthouse. They took top honors in the handcraft, flower arrangements and children's divisions, respectively.

Other prize winners were Miss Shirley Garnett, Mrs. E. M. Tourtelot Jr., Mrs. G. Owen Fairweather, Mrs. Robert L. Elliott Jr., Mrs. Edward Cullen, Miss Florence Barry, Mrs. William H. Montgomery, Mrs. Edward Walter, Mrs. Frederick Boulton, Mrs. B. Morton Hair, Mrs. John W. Taylor Jr., Mrs. F. Scammon Barry, Mrs. William L. Sennott Jr., Mrs. Stuart Ball, Robin Bentley, and Carolyn Coffield.

Players to Be Spectators



Miss Jo Ann Shorney (left) and Miss Barbara Barlow, pictured here on the courts of the River Forest Tennis club, will be among the spectators for the National Clay Courts championship matches which open today at the club, to be continued thru June 22.

Rose Chatfield Taylor to Wed This Afternoon

Miss Rose Chatfield Taylor, daughter of the undersecretary of commerce and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield Taylor of Chicago, will be married this afternoon to Frank Goodnow MacMurray, son of the United States ambassador to Turkey and Mrs. John Van Antwerp MacMurray of Baltimore. The ceremony will take place in Washington, D. C., with only the families and relatives and closest friends of the bride and bridegroom present. A large reception will follow in Anderson house, the former home of the late Larz Anderson, which he left to the Society of the Cincinnati for its national headquarters.

Miss Taylor will be attended by her sister, Mrs. John Marshall Kernochan of Waltham, Mass., the former Miss Adelaide Chatfield Taylor, as matron of honor; Miss Lois MacMurray, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor, and eight bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Orr of Chicago; Miss Katherine Whitaker of Cincinnati; Miss Camilla White of Boston; Miss Mary Achilles of Schenectady, N. Y., and Miss Nancy Glover, Miss Anne Barry, Miss Georgianna Flather, and Miss Jessie Kauffman, all of Washington. George Dart of Philadelphia is the best man and the ushers include John King of Lake Forest, Peter Dean and Hugh Latham of New York, Paul Metcalfe of Providence, John Moss of Philadelphia, and Keith Merrill Jr., E. Brooke Lee Jr., Hugh Robinson, cousin of the bridegroom, and Hobart Chatfield Chatfield-Taylor II., brother of the bride, all of Washington.

The Edwin C. Austins are taking no chances on the vagaries of the weather man today. If it rains this afternoon they will move the wedding reception for their daughter, Barbara, and Robert L. Foote to the Skokie Country club from their Glencoe home, where they expect to receive in the garden. The wedding is taking place at 4:30 o'clock in the Glencoe Union church, the Rev. Douglas Cornell officiating, assisted by the bridegroom's uncle, the Rev. Rovert Foote of Westport, Conn.

Mr. Foote is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Foote of Charlottesville, Va., who are here for the wedding, as are most of the members of his family. Gordon Foote of Cincinnati is to be best man. His wife will be matron of honor, and Miss Sally Foote will be among the bridesmaids.

Miss Patricia Austin, who is engaged to be married to Renslow D. Sherer, will be maid of honor. Elizabeth Austin, Miss Mary Louise Burgess, Miss Nancy Blaine, Miss Dorothy Wieboldt, Mrs. Robert M. Hatch of Boston, Miss Markell Brooks of St. Paul, and Miss Sheila Harrah of Mount Kisco, N. Y., will be bridesmaids. Lindsey Pierce, the bride's cousin, will be flower girl.

Ushers will be John R. Foote of Charlottesville, Mr. Sherer, Ernest Palmer Jr., Richard Gilbert, John W. Baird, Lars Bengston, and Stephen Keeler of Minneapolis; Ben Roth of St. Louis, and Oswald G. Villard Jr. of New York.

Miss Jane Reid Canby, daughter of Mrs. Katharine Vincent Canby of Lake Forest, and Lieut. James L. W. MacRae will be married at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Lake Forest home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore. The Glores and Mrs. Canby are good friends as are Miss Frances Glore and the bride, whose father is Lloyd Canby of Chicago.

Lieut. MacRae, who just has been graduated at the Virginia Military institute, is the son of Dr. Cameron MacRae of Shanghai, China. He will take his bride to Fort Sill after a wedding trip. Miss Canby attended St. Margaret's school in Virginia and the University of Cincinnati.

Miss Alice Leland and Lyman McBride will be married at 4 o'clock in the chapel of Christ church, Winnetka, with a reception following at the Winnetka home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leland. Mrs. Gordon Haverkampf and Joan McBride, 11 year old daughter of the best man, John H. McBride, will be the bride's attendants. Ushering will be Emmons Bryant Jr. and Van Houten Neefus of New York, Stewart Strong of Hudson, O.; George Edwards, Everett Mills, and James S.

N. U. Bestows Honors on Sons and Daughters

Class day and baccalaureate services were observed yesterday and last night on the Evanston campus by 1,989 graduates of Northwestern university.

Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, speaking on "Life's Challenges," was the first baccalaureate speaker to appear in Cahn auditorium of the new Scott hall. Following the address, the seniors were welcomed by more than 2,000 alumni returned for commencement week-end.

At this meeting merit awards were presented to alumni who have done distinguished work in their communities and reflected credit on the university. Among those who received the rewards are Edgar Bergen, radio ventiloquist, who appeared without his dummy, Charlie McCarthy; Dr. James L. Lardner, retiring professor of public speaking; Charles O. Randall, Chicago attorney; Carl H. Bauer, director of the Public Works administration in Illinois; Charles W. Patterson, former register of the medical school; Ralph Burke, chief engineer of the Chicago subway; Tiffany Blake, former editorial writer of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Frank Smothers, foreign news writer for the Chicago Daily News.

Awards for service to the alumni association will go to 11 Chicagoland alumni. They are: Dr. Hugo Fisher, Gen. Nathan William MacChesney, and Joseph E. Smiley of Chicago; Thomas A. Harwood, Miss Elizabeth Lewis, Mrs. Paul Morrison, C. J. Luther, Walter D. Warriek, and Mrs. I. A. Smothers, all of Evanston; Mrs. E. C. Waggoner of Elgin, and Arthur T. McIntosh of Kenilworth.

At the class day exercises of the law school in Lincoln hall Bishop Bernard J. Sheil spoke and Dean Emeritus John H. Wigmore, presented certificates to students elected to the Order of the Coif, law honorary society. Those who received them are Robert A. Sprecher, 5520 Glenwood avenue; John H. Overbeck Jr., 6017 North Maplewood avenue; Jack Jacobs, 2910 Pine Grove avenue, and Thomas Francis Geraghty Jr., 1325 Astor street, all of Chicago; William M. Trumbull, 610 North Sheridan road, Highland Park; Paul Munroe Hupp, 440 South Kensington avenue, La Grange, Ill., and Charles A. Jennings, Little Rock, Ark.

The annual alumni parade will be held on Sheridan road at 11:30 a. m. today, and at 12:30 p. m. the annual alumni luncheon will be addressed by President Franklyn B. Snyder and Edgar Bergen. Genevieve Forbes Herrick, journalist and chairman of the class of 1916 will preside. At 5 o'clock the 83d annual commencement ceremonies will be held in Deering meadow. Dr. Malcom William Wallace, principal of the University college of the University of Toronto, will deliver the principal address.

Stage Note

Originally scheduled to close tonight, "Accent on Youth," the comedy at the Selwyn theater, has extended its run another two weeks thru Saturday night, June 28. The production, starring Sylvia Sidney and Luther Adler, has found itself increasingly popular during the last week—sufficient to warrant a longer stay. It has also been announced that Kevin McCarthy of the supporting cast has just become engaged to Augusta Dabney, who was seen here last year as Ann Rutledge in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

Good Morning!

Here's hilarious slapstick after the manner of the old Keystone comedies introducing Harold Lloyd as a picture producer—and an able one.

THE GIRL—Lucille Ball—is engaged to THE GOB—George Murphy—when she is hired to become secretary to THE GUY—Edmond O'Brien . . . The girl and the guy become mutually interested, tho hardly aware of the fact that they are slowly but surely falling in love . . . The guy, it must here be said, is, at the time the story opens, the fiancé of a very creme de la creme damsel—Marguerite Chapman.

THE GIRL has very definite objections to tattooing. THE GOB'S great ambition is to be tattooed . . .

There are street brawls, restaurant encounters, an eventful meeting in an opera box. In fact there are deluges of thises and thats which leave the onlooker breathless, merry, and bewildered. All paths lead to the altar where THE GIRL, finally set to wed THE GOB, finds herself encumbered with THE GUY—and what to do about it?

The film will answer that question for you.

You'll enjoy the trio, Ball, Murphy, and O'Brien, and find yourselves intrigued with action and dialog as put over by other members of a swell comedy cast.

Excellent photography and settings accent the piece which I recommend to the fan who likes to go lazybrain in the summer.

[You and I both!]

See you tomorrow.

MOVIE CLOSEUP

Well—we drove ourselves in. We had our windshields insured against lingering raindrops by some preparation deftly applied by a handsome service man. . . . We parked our left tires over a grating thru which—later—came piped sound from the picture being shown on the huge outdoor screen. . . . We ate ice cream and drank cokes and were told to put a white card in our wind shield if our car needed servicing and then we saw—"The Trial of Mary Dugan"—which I had seen before. But, shucks, I didn't care! I loved the whole streamlined performance. . . .

Now about this new "Drive In" theater at Waukegan and Golf roads—just west of Evanston: The lot it's on covers 20 acres. . . . The screen is 10 times larger than the average silver sheet. . . . You can come in when you please and leave when you want, and your car is parked on an angle that permits back-seaters to see as well as front-seaters. . . . You can laugh as hard as you like without disturbing your neighbor and you can give the show hill-billy without causing any commotion. . . . And the baby can raise any sort of Cain he wants to—before falling happily off to sleep in the fresh air—without sending poor Mom and Pop out to argue with him in the lobby, vigorously propelled thither by the barbed glances of other paying customers. [Two evening shows only.]

There are a number of like theaters scattered over the country, but this "Drive-In Theater" is Chicago's one and only bebby of the sort—and I think it's the nuts—even if it IS going to have second runs—that nobody in the family but me has seen before.

'Fashions Under the Stars' Attract Two Overflow Crowds

Overflow crowds attended two luncheon showings of fashions for the coming festival season at Ravinia park yesterday. The shows, called "Fashions Under the Stars," were held at Marshall Field's. Daytime and evening dresses were shown by 13 young women and seen by an estimated 2,000 guests.

Among the young women modeling were Debutantes Modrea Mullen, Annie Laurie Ryerson, Kay Keenn, Carol Gardner, and Anne Boswell, whose appearance brought whispers of "cute," "beautiful," "lovely" or "sweet." The only adverse criticism heard was that some of them looked "unsmart" in hats.

One long-sleeved white jersey gown, worn by Mrs. Gilbert H. Scribner Jr., evoked the comment that it would "keep off the m——s." Since the committee in charge of the Music Under the Stars festival, opening June 28, does not admit the possibility that ——s can survive the treatment given the grounds at Ravinia before each concert, however, this remark can safely be ignored.

Main Dish of Wedding Meal Often Simple

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Sweetbreads and mushroom caps served on thin slices of ham and toast make one of the most appetizing and pleasant of wedding breakfasts. Preceded by chilled melon with fresh, cold raspberries scattered over it, accompanied by hot rolls and jelly, and followed by sherbet and wedding cake, this is a breakfast which is fairly simple, but distinguished.

Get the sweetbreads ready the day before. One pair will serve four persons. Chill them for an hour or longer in cold water. Then simmer in water to which you've added a tablespoon of vinegar and a teaspoon of salt for each quart used. After 20 minutes of simmering, and it should be simmering, not boiling, plunge the sweetbreads in cold water to whiten them. Remove membranes and store them in the refrigerator until you're ready for them.

Split the sweetbreads lengthwise, dip them in melted butter, and roll in very fine cracker crumbs. Then brown them under the broiler. While they brown, fry good looking mushroom caps in butter, and prepare toast. Put a thin slice of ham on each piece of toast, a portion of sweetbreads on each slice of ham, and top each serving with a mushroom cap. Pour a little melted butter over the arrangement, and sprinkle with parsley.

The prepared combinations may be kept warm in the oven until enough are ready to make serving them speedy. Usually it's best to arrange the plates in the kitchen.

Here are other suggestions for a main course at a summer wedding breakfast:

1. Eggs scrambled in the oven, with small sausage cakes and broiled tomato halves.
2. Creamed sweetbreads on toast with broiled bacon or Canadian bacon and shoestring potatoes.
3. Browned link sausages rolled in pancakes with maple sirup and broiled apple or pineapple rings.
4. Cheese souffle with creamed peas and bacon strips.
5. Wild rice ring filled with creamed chicken or fish and mushrooms, broiled tomato halves.
6. Poached eggs on slices of hot ham loaf, white sauce or cheese sauce, sliced fresh tomatoes.

Blueberry muffins, orange muffins, date-nut muffins, banana bread, cinnamon coffee cake, toasted English muffins, popovers, sweet rolls, these are a few of the hot breads which are particularly nice at a wedding breakfast. Our booklet, "Better Homemade Breads and Rolls" [23 cents by mail], contains many recipes for suitable, easy-to-prepare hot breads.

SYNOPSIS.

On her own for the last four years, 22 year old Celia Ames has no one to whom she can turn when she loses her job. She has fallen in love with Val Quentin a fellow boarder whom she realizes is selfish and she has begun to doubt his worthiness. He borrows money from her and tho she feels that they are practically engaged, she does not feel like going to him for help now. She wonders if she could pawn some jewelry, her only legacy from her mother. While she is walking an old lady's dogs in the park she runs into Felicity Stanmore, a schoolmate, 4 years younger than Celia, whom Celia mothered in convent days. Felicity, whose mother is dead and whose father is a rich engineer, invites Celia to her home for the week-end. Celia accepts and goes home to get her jewelry to pawn and finds it has been stolen. She tells Val about the theft, and tho he sympathizes with her, he wants to borrow more money from her. She refuses and leaves for the Stanmores without telling him where she is going. Felicity confides to Celia that she is in love but that her father objects to the romance. As Celia enters the drawing room with Felicity's handsome and young looking father, she sees Val Quentin. Felicity whispers to her that Val is the man with whom she is in love.

INSTALMENT VI.

Now Sir Martin Stanmore was talking to Celia and there was the butler offering her a choice from a tray of cocktails, and a kind quiet looking young man whose name she learned sometime later was Sandy Maclaren, was asking her if it was true that Felicity and she had known each other since they were children.

"Felicity was a child," Celia said, feeling incredibly old and laid-on-the-shelf. "I was one of the big girls."

"And now Felicity is a big girl," Martin Stanmore said a little wistfully. "She's nearly a head taller than you are, Celia. And she's more of a handful than I ever dreamed she'd be. What is there about young Quentin, Sandy, that's so devastating to the female heart?"

Sandy MacLaren laughed a little mirthlessly, it seemed to Celia.

"I wish I knew, sir," he said. "It might come in useful."

Celia's powers of intuition were peculiarly sensitive this evening. She got it without any trouble at all. Sandy was in love with Felicity and Martin Stanmore liked him.

They were both looking at Felicity, so lovely, so radiant, and not in the least unhappy at this moment; glued to Val Quentin's side, telling the whole world with look and gesture how hopelessly, how abysmally in love she was.

And Val? Well, his expression didn't tell anybody very much.

"All the women," Martin Stanmore said, in a musing tone. "Not just green girls, like Felicity. For instance, there's May, my sister-in-law—in her own way she's almost as silly about young Quentin as Felicity is. Now don't you fall in love with him, Celia. I'd like to feel there was at least one exception to the rule."

Celia bit her lip to hide its trembling.

She wanted to laugh and say she knew one woman Val had never been able to get around. That would be Miss Best, but of course Miss Best had some inside knowledge of how Val's board bill got paid. . . . No, Celia was too hurt and bewildered to be catty.

And worse would be coming. Felicity would want to confide in her some more after everybody had gone. How could she bear that?

All about her there was a deafening chatter. She felt that she was grinning like an ape and saying the most inane things. It was probably the cocktail, and when the tray was offered her again she took back her hand and shook her head. It wouldn't be wise; she wasn't used to them.

Presently people were beginning to go, and there was Felicity tugging at her father's arm, pleading with him in a sharp undertone to let Auntie May ask Val to stay to dinner. Felicity was behaving like an ill mannered, spoiled child, which she probably was.

"I'm sorry, but I've only got five tickets," Martin replied, "and I've asked Sandy."

"Tickets for what?" Felicity demanded irritably.

"For the Pallidrome—the second house."

"I don't want to go! But why can't you or Auntie May stay home—or couldn't you get another ticket?" Felicity was almost storming now.

Her father did not answer her. Instead he crossed to where Val was standing talking to Miss Allison.

He held out his hand to Val.

"I'm awfully sorry we can't have you to dinner tonight," he said. "But we're going off to a show directly afterward, and I've only got five tickets. Some other time, I hope."

"O, that's quite all right," Val replied. "I must be off now myself. Thank you so much. I've had a lovely time."

Celia knew that look of Val's. It was the cold, frozen look he wore when things were not going to his liking. Sometimes he put it on when there was boiled mutton for dinner at Alanbrook, and then likely as not Mildred, the head dining room girl, would communicate with the cook and produce a cutlet for him.

Val did not prolong his leave taking, and he did not bid good-by either to Felicity or Celia.

It would be hard to say which of the two girls was the more miserable, but Celia was the more uncomfortable. Felicity was busy making everybody else uncomfortable, so she ought to have got some satisfaction out of it. For once Felicity and her aunt seemed to have something in common.

I'd be surprised if Val ever came here again," Miss Allison said tartly, when the five of them, which included Sandy Maclaren, sat down to dinner. "Poor boy, you practically threw him out of the house, Martin. When you heard that Felicity had asked Celia here the very least you could have done would be to telephone for another seat."

Celia could have sunk thru the floor. So it was on her account that Val's evening had been cut short. It hadn't occurred to her before.

"I'm sorry," she breathed.

"I had no intention of asking him, anyway," Sir Martin replied. "You and Felicity may not realize it, but I know when I've had enough of a good thing. If nobody objects seriously, I should like to enjoy myself this evening."

He threw a bland look around the table. It seemed amiable enough, but both Miss Allison and Felicity promptly shut up. Perhaps they knew from experience how far Martin Stanmore could be pushed.

Sandy Maclaren, it appeared, also was an engineer, and worked in Sir Martin's London office. He really did not look a great deal younger than Felicity's father, but apparently he was.

There wasn't any gray in Sir Martin's hair, and then, from something that was said, Celia gathered that he had enlisted with the sappers in the war when he was only 17. He couldn't be much over 40 now, if that. He must have married when a mere boy.

Celia was having to readjust a great many values all of a sudden, and it was terribly confusing.

One thing she was dreading did not happen. Felicity's ill temper and vivacity had both worn themselves out during the evening, and coming home she fell asleep in the car. It was nearly midnight and she said with a prodigious yawn that she was going straight to bed.

Celia was glad to follow suit.

What a day it had been. West Cromwell road and Alanbrook seemed 1,000 miles away, and yet in a manner of speaking they were only around the corner. The problems were unchanged, expect that one of them had become as acute as the other.

She thought of Val, spilling his charm on all and sundry. Was it likely that he would break Felicity Stanmore's heart? No, it was more likely Celia Ames' heart that was earmarked for destruction.

Her throat grew a lump and forced tears into her eyes. She felt small and hurt and helpless lying in this bed of luxury, as remote in construction as in intention from an Alanbrook divan. Love was so cruel when it refused to let you go.

She left the reading light on for company's sake. It had a blue shade and cast a pale, eerie glow.

Why couldn't she get away from Val Quentin? He had followed her even here and completely spoiled the little spate of fun she had looked forward to so eagerly.

And tomorrow was Sunday and the next day was Monday.

A little cry burst from her lips.

How on earth could she face Monday?

Late Summer Hats Smaller but Giddier

BY REA SEEGER.

More silly hats crown the summer curls of all women this year than ever before. The pluggy looking head handkerchiefs are definitely out, so the giddier and smaller the hat the smarter the headlines. But these late summer arrivals are telling bits of flattery, mere accent notes of color, in cool lattice work braid, in dink shapes of mesh materials or in smoothies of feathers.

You tie your curls securely but you do not completely hide them with these models as you did with handkerchiefs. One of the best tieup ideas is yarn, almost literally in the hank [official name according to yarn catalogs]. The yarn is the fat, round, soft stuff that is featherweight, and comes in some of the most beautiful colors imaginable—violet, crimson, yellow, mint green, raspberry, beige, copper, and so on. Or you will like the soft jersey band idea that is half and half jersey with two contrast colors of brilliant toned yarn. The tying process is up to the skilful fingers of the ladies who wear them.

The pixie type of hat is going strong. Such as the crocheted cap with long swing-tassels or a side swatch of fringe to sweep the shoulderlines. There's another with a long pigtail of the yarn swinging down the center back, and there are some Cossack type affairs decorated with colorful designs that resemble the wacky caps your small brother affects.

Some of these crocheted affairs have a fluffy tassel erupting all over the top. If you like a giddy whirl of color, see these toppers and relax—your summer millinery troubles will be over!

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

If you're going away for the week-end, you'd be awfully smart to tuck a delightful little pine spray package under your arm. It's one of those gifts hostesses dearly love.

The bottle of pine spray—very north-woodsish and fresh—is invaluable around a country house where the traffic is heavy. It banishes cooking and smoking odors, for one thing. For another it scents the house beautifully and appropriately. Incense around a house is one of our strongest abominations, but something like this we can take any day of the year. Clean, freshly scented air is something too few homemakers think enough about.

In this nice little gift package there is a pine cone sachet too, a nice thing to use in dispelling stale, musty closet odors. Country hostesses, who are just opening their houses, will find this particularly welcome. They know how much airing and freshening up a house needs when it's been closed for a winter. They can do with a number of these, and, of course, they'll want to use the spray all over the house.

The pine liquid has an atomizer attachment. The gift set is inexpensive but most attractively done. Paper of simulated wood graining is used for the wrapping, with label in deep green and bright yellow lettering.

Frock with Princess Lines

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCKS.

Princess lines prevail in this casual frock for the home, the beach, gardening and picnics. Attractive in gay prints, it may be trimmed with only easy to use, inexpensive rickrack braid, used in an amusing manner. Or the dress may abandon all trimming in favor of a contrasting collar.

Style No. 3097 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Pennington. After a wedding trip north Mr. McBride and his bride will be at home in Evanston. He is a son of Mrs. George J. McBride.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dern are in Palo Alto to be best man and matron of honor for Mr. Dern's brother, James G. Dern, and Miss Caroline Wickett, who are being married at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The wedding will take place at the home of Miss Wickett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Andrew Wickett. Mr. Dern and his bride will go to Del Monte, Cal., on their wedding trip and will make their home in New York.

The E. Perry Ellwoods are in St. Louis today for the marriage of their youngest son, John Fiske Fairbanks Ellwood, and Miss Doris Kathryn Hammil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. LeRoy Hammil of St. Louis. The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening in the First Methodist church. Mr. Ellwood and his bride will spend the summer at Lake Geneva.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Jane Shirey to Dr. William Winton McCandless, which is taking place this evening in Beverly Hills, Cal., is of interest to Chicagoans because the bride's family lived here for nearly 75 years. Miss Shirey, who attended Wellesley college, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gilmore Shirey of Beverly Hills and granddaughter of the late Andrew Lanquist, pioneer Chicago builder.

The marriage of Miss Marian Goldstein to Elihu Schott of Washington, D. C., will take place at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow in the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldstein of Winnetka. Mr. Schott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David L. Schott, will be here from Brooklyn, N. Y., for the ceremony. After a wedding trip to California Mr. Schott and his bride will be at home in Buckingham Village, Arlington, Va.

Miss Goldstein is receiving her degree today from Northwestern university.

The marriage of Miss Suzanne Wolbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wolbach of Blackstone avenue, to Arthur E. Frankel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frankel of Shaker Heights, O., will take place tomorrow. After an eastern wedding trip Mr. Frankel and his bride will reside in Chicago. Miss Wolbach was graduated from the Sargent College of Physical Education, and Mr. Frankel received his degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The marriage of Miss Leona Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reinhold A. Becker of South Honore street, to Emil Moltzan will take place at 6 o'clock today at the Immanuel Lutheran church.

Mammy's Tea Towel

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

The defensive play of expert partners is a beautiful thing to watch. There is a smoothness about it, a sense of one play fitting naturally into the other, that delights the eye. Each lead, even each follow-suit card, becomes almost articulate, until, to the uninitiated spectator, it appears as tho the defenders were reading each other's minds, which indeed they are, in a manner of speaking. Consider the defense of the following hand:

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 30 part-score.

NORTH
♥ A J 2
♦ K Q 7 4 3
♣ A Q

WEST
♠ K 5 4 3 2
♥ 7 5 4
♦ A

EAST
♥ 8 6 3
♦ 9 5 2

SOUTH
♠ 7 6
♥ K Q 10 9
♦ J 10 8 6
♣ K J 7

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

West laid down the diamond ace, then shifted to the three of spades. East, with only a second's hesitation, played the jack instead of the so-called orthodox play of the ace. A diamond was returned. West ruffed, and the deuce of spades was taken with the queen. Another diamond ruff [illegible] for the setting trick.

I do not mean to suggest that there was anything remarkable about the defense, but I feel sure that most East-West players would not defeat this contract. When West leads the three of spades, almost every player in East's position would put up the ace. They would, I admit, read the opening lead and diamond situation correctly and, therefore, would return a diamond for West to ruff. But West, after ruffing, could certainly not risk leading away from the spade king; he would lay that card down in the hope that East could ruff a third spade or that he held the club king which would eventually be the setting trick. The second diamond ruff would not materialize.

I foresee widespread objection on the part of readers to East's "finessing against his partner, by playing the jack instead of the ace of spades." I will be asked: "How could East know that West had the spade king, and that the jack would hold?" My answer is just this: East could not be sure, but he could know that unless West had the spade king, defeat of the contract was out of the question. The spade ace and one diamond ruff would not be enough. Moreover, there was every reason to believe that West actually held the spade king. His lead of the fourth best virtually guaranteed that he was leading from an honor and, with the cards in East's sight, that honor could be none but the king. East, it must be noted, could see that no club trick could materialize for his side, hence that defeat of the contract almost surely rested on how many diamond ruffs he could give West.

BADGER OARSMEN ARRIVE TODAY FOR REGATTA

VOTE $1,000 FINES FOR COLLEGES GUILTY OF RECRUITING

COAST SCHOOLS TAKE NEW STEP TO CURB EVILS

Conference Will Fix Penalties.

Seattle, Wash., June 13 (AP).—Fines up to $1,000 will be assessed Pacific Coast conference schools found guilty of athlete recruiting violations. Conference faculty representatives authorized the punitive measure today.

Edwin Atherton, conference commissioner, said he would continue to rule on the facts of recruiting cases and that the conference would fix the cash penalty at subsequent meetings.

The fines will be applied where the institution itself or members of its staff are guilty of the violation. The athlete involved also will be declared ineligible.

22 Recently Held Ineligible.

Atherton said he believed the fines would help equalize the penalty burden which up to now had been borne principally by the athlete.

Atherton recently held 22 freshmen ineligible for athletic competition with the schools at which they had enrolled, charging overzealous alumni had violated the conference purity code.

Other decisions of the faculty representatives who ended their spring meeting today included:

1. Regular compulsory fees up to $65 must be paid by an athlete himself for tuition. Differences between the $65 and the regular tuition may be made up from other available school funds. This applies to 60 athletes per school.

Two Training Table Meals.

2. A training table providing two meals a day instead of one, as heretofore, will be permissible during season for varsity football, basketball, and crew, and for junior varsity crew.

3. Two petitions were granted and two denied in cases of athletes transferring from one school to another asking a waiver of the one year transfer penalty.

The $65 compulsory fee ruling takes effect immediately at the four California schools, but will not apply to the six northern division schools until the close of the 1941-1942 academic year.

Lanier, Cards Blank Dodgers, 1 to 0, on 4 Hits

St. Louis, Mo., June 13 (AP).—The Cardinals increased their National league lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers to three games tonight with a 1 to 0 victory on Southpaw Max Lanier's four-hit pitching before a crowd of 15,700.

Whitlow Wyatt also limited the Red Birds to four hits but two of them, singles by Johnny Hopp and Don Padgett, followed a pass to Terry Moore who scored the only run in the third inning. Score:

Our Flag.

Our Flag! The symbol soul of unity,
Wellspring of hope and national inspiration,
It tells of struggles that have set us free,
And binds inseparable, one mighty nation.
It says America shall be the first
In our allegiance, save eternal God;
And come what may, of devils' plagues the worst,
If it means thus it cannot be downtrod.
In voicing equal rights, it simplifies
Our free-born strength to one united force.

One of God's Noblemen.

God knighted him long years ago,
In fact 'twas when he was a boy,
For I have heard by grandma tell
How he was then her source of joy.
He never did an unkind deed
And this the proof I have today—
His graciousness endears him to
His fellowmen along life's way.
He still has faith in God and man
And this fair land where he was born—
With such a faith his smile transcends
The homelike greetings every morn.
I could not find if I should seek
A nobler pattern in God's plan.
So with my heart I greet today,
My father—God's true nobleman!

My Son's Dad.

One night when our dad was away from home
And the children and I were all alone,
My heart turned over and filled with fear
As the sound of sobbing reached my ear.

I turned on the light and made a dive
To the side of our boy, who was then just 5.
"Are you ill?" I cried. "What can I do?
Tell mother, dear, what troubles you."

"I'm not sick, mother, I just felt sad:
I woke up thinking of my dad.
I'm all right now, I'll go to sleep,
I cried 'cause my daddy is so sweet!"

OUR CUBS (IN NICE NEW SUITS) MEET PHILLIES TODAY

Olsen Seeks 2d Straight Shutout Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs this afternoon will don their 1941 uniforms—their home costumes—and engage the Phillies in the first of a four game series in Wrigley field.

There was some talk of putting on a hard times party so the Cubs could give the home fans one look at their ragamuffin road uniforms before the shredded raiment disintegrates entirely, but this thought was abandoned and the Cubs will appear in their white knit numbers, purchased this season.

Dope It Either Way.

In doping the outcome of this afternoon's affair you may use one of two form sheets. One sheet shows the Cubs made a grand total of three runs in their last three games in Philadelphia, June 1, 2, and 3. Another shows that Vern Olsen, who will pitch this afternoon, was in fine fettle his last time out, when he beat the Giants, 11 to 0, in New York on June 10.

The Cubs have been showing very marked improvement in their recent games and are determined to soar above the .500 mark during their five series stand at home. They have not had an even ration in games won and lost since they were possessors of four victories and four defeats way back on April 26.

Manager Jim Stays in East.

Manager Jim Wilson did not accompany the Cubs west from New York, remaining over in Philadelphia for some dental work, but will be in charge of operations this afternoon. The Phillies will be here for a double header tomorrow and a single game Monday. The Dodgers will be here for single games Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, followed by the Braves for four games in three days. The Giants will conclude the second 1941 invasion by eastern teams.

Rain prevented the Cubs' scheduled exhibition game in Michigan City last night.

PHELPS IS FINED $500, SUSPENDED BY DODGER CLUB

St. Louis, Mo., June 13 (AP).—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers announced tonight Catcher Babe Phelps had been suspended indefinitely without pay and fined $500 "because he refused to make the western trip without giving sufficient reason."

Phelps had complained of illness, but Traveling Secretary John McDonald said he was examined in Brooklyn yesterday by two physicians who said there was nothing wrong with him.

Catcher Herman Franks arrived from Brooklyn's Montreal farm in time to get into uniform for tonight's game with the St. Louis Cardinals, and Pitcher Bill Swift was sold to Montreal to make room for him on the Dodgers' roster.

PROBABLE MAJOR LEAGUE HURLERS IN GAMES TODAY

New York, June 13 (AP).—Probable pitchers in the major leagues tomorrow with won and lost records:

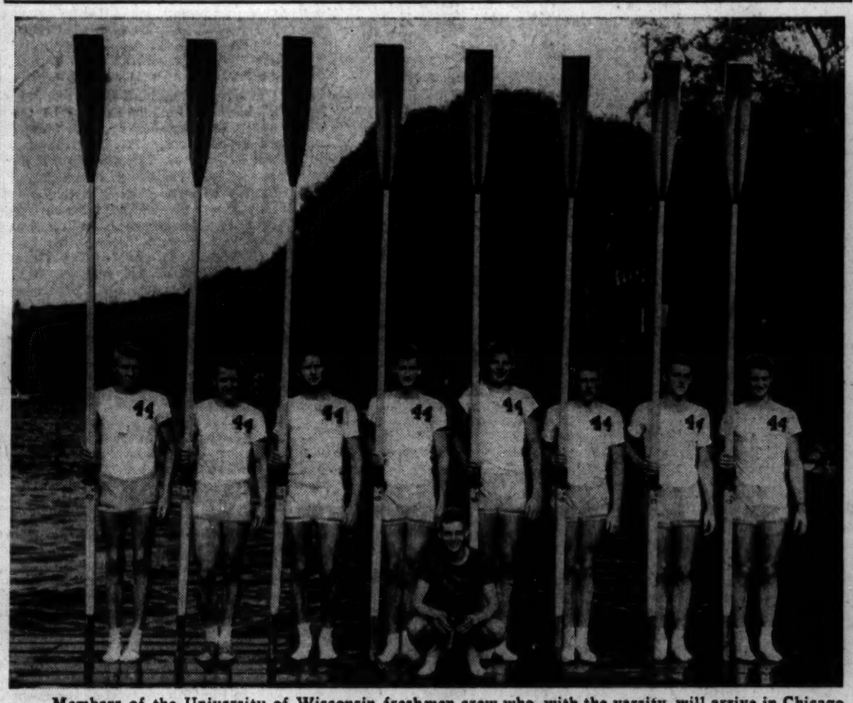
AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Detroit at Washington: Newhouser (3-4) vs. Leonard (3-8).
St. Louis at Philadelphia: Auker (4-6) vs. Hadley (3-3).
Cleveland at New York: Feller (13-2) vs. Donald (1-1).
Chicago vs. Boston: Smith (3-5), vs. Harris (3-2).

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Philadelphia at Chicago: Blanton (5-1) or Hughes (3-5) vs. Olsen (2-2).
Boston at Pittsburgh: Salvo (1-8) vs. Butcher (5-4).
New York at Cincinnati: Schumacher (4-3) vs. Riddle (4-0).
Brooklyn at St. Louis: Casey (7-2) vs. Gumbert (6-3).

City Welcomes Badger Oarsmen Today



Members of the University of Wisconsin freshmen crew who, with the varsity, will arrive in Chicago this noon to meet the University of Washington tomorrow as a feature of the Central States Schoolboy association regatta, sponsored by The Tribune. Left to right: Robert Lowe, bow; Robert Jeukins, No. 2; Royal E. Cass, No. 3; Richard Mueller, No. 4; Le Roy Jensen, No. 5; Robert Ladewig, No. 6; William Phelan, No. 7, and Carl Holtz, stroke. Robert Moore (kneeling) is the coxswain.

Jimmy Evert Gets His Chance in Clay Courts Meet Today

Opportunity will not be knocking politely on Jimmy Evert's door today—it will beat on the portals with both fists. Chicago's national junior indoor tennis champion will play his first round match in the national clay court tennis tournament this afternoon on the River Forest Tennis club courts. His opponent is Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Ga., the No. 8 seeded star.

Two weeks ago, after losing to Evert in a practice match, Bill Tilden, professional star, remarked: "That kid has improved amazingly. He's going to step out and knock off a good player any day now."

May Be Player of Prophecy.

Grant—a former champion—is still an excellent tennis player. He may be the good player in the Tilden prophecy. No starting time has been set for the match. First round play begins at 1 o'clock. The Grant-Evert battle probably will be held back until midafternoon to accommodate late arrivals in the gallery.

Other interesting first round matches will pit Bobby Riggs, seeded No. 2, against John Russell of Evanston; Olen Parks, Notre Dame's Indiana state champion, against Bob Smidl of Chicago university, and George Ball, the El Paso, Tex., chop stroke star, against Joe Blackmon of Bradenton, Fla.

Women's Matches Promising.

Interesting matches are scheduled in the women's sector, too. Helen Bernhard, No. 2 seeded star from New York City, will meet Catherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., in one of these. Miss Wolf formerly ranked among the first 10 women players and her recent drop in the national standings is due not to the caliber of her tennis, but to her failure to play the eastern grass court circuit where rankings are made.

Another match sends Doris Hart of Miama, Fla., seeded No. 4, against Theodocia Smith of Los Angeles.

Four seeded players—Defending Champion Don McNeill, No. 1; Frank Parker, No. 4; Gardnar Mulloy, No. 6, and Fred Schroeder, No. 7—will not appear until Monday. They are playing in the Triple A tournament in St. Louis, where McNeill meets Mulloy and Parker battles Schroeder in semi-final matches this afternoon.

DRAFT BOARD TO SEND RIGNEY NOTICE TODAY

The River Forest draft board today will notify John Dungan Rigney, 26 year old White Sox pitcher, to report for induction into the army next Friday morning for a year's training.

Rigney, who Thursday night withdrew his request for a 60 day deferment, appeared before the board yesterday morning before departing for Boston with the Sox, and announced he would be ready to report as originally scheduled. The big right hander is to pitch against the Red Sox tomorrow and plans to return to Chicago by plane from New York next week.

Brother to Go with Him.

The Sox pitcher will be accompanied to the induction center by his 23 year old brother, Edward, an accountant. The River Forest board has filled its June quota of 56 men, but Henry Lebovitz, secretary of the board, said he may receive orders from the offices of Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois selective service director, to increase the group to 57 or grant occupational deferment to one of the several requests now pending.

The announcement of Rigney's impending induction was made by Lebovitz last night following a statement from Armstrong's offices that the case had been referred back to River Forest.

Rigney's local board had granted him the 60 day delay on the grounds that immediate induction would create undue hardship. Armstrong appealed this decision to Gen. Louis B. Hershey, deputy national selective service director.

Armstrong Withdraws Appeal.

Upon his return to Chicago yesterday morning from Springfield, Armstrong said he had withdrawn the appeal following Rigney's decision to drop his request for deferment.

"I am very happy to hear that John Rigney has withdrawn his request for a 60 day deferment and has indicated his desire to go into the army in his regular turn," Armstrong said.

"In my opinion it will make little difference to Rigney whether he goes now or 60 days later because he will have to serve a full year anyway. In fact, if he were inducted 60 days from now he would be out of baseball completely next year."

PREPS IN QUEST OF FIVE TITLES ALSO ARE DUE

Program Tomorrow Opens at 2 o'Clock.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Chicago today starts playing host to the largest and most skilled group of schoolboy and collegiate oarsmen who have ever converged on the town at the same time. The varsity and freshman crews from the University of Wisconsin will arrive at noon time. During the day, high school oarsmen from St. Louis, Culver, Ind., and Grosse Pointe and Ecorse, Mich., will check in to await the first annual Central States Schoolboy association regatta tomorrow afternoon on the Lincoln park lagoon.

At 9:45 o'clock tomorrow, a delegation from the far west, supreme in college rowing last year and favorites to continue their away this season, will complete the march of the oarsmen on Chicago. They are the Huskies from the University of Washington, varsity and jayvees, led by their famous coach, Al Ulbrickson.

Here's the Program.

These sturdy youngsters, and Chicago's own skillful prep crews, will be the principal performers in the two hour show which is sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in coöperation with the Lincoln Park Boat club and the recreation division of the Chicago Park district. The Washington and Wisconsin varsities will clash over the one mile route, as will the Husky junior varsity and Badger freshmen.

The schoolboys will be aiming for five titles—senior eight-oared shell, junior eight-oared shell, four-oared shell, two-oared shell, and single sculls. A series of sea scout cutter and canoe races will complete the competition.

They'll Work Out Today.

The Wisconsin forces, coached by Allen Walz, will take advantage of practice spins on the lagoon this afternoon, as will some of the schoolboy crews. The Badgers are bringing two of the shells they will use in the Poughkeepsie regatta and also are furnishing one for their opponents, whose equipment will not be taken from the baggage car. Wisconsin has been training diligently for these two races, which amount to sprints in comparison to the Poughkeepsie four mile course on the Hudson river.

The contestants will get into the spirit of the regatta tonight at a dinner in the Parkway hotel, at which time two of Chicago's representatives, the Waller seniors and Lane juniors, will be presented with The Chicago Tribune trophies, emblematic of the city schoolboy titles. The Lane juniors will come into permanent possession of their award, but the Waller eight is taking control of the senior trophy for the first time, having wrested it from the Lane seniors last Sunday.

Preps Finish Training.

The Waller seniors and the Lane and Schurz juniors completed their training yesterday, climaxing daily appearances on the lagoon during which they rowed upward of 15 miles each. The schoolboy eights will bat down the lagoon over a five-eighths of a mile course. The other prep events will be a full mile. Chicago's outstanding individual entrant is Paul Murdock of Schurz high, who recently took third in the national junior singles sculls in Camden, N. J. He will meet Robert Steiger, who is the coxswain of the Grosse Pointe, Mich., senior eight.

Tomorrow's regatta is an outgrowth of the Lincoln Park Boat club's schoolboy rowing program, which was given an impetus in 1939 when THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE sponsored the Interscholastic regatta on the Chicago river. Last year the event was moved to the Lincoln park lagoon and the Central States Schoolboy Rowing association was organized at that time. The result is the participation by an all-star prep crew from St. Louis, the Culver Military academy's powerful eight, the senior and junior eights from Grosse Pointe, and the senior eight from Ecorse, Mich., in addition to out of town single scullers, double-oared and four-oared shells.

Room for Many Spectators.

All of the schoolboy contestants will report at the boat club at 1 o'clock for physical examinations. Dr. William Rothman, chief examining physician for events sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be in charge.

There will be no charge for spectators and the many vantage points surrounding the lagoon will accommodate thousands. There is a natural grandstand on the east side of the course, the ground sloping up in front of the Outer drive.

Davis-Zivic Fight Put Back to July 1 by Jacobs

New York, June 13 [Special].—The welterweight fight between Al Davis of New York and Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, scheduled for the Polo Grounds on the night of June 25, today was postponed until July 1 by Promoter Mike Jacobs.

STRETCH RUNNERS HAVE EDGE TODAY IN LA SALLE RACE

Longer Distance Will Help Viscounty, Shot Put.

La Salle Field

NINE horses were named in the overnight entries for the $5,000 La Salle handicap, which will be run today at Lincoln Fields. The field, in order of post positions, follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Odds.
Benifex	109	R. Mills	10-1
Technician	110	E. McCombs	3-1
Shot Put	116	W. Garner	3-1
Sirasia	109	W. Pool	6-1
Viscounty	119	R. L. Vedder	5-2
Forever Prince	105	H. Haner	10-1
Dog House	107	J. Richard	15-1
War Minstrel	112	No boy	8-1
Shine o' Night	109	No boy	15-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Viscounty, Shot Put, Technician, and six other speedy performers will race today at Lincoln Fields in the $5,000 La Salle handicap. The route of a mile and three-sixteenths will give these sturdy stretch runners a comfortable distance in which to operate.

Earlier in the meeting, Viscounty demonstrated that he has come up to his best form by winning the $5,000 Peabody Memorial handicap with one of his characteristically strong finishes. When he comes charging into the last quarter mile today, however, it is highly probable that Shot Put also will be closing rapidly.

Shot Put Makes Debut.

Shot Put, Mrs. Marie Evans' distance champion of 1940, will be making his first local appearance of the season. He ran third in the recent Suburban handicap at Belmont Park. He will be returning to the track where he first began to distinguish himself and to the public which first made him its favorite.

In last season's La Salle, the distance wasn't quite long enough for Shot Put. He moved up with a tremendous rush in the closing stages but just failed to catch Mucho Gusto. The following week he came back to win the mile and a quarter Lincoln handicap. He is scheduled to compete in the 1941 running of that race next Saturday.

Technician Is Improving.

Technician, who practically disgraced himself by running ninth in the Crete handicap on the first Saturday of the present meeting, showed that he was improving by running second to Viscounty in the Peabody Memorial. The early speed of the six furlong Crete was a bit too much for him. He's likely to find the pace of today's race much more to his liking.

Shine O'Night, a stake winner at Arlington Park last season, will be another contender. This filly ran third to Viscounty and Technician in the Peabody. Sirasia, which finished second to Joe Schenck in the Tropical handicap last winter, also will get quite a bit of backing. In a gallop of a mile last Tuesday, this horse ran third after encountering bad racing luck.

More Daily Double Trouble.

The daily double, which was marked by a double disqualification on Thursday was complicated by a dead heat yesterday. The dead heat developed when the camera was unable to separate Ariel Bird and Phara O'Mar in the third race. Pop's Rival had won the second. The double payoff on Ariel Bird and Pop's Rival was $38. On the combination of Phara O'Mar and Pop's Rival it was $25.60.

Dad's Day.

On Mother's day we tender Moms
A great big swell bouquet,
And now it's Dad who takes a bow
On annual Father's day.

Mom takes the spotlight with sweet grace,
And rates exceeding high,
But Dad's a shrinking violet
And shuns the public eye.

He doesn't want the folks to fuss,
Nor does he care a hoot
To be a lion or to draw
A load of fancy loot;
But don't neglect to let him know
How much he means to you,
For dads are only human
And they like their sugar, too.

OPEN HINSDALE HORSE SHOW AT OAK BROOK TODAY

Decide Winners in 44 Classes in 2 Days.

The annual Hinsdale horse show will open its two day run this morning on the Oak Brook Polo club field, York road and 29th street.

Today and tomorrow, from 9 a. m. until late in the afternoon, winners in 44 classes for three-gaited, five-gaited, harness horses, hunters, and jumpers, and equitation will be decided. The number of classes as well as entries, totaling 650, has set a new high. Leading stables from Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana have entered.

Cash awards, trophies, and ribbons have been increased to a value of more than $2,500. In charge of the judging are Mrs. Robert Lee Henry of New York, equitation classes; William J. Cunningham of Bixby, Okla., saddle and harness classes, and Christopher Wadsworth of Kenmore, N. Y., hunters and jumpers.

21 Events on Program.

Twenty-one events are on today's schedule and an equal number tomorrow. Today's competition includes three classes for three-gaited saddle horses, four for five-gaited, one for harness ponies, four for hunters, three for jumpers, and three for horsemanship. Three special classes also are listed, including one for pleasure or bridle path horses, another for hunter hacks, and a third for three-gaited horses to be ridden bareback.

Among the leading contenders for five-gaited honors are H. Leslie Atlass of Wheaton, Austin Selz of Crystal Lake, Delaine Farm of Morton Grove, Roland S. Edwards of Lake Forest, and Irving Ellis of Chicago.

Brilliant Field of Jumpers.

A brilliant field is entered in the hunter and jumper events. Horses will represent Mrs. E. M. Hubbard, John F. Jelke Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bennett, Joy Salisbury, and Ginevra Mitchell of Lake Forest; Mrs. Louis F. Swift Jr. of Wheaton; Black Top Farm of Northbrook; Jeanne Lee Hester of Morton Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Denison B. Hull of Winnetka; Stanley Luke of La Grange; Jane Markman, Theodore F. Mohlman, James Emmett Jr., Lieut. Col. P. W. Evans, and Mrs. E. T. Scott of Hinsdale; C. G. Speidel of Brookfield, and Mrs. Grace Sherman, Nancy and Sally Miller, Maxine Cooper, Harry McNair, and John McGuire of Chicago.

YALE, HARVARD CREWS TO HOLD 79TH RACE TODAY

New London, Conn., June 13 [Special].—Yale and Harvard will meet here tomorrow on the Thames river in America's oldest intercollegiate rowing event. The meeting originally was scheduled for June 20, but was advanced when several oarsmen were notified to report for naval training on Monday.

Harvard will be seeking its sixth consecutive varsity triumph against Yale in the 79th renewal of the event. Harvard again is the favorite, but during the week the Crimson's best time trial for four miles was 20 minutes and 22 seconds, which was seven seconds slower than Yale's best training effort.

Two mile freshman and junior varsity races will be held in the morning. The varsity race is scheduled for late afternoon.

DAWSON, FRISINA GAIN FINALS OF STATE AMATEUR

David Is Beaten, 6 and 4; Doering Loses, 4 and 3.

Quincy, Ill., June 13 (AP).—A veteran Chicago star who has won fairway championships in almost every section of the country will meet a veteran downstate player tomorrow for the 11th Illinois amateur golf championship.

The two shotmakers who will battle it out over 36 holes on the Quincy Country club course are George Dawson, who as far back as 1926 was a semi-finalist in the National amateur, and James Frisina of Taylorville, for several years an able state golfer but never a champion.

Beats Indiana Champion.

Dawson earned his shot at a second state amateur crown—he won this event in 1939—by beating Bill McKenzie of Springfield, this morning, 5 and 4, in a match in which he won the first hole and dominated to the finish. In his second match of a cold, rainy, and windy day he routed John David of Chicago, 6 and 4, playing brilliant sub-par golf against an opponent who holds the Indiana amateur title. David had beaten Don Joneson of Galesburg, 4 and 3, this morning.

Doering, Moller Fall.

Frisina, 30 year old Taylorville theater executive who twice has been medalist of this tourney, scored the day's big upset by his semi-finals triumph over Art Doering of Chicago, 4 and 3. This morning Frisina downed George Reed of Chicago, 1 up in 19 holes, Reed losing as he dubbed two straight shots.

Doering qualified for the semi-finals with a morning victory over the tourney medalist, Larry Moller of Quincy. The margin was 1 up, with Doering going out in front at No. 16 by ramming down a 12 foot putt for a birdie.

SOX LEAVE HOME ACRES; BATTLE BOSTON TODAY

See Chance to Recoup on Foreign Fields.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who in less than two weeks rose to first place and then dropped down a step at a time until the second division was almost under their faltering feet, left town yesterday hoping to forget about their home acres. They will stop in Boston today and on what they did during their last ride thru the east, they can't be blamed for professing to be cheerful about their possibilities for the next two weeks.

In their May jaunt to Boston, New York, Washington, and Philadelphia they collected seven decisions while losing only three. If they can duplicate that job they will have recovered some of the ground lost as the result of being jostled eight times in the last 11 games of their home stay, a stay which closed with a triumph for the Yankees Thursday night.

It's a Matter of Hitting.

The case of the White Sox is a matter of hitting, but except for changing his batting order there isn't much Manager Jimmy Dykes can do about it. The situation may improve slightly when Bill Knickerbocker returns to second base, something which may happen this afternoon. Taft Wright, who was benched on the theory that a rest would work him up into his customary batting frenzy, also may be restored to active service in right field. Except for this the manager only can hope that in some way the boys who are behind in their hitting suddenly get the range on enemy pitchers.

Home Run Ball Hurts.

Pitching continues to hold up for the Sox, altho there is one apparent weakness. Too many hurlers are addicted to pitching the home run ball, a costly procedure in view of the fact that the Sox seldom score enough runs themselves to keep their mound workers in comfort.

Eddie Smith, who left handed the Red Sox into defeat in Chicago last week, will attempt to repeat the performance in today's opener in Boston. A double header is booked for tomorrow. The pitching for that probably will be assigned to Ted Lyons and John Rigney.

Dykes Writes a Letter.

Dykes, that great admirer of umpires if they are good, still was seething about Thursday night's affair when he boarded the train. Dykes declared he sat at his hotel desk until 5 o'clock yesterday morning penning a seven page protest letter to Will Harridge, American league president. The theme of the note was that umpires can't see as well under the electric lights as in daylight, and that if the umpires had done a good job the Sox might have won in nine innings instead of losing to the Yankees in the tenth.

JAMES JOHNSON LEADS IN TRIAL FOR PARKS GOLF

Public parks golfers who competed yesterday at Westgate Valley in the first Chicago preliminary for berths in the national tournament, July 14-19 in Spokane, had their tribulations. Early starters faced the task of getting yardage thru carry instead of roll, while those playing later were marooned in a rainstorm.

Under such conditions, James Johnson, an employé of the Hickory Hills club, turned in a creditable 36-36-72, two over par, for leadership. The maximum for the rest of the qualifiers for the 36 hole playoff June 27 at Sunset Valley, Highland Park, was 79.

Leading qualifiers included: Frank Calpeno, unattached, 37-37-74; Joseph Barilla of Evergreen, 37-37-74; Carl Jankowski of Oak Hills, who competed in the 1933 tournament in Louisville, 36-39-75, and Don Christensen, unattached, 40-35-75.

The 17 who qualified yesterday will join those who pass the test Monday at Big Oaks and the following Friday in Jackson park in the 36 hole playoff.

Other qualifiers follow:

Kenneth K. Spear	38	38	76
Don McQueen	37	39	76
Luke Smith	40	37	77
Paul Krivanec	40	37	77
Frank Cognato	41	36	77
John Siebos	41	37	78
Herman Anderson	39	39	78
Bob Kunel	38	40	78
W. D. Jacobs	39	40	79
John Perkins	37	42	79
Leo Czaicki	47	42	79
Corbett Stopko	41	38	79

GREENBERG AND SAWYIER GAIN TENNIS FINALS

Seymour Greenberg of Northwestern and Calvin Sawyier of Chicago, the top seeded players in the fourth district collegiate tennis meet, will clash for the title today at 2:30 p. m. on the Northwestern university courts. Greenberg, Big Ten conference champion, turned back Gene Russell of Western Michigan, 6-1, 6-3 yesterday, while Sawyier overpowered Bill Culver of Kalamazoo [Mich.] college, 6-0, 6-2.

Greenberg also reached the doubles finals. He paired with Gene Richards to defeat Bill McMurry and Carl Mitchell of Kenyon college 6-2, 6-2. Dan Canale and Olen Parks of Notre Dame went three sets to conquer Gene Russell and John Vander Meiden of Western Michigan, 10-8, 4-6, 6-3 in the other semi-final match.

Summary of yesterday's singles quarter-finals matches:

Sawyier beat Morris Drilling, Michigan State, 6-4, 6-0; Culver beat Richards, 6-4, 6-3; Greenberg beat Sterling Lord, Grinnell, 6-0, 6-3; Russell beat Canale, 6-4, 6-4.

Slovaks Risk 2d Place Against Vikings Tonight

The Slovaks will play the Vikings, major soccer champions, tonight at 6:30 o'clock at 51st street and California avenue.

Baseball's Men in Blue

[This is the fifth of a series on National league umpires.]

JOHN WILLIAM SEARS, Ziggy to the baseball world, was born in Central City, Ky., Jan. 10, 1894. He got the name of Ziggy second hand from Jakie Atz, veteran manager. The year before Ziggy played for Atz in the Texas league Atz had a player named Ziggy Shearer. Atz noted some similarity in the last names of the two players, so he started calling Sears Ziggy, too, and the name stuck.

Ziggy Sears.

Ziggy's playing career, he was an outfielder, started in 1912 in the Blue Grass league and ended with a 10 year stretch in the Texas league, which terminated at Waco. He began umpiring in the Texas league in 1929 and continued in that circuit until purchased by the National league July 6, 1934

Ziggy is emphatically a member of the proud parent division of the National league umpiring staff. His son, Ken, is a catcher on the Newark club, New York Yankee entry in the International league, a fair catcher and a powerful hitter. He trained with the Yankees in Florida several springs ago. Joe McCarthy liked his work, but farmed him out with the remark that he feared Mrs. Sears fed the lad too well. Young Ziggy, on the urgings of his pappy, is watching his weight at Newark.

Ziggy Sr. makes his home in Fort Worth, Tex., and is a busy football and basketball official in the Southwest conference. And still he gets the opportunity to do a lot of quail shooting between the world series and time to report for the spring exhibition games. EDWARD BURNS.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

It's time again for a Public School league baseball championship game and there is a strange occurrence this season—Coach Percy Moore and his Lane Tech squad will be in the stands instead of on the playing field. The participants in the 1941 title contest are Steinmetz and Farragut, who will meet in Comiskey park at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Steinmetz, which defeated Lane Tech for the 1939 title, accounted for the north siders' position on the sidelines this season, winning from the defending titleholders, 8 to 7, in the semi-finals last Tuesday. The victory, possession of four .400 hitters and a strikeout artist in Bob Possehl, makes Steinmetz the favorite to capture its second title against Farragut.

Possehl to Start.

Possehl, one of the leading pitching aces in the league this season, has been named by Coach Edward Ruzicka to start against Farragut. If Bob encounters difficulty, his reliever will be William [Red] Chesney or Bob Piotkowski. However, the club's .400 batters—Danny Canadeo, Russ Adams, Fred Marsh, and Lenny Oszaklewski—plan to present Possehl with a handsome lead in the early innings.

Steinmetz this spring has compiled one of the best records for finalist teams in several years. It lost only three times in a schedule of 30 games. In league competition, the northwest side school won 14 out of 16 contests. The two defeats were at the hands of Marshall, 4 to 2, and Austin, 2 to 1.

Farragut's First Chance.

Farragut, coached by James H. Fox, former University of Idaho athlete, will be making its first appearance in the final round. In previous starts in the playoff series Farragut was eliminated in the quarter-finals, Fenger turning the trick last year. Late rallies brought Farragut to the finals this year, the squad defeating Marshall, 9 to 8, in the quarter-finals last week, and whipping Schurz, 6 to 5, in the semi-finals last Tuesday.

Raymond Muzika, who started against Marshall and Schurz, has been chosen to oppose Possehl. Other regular pitchers on the Farragut team include Henry Thoele and Jack Trepton.

CALIFORNIA ACE ENTERS MIDGET RACES TONIGHT

Mel Hansen, ace driver from California, heads the list of entries for the fifth series of midget auto races for the season title tonight in Raceway Park, 129th street and Ashland avenue. Hansen will be opposed by leading midwest pilots including Tony Bettenhausen, Jimmy Caris, Mike O'Halloran, Bob Muhlke, Johnny Kieweg, Al Cummings, "Wild Charlie" Szckendy, Everett Rice, and Warren Erwin.

STAR SLOOPS TO RACE TODAY OFF JACKSON HARBOR

More than two dozen Star class sloops begin competition today in the Jackson Park Yacht club's annual two day invitational regatta off Jackson park harbor. Chicago, Columbia, and Sheridan Shore Yacht clubs will compete with the host club's Star boats.

The first race will be started at 3 o'clock by Race Committee Chairman William Moore. The second race is scheduled for 10 a. m. tomorrow and the final race for 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The Chicago Yacht club's fourth series race of the season for Tumlaren and 110 class sloops will be sailed off Belmont harbor at 2:15 p. m., today.

Joe Louis Seeks More Speed --- So He Can Keep Conn in Reach

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Greenwood Lake, N. Y., June 13.—A chill, intermittently driving rain swept over the metropolitan area today and the low hanging clouds and drenching drizzle turned the Ramapos into a fair imitation of Greenland's icy mountains. Nevertheless Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, went about his routine in preparation for the 18th defense of his title against Pittsburgh's Billy Conn in the Polo Grounds Wednesday night.

Billy Conn.

Louis boxed four rounds in the semi-privacy of Joe Murchio's gymnasium after which Jack Blackburn, Joe's trainer, outlined a similar program for the next three days. Blackburn and Louis apparently have agreed on a modified boxing schedule altho the trainer had urged Louis to take a day off. The champion had insisted on more work and had told us he would box six rounds today.

Joe's No Hater—Today.

The ballyhoo for this championship match quite naturally has centered on the challenger since all know what Louis can do while Conn, except for Pittsburgh support, is regarded by many as just another gent in the champion's "Bum a Month club." There was sideline conversation yesterday at Pompton Lakes that Louis had a hate on for Conn and that he would rush from the corner Wednesday night to flatten the brash Irishman in less time than he took to send Max Schmeling into the hospital three years ago.

"I don't hate nobody," Louis denied this afternoon. "This is no kind of day to hate."

Despite Joe's assertion, Jersey Jones, camp publicist who has compiled the unique record of spending seven consecutive Memorial days working in Louis fight camps, says the champion is mad.

"Something Conn said months ago has got under Louis' skin," he said. "It isn't any of the prepared stuff out of Pompton Lakes, for Joe always considers that the buildup. I believe Conn was quoted a long time ago as saying Louis was a slow thinker and on the stupid side. It's my guess Joe wants to finish off Conn as quickly as he can to sorta reply, 'Who's stupid now?'"

Concerned About Golf Tourney.

Joe admits that training occasionally can become a grind, and right now he's somewhat fed up. He began training Nov. 13 for his winter program of monthly fights and, except for a week now and then between engagements, has lived in fight camps. Right now the champion is concerned more with the invitational golf tournament he will sponsor Aug. 12, 13, and 14 in Detroit than with Conn. Apparently Joe has no thought for the outcome of this fight, altho he is considering how he can catch up to Billy.

This phase of training occupied Louis exclusively this afternoon. Four spar mates went one round each and all were instructed to travel at full speed, feint and jab, and to stay away from clinches. In order of their appearance these boxers were George Fitch, New Haven, Conn.; George Nicholson, Yonkers, N. Y., who has been employed by the champion in 17 training camps; Jim Ritchie of St. Louis, intercity and international Golden Gloves champion a year ago, and Joe Carillo, hard hitting Hartford, Conn., heavyweight.

CLEVELAND NIPS CINCINNATI, 2-1, IN EXHIBITION

Cooperstown, N. Y., June 13 (AP).—The nearest thing to a game for fun that two major league clubs have played since Abner Doubleday invented baseball in this placid little town 102 years ago was reeled off in the rain and mud today with the Cleveland Indians beating the world champion Cincinnati Reds 2 to 1 in six innings.

Half an hour before game time a heavy shower soaked the field which would have been considered unplayable in the big leagues, but in order not to disappoint the estimated 5,000 fans, Managers Bill McKechnie and Roger Peckinpaugh went on with the show.

PATTY BERG TO MEET MRS. WEIL IN WESTERN FINAL

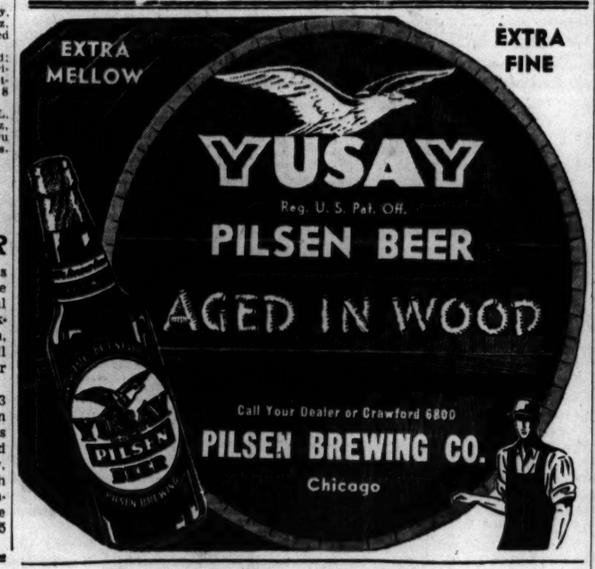
Cincinnati, O., June 13 (AP).—Patty Berg, Minneapolis professional, reached the finals of the 12th annual women's western golf tournament today by defeating Betty Jameson, national amateur champion from San Antonio, Tex., 1 up in 21 holes.

In tomorrow's 36-hole championship round, Miss Berg will meet Mrs. Burt Weil, 37 years old, Cincinnati housewife, who defeated Mrs. James D. Platt of Dayton, 3 and 2, in the other semi-final contest.

A penalty for interference on the 11th hole, which was awarded to Miss Berg, probably cost Miss Jameson the match. With the match even, Betty reached the green—15 feet from the pin—in two, while Patty was trapped 25 feet from the stick on her second shot. As Patty blasted from the flooded trap, Betty's caddy tried to pull the stick from the cup. It stuck and the ball hit it on the fly. The referee ruled the caddy was at fault and gave Patty the hole, even tho Betty sank her long putt for a birdie three.

Play Four Games in Girls' Softball Tonight

The Down Drafts, who have won three games since Pitcher Jeannette Feuerstein and Outfielder Clara Shillace returned from college to join the team, tonight will meet the Winklers at 1900 East 75th street, and the Rockolas will go to Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets, to meet the Garden City Brewery Maids, in Girls' Major Softball league contests. The league-leading Bloomer Girls will play the Peoria Caterpillars in Parichy stadium and the Rivals will meet the Kellars of Detroit at Harlem and North avenues.



M'BRIDE TO SUB FOR STARK ON MARIGOLD CARD

Frank McBride, rugged middleweight boxer of the south side, yesterday was substituted for Solly Stark in a 10 round bout against Johnny Colan of New York in Marigold outdoor arena Monday. Promoter Irving Schoenwald made the change after Stark contracted pneumonia while in training. It will be the second meeting between Colan and McBride, the former scoring a technical knockout in 10 rounds over McBride on April 14.

Secreet Works Out.

Milt Aron returned to training chores yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round headliner on Monday's card against Sammy Secreet, Canonsburg, Pa., welterweight. Secreet worked out in an adjoining ring, observing his 21st birthday by sparring four fast rounds with Johnny Barbara. Sam, who has been boxing professionally since June 13 of last year, has a record of 18 victories, two draw decisions, and three defeats.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., and Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., lightweight stablemates, both boxed with Gene Ward in preparing for two additional contests in the Marigold arena. Marquart is paired with Quentin [Babe] Breese and Seward with Floyd Hagen. These fighters will end boxing drills today, as will Willie Joyce and Nick Castiglione, who meet in an eight round event.

Soldiers Fight Tonight.

Amateur boxers from Fort Sheridan will participate in a series of contests tonight at Peg Benning's arena in Grays Lake under the sponsorship of the 10th district of the American Legion.

A team of five Peoria boxers last night defeated a Chicago squad, 3 bouts to 2, in the first amateur boxing show under the promotion of Barney Ross in Lake Zurich. The results:

Del Fetten, Peoria, beat Tony Lenzito [3]. Joe Pulambo, Chicago, beat Art Frezitti [3]. Richard Cook, Peoria, beat Frank Sabarbro [3]. Tommy Rainey, Peoria, beat Carl Meho [3]. William Jordan, Chicago, beat Wendell White [3].

Luke Baylark, south side heavyweight, beat T. J. Tate in a three round amateur bout last night in the Chicago Towers club. In other matches Thomas James conquered Johnny O'Brien, Chris Adams defeated Charles Rogers, and Dale Krueger beat Tim Marshall.

STOCKS RECEIVE SECOND SETBACK SINCE 2D OF JUNE

Cashing of Profits Stems Extended Rise.

New York, June 13 (AP).—The stock market received a moderate setback today, its second since the recovery swing got under way June 2.

Scattered strong spots of recent sessions gave up 1 to 2 points, but leaders generally restricted declines to fractions. A few oils, utilities, and specialties managed to contest the trend with fair sized advances. A late burst of strength in farm commodities was a bolstering influence.

The reversal was attributed mainly to some cashing of profits on the lengthy bulge and lightening of commitments as protection against possible bad news over the week-end.

Attempts to extend the upturn met opposition at the start and minus signs were well in the majority from then on.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 41.5. Transfers totaled 443,320 shares compared with 561,320 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST SLIPS.

Reversing their four day trend this week, shares on the Chicago Stock exchange slipped yesterday in transfer of 17,000 shares. Commonwealth Edison headed the volume leaders in turnover of 1,350 shares, closing at 26¼, off ⅛.

A comparison of several dually listed stocks, showing the changes here from the New York close during trading from 2 to 2:30 o'clock, follows:

RAILROAD ASKS APPROVAL OF 15 MILLION ISSUE

The New York Central railroad is applying to the Interstate Commerce commission for authority to sell $15,000,000 of 1 to 10 year equipment trust certificates to finance up to 90 per cent of $16,808,333 of equipment ordered recently. Bids have been invited for June 19.

Nashville, Chattanooga, and St. Louis railway has invited bids by June 18 on $4,290,000 equipment trust certificates to mature in 10 equal annual instalments and to be secured by locomotives and other new equipment costing not less than $4,766,667.

Alabama Power company filed with the Securities and Exchange commission an application for issuance and sale of $83,878,000 of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds, due 1971, and $8,000,000 of 2½ per cent notes. The company will publicly invite sealed written proposals for the purchase or underwriting of the bonds and will issue the notes to evidence bank loans.

Sign Final Papers on U. S. Sugar Loan for Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba, June 13 (AP).—The final document by which the Export-Import bank finances 400,000 tons of Cuban sugar, worth $11,027,000, was signed today by President Fulgencio Batista and Warren L. Pierson, president of the bank in a ceremony at the presidential palace.

STATES PREPARE FIGHT TO RETAIN FIDELITY FUNDS

Association's 22½ Millions Involved.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Several states, including Illinois, are preparing to resist a federal court order directing them to surrender 22½ million dollars of assets of the Fidelity Assurance association of Wheeling, W. Va. [formerly Fidelity Investment association], it was learned last night after a meeting here of state security commissioners.

The meeting, at which nine states were represented, was called after notice was received by the state officials that the federal district court at Charleston, W. Va., had ordered all the assets of the association turned over to a trustee named by the court.

Receivers Fail to Get Assets.

The association began its reorganization proceedings in federal court June 10. Two months earlier receivers were appointed for the company in the state courts of West Virginia. The first receivers, now superseded by the federal court trustee, were unsuccessful in their efforts to get possession of the association's assets in other states.

It was conceded by those attending yesterday's conference that the states are now confronted with an entirely different situation than existed before the appointment of the federal court trustee. The representatives of two of the states, however, asserted that they are prepared to take every legal step to resist the order of the federal court in West Virginia.

Other States May Act.

It was indicated that other states would follow a similar procedure. Those attending the conference said it was agreed that each state would have to proceed individually to protest its own creditors. No general policy could be formulated, it was said, because of the difference in the various state laws under which funds are held.

The association has on deposit with the secretary of state in Illinois approximately 3¾ million dollars. These funds were posted as a reserve against the instalment savings contracts of the association outstanding in the state. This fund is made up of high grade government, municipal, and industrial bonds.

Sales Halted 18 Months Ago.

The company has not been permitted to sell annuity contracts in Illinois for nearly 18 months, but the state has retained possession of the assets posted prior to that time. The collateral held is sufficient to cover all the contracts sold by the company subsequent to July, 1931. Contracts made prior to that time are about one third protected.

Deposits held by other states [based on Oct. 31, 1940, values] follow:

Alabama	$ 28,000
Delaware	302,000
Indiana	166,000
Iowa	42,000
Kansas	85,000
Kentucky	85,000
Maryland	516,250
Missouri	970,750
Ohio	467,500
Pennsylvania	211,000
Tennessee	192,150
Virginia	25,000
West Virgina	13,028,021
Wisconsin	2,302,000

Besides Illinois, the state represented at yesterday's meeting included Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Tennessee, Maryland, Iowa, and Missouri.

Wisconsin Liquidates Assets.

Meanwhile, it was learned in Madison, Wis., that the state banking commission has already liquidated 1½ million dollars of the assets deposited there. The proceeds of the liquidation are being held pending the outcome of the federal action.

Under the pending reorganization proceedings the management proposes to convert the business into an insurance company. Before it was disqualified from doing business the association sold only instalment savings contracts. To make the conversion it would be necessary for the association to regain possession of the funds held by the various states.

OPM URGES HUGE BOOST IN OUTPUT OF MAGNESIUM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—The Office of Production Management today recommended that production of magnesium be raised from the present rate of 30 million pounds annually to a capacity of 400 million pounds. Construction now under way will raise the present rate to approximately 75 million pounds a year.

"Tremendously increased requirements for aircraft and other military uses requires a productive capacity of approximately 400,000,000 pounds a year by the end of 1942," the OPM said.

It revealed that it had recommended to the war department expansion to that output. It said that the Dow Chemical company, which has plants at Midland, Mich., and Freeport, Tex., and the Permanente corporation, which is constructing a plant at Palo Alto, Cal., are at present the only magnesium producers.

OPM Contract Service Aids Called to Parley in Capital

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—All field representatives of the OPM's defense contract service have been ordered to Washington for a three day clinic on how to spread armament orders among smaller firms and expedite their fulfillment. The meeting will start Monday.

Firm's Demise Fails to Dim Spirit of Veteran Trader, 79

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The gloom that presses ever closer upon the once busy grain pits has not dimmed the spirit of one of the Chicago grain trade's oldest characters.

Robert E. McCarthy.

Next Monday Robert E. McCarthy, 79 years old, who two weeks ago saw the grain firm with which he had been connected for 61 years quietly fade from the business by liquidating because trading became too dull, is going back into the pits as a floor trader on the Chicago Board of Trade. He has held a membership there since 1903.

Until May 31 McCarthy was treasurer of E. W. Bailey & Co., Chicago grain commission house founded in 1879 by E. W. Bailey, now dead. At the end of last month the company began winding up its affairs. Market volume, said its head, George C. Bailey, son of the founder, had become too lean.

Saw Fortunes Made, Lost.

Thru all the dazzling era in which fabulous fortunes were swiftly made and lost in the pits, McCarthy stayed with the firm and handled accounts of big speculators who paid it millions of dollars in commissions.

Yesterday, after two weeks of vacation, McCarthy announced his decision to return to the floor.

When McCarthy joined the firm he handled all of the office details. Bailey spent his time on the floor. One of the famous men whom McCarthy induced to become a customer was Charles W. Pardridge, Chicago merchant and speculator who died a multimillionaire in 1917. McCarthy said Pardridge paid the Bailey firm about $750,000 in commissions over a long period of years. McCarthy never shared in any commissions, he said.

Rejected Financial Backing.

McCarthy said he once rejected an offer of a grain speculator to put him in business for himself with hundreds of thousands of dollars of financial backing.

The Bailey firm ran into financial difficulties twice in its long history, once in 1887 and again in 1893. Each time the creditors were paid off in full years later, with interest, according to McCarthy. He said Bailey made a settlement for 33⅓ cents on the dollar in 1893, but paid in full with 6 per cent interest 14 years afterward.

McCarthy and his family live at 5251 North Wayne avenue.

Arms Work Widely Sublet by Chrysler

New York, June 13 (AP).—The Chrysler corporation is extensively subcontracting government military orders, drawing upon materials and services from all sections of the country, K. T. Keller, president, said today in a letter to stockholders.

On tank production alone, Keller said, Chrysler is buying materials, supplies, and finished goods from more than 700 companies in 130 cities in 20 states.

These Buy from Others.

"But this tells only part of the story," he said. "These different firms in their turn are buying materials, supplies, and finished goods from hundreds of others. For instance, we get the tank motors from two different concerns. Each motor has thousands of individual parts. To manufacture them for our use the builders of these motors must purchase things in almost every part of the country.

"So, when all the individual supplies to the 700 concerns from which we buy directly are added together you can see that our tank manufacturing job alone engages people in large and small companies all over the land."

Applies to Other Jobs.

Keller said the same conditions would govern the company's production of 40 millimeter rapid fire anti-aircraft guns for the army and navy; center and nose sections of the fuselage of the Martin B-26 bombers and forging aluminum alloy parts for airplanes.

Keller gave stockholders a description of Chrysler and its activities in these words:

"The sum total of all the activities of Chrysler corporation make an imposing picture of more than 83,000 employés, 4,351,000 shares of stocks, many millions of square feet of floor space, between 700 and 800 million dollars of products each year, a pay roll at the rate of $175,000,000 a year, producing and selling more than 1,000,000 cars a year."

SENATOR GLASS TO 'GO ALONG' ON MONEY POWERS

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Senator Carter H. Glass [D., Va.] said today that while heretofore he had opposed extension of the President's power to devalue the dollar he now was disposed to "go along" on the President's request for a continuance of this authority until June 30, 1943.

"I voted and spoke against it," Glass told other members of the senate banking committee, adding that "while I don't believe in it, I feel disposed to go along with those who have been in intimate touch with these matters."

Glass made the statement after Senator Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.] had challenged a recommendation by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. that congress enact speedily a house approved bill continuing the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund and the President's authority to lower the gold content of the dollar.

HOUSE APPROVES 40 MILLION MORE FOR TVA PROJECT

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Warned of a "desperate" power shortage for production of vitally needed aluminum for bombers, the house today quickly approved an additional appropriation of $40,000,000 to enable the Tennessee Valley authority to step up its electric production by 117,000 kilowatts.

The $40,000,000 would be spent this year and an additional $11,000,000 proposed for appropriation next year would allow completion of the project.

Supply of Refined Copper Lowest for Many Years

New York, June 13 [Special].—Domestic stocks of refined copper at the end of May, totaled 95,568 tons, compared with 98,789 tons at the end of April, the lowest level recorded in a number of years, the copper institute reported today.

OPM PLANS ALUMINUM SCRAP DRIVE SOON ON A NATION-WIDE BASIS

New York, June 13 [Special].—A salvage campaign expected to yield 20 million pounds of aluminum—enough to build 650 long range bombing planes—soon will be launched thruout the United States by the Office of Production Management, it was announced today.

The plan was revealed by Frank Bane, director of the division of state and local coöperation of the Office of Civilian Defense, in an address before a 12 state northeast "defense conference."

Bane pointed to the success of two experimental campaigns in Virginia and Wisconsin, where 80,000 pounds of aluminum was obtained. It was "three or four times what was expected," he said. "This amount would build two and a half of the giant bombers. Not all of the scrap collected could be used in planes, but its use elsewhere would free other supplies for plane construction, it was indicated.

WARNS INDUSTRY TO 'SEE OPACS' ON PRICE BOOSTS

Washington, D. C., June 13 [Special].—Leon Henderson, federal price control administrator, today advised industrialists that they may avoid "much inconvenience" by conferring with the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply before advancing prices. He served notice that price increases "would not be considered justified" when profit levels are favorable, even tho some costs "have advanced or apparently are going to advance."

Henderson made public a formal letter to the presidents of the Ford Motor company, Chrysler corporation, Nash-Kelvinator corporation, Studebaker corporation, and Hudson Motor Car company, following his letter yesterday in which he asked them to withdraw immediately recent price increases of $15 to $53 on new cars.

"I cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of companies in various industries getting in touch with OPACS before announcing price advances for discussions of the cost factors believed to necessitate such action," Henderson said. "Much inconvenience can be avoided if industrial concerns will talk with us before taking action."

DUNN GIVES UP STEEL ADVISING FOR PRIVATE JOB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Gano Dunn, President Roosevelt's steel expert who is noted for reversing himself on an estimate of steel production from a substantial surplus to a gross deficit, has decided to return to private business, it was disclosed today.

Mr. Roosevelt was decidedly embarrassed in quoting Dunn's estimates. On Feb. 28 the President predicted a surplus of 10,100,000 tons in ingot producing capacity this year and a surplus of 2,100,000 tons next year. On May 28, three months later, Mr. Roosevelt had to reverse this forecast and predict deficits of 1,400,000 tons this year and 6,400,000 tons next year. Also, from a positive assurance of no steel rationing he had to threaten the strictest rationing.

The Office of Production Management today announced that Dunn "has found it necessary" to return to his position as president of the J. G. White Engineering corporation, Cleveland.

WALLACE WARNS FARMERS ON HIGH PRICE DEMANDS

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Vice President Henry Wallace advised agricultural groups today to "take caution" in pressing demands for higher farm prices lest they incur public resentment, lose the crop control program, and suffer a "terrible debacle" when peace comes.

Addressing a national AAA conference, the former secretary of agriculture said that those who showed a "greedy, grabbing, and political spirit" during the present emergency "can expect to reap the whirlwind later on."

UTILITY HEARING ON INTEGRATION CALLED BY SEC

Aim to Pare United Light's System.

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP)—The Securities and Exchange commission today ordered the United Light and Power company to show cause why its vast utility empire should not be pared down to a single integrated system centered about the Kansas City Power and Light company. Hearing was called for June 26.

In a tentative conclusion as to what the company must do to comply with the so-called "death sentence" of the utility act, the SEC limited its questions for the most part to the geographical integration clause.

[Under this clause the SEC has ruled that an entire holding company system must be limited to the state or states in which the primary system is located and adjoining states.]

Defers Other Issues.

Apparently the SEC intends to settle the integration problem on a strictly geographical basis before taking up the questions which might be raised under clauses covering economic necessity and local management. The commission noted a deferment of such considerations thruout its order.

The commission previously had ordered dissolution of United Light and Power as the top unit of the system and of United American company, an intermediate holding company, which would make the United Light and Railways company the top unit. United Light, in agreeing to this order, indicated, the SEC said, that it considered Kansas City Power as the principal system.

Includes Five Major Units.

As the system is presently constituted, it includes three major holding companies—United Light and Railways, American Light and Traction company, and Continental Gas and Electric corporation, and two operating-holding companies, Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company and Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company.

Without reaching a conclusion, the SEC said that the question of whether there should be but one major holding company in the system would be considered.

STATE SALES TAX REFUND SECTION HELD TO BE VALID

Springfield, Ill., June 13 (AP).—The Illinois Supreme court upheld today the constitutionality of section six of the state sales tax act requiring the department of finance to issue credit memoranda to persons making overpayments of the tax thru error.

It directed the Cook county Circuit court to issue a mandamus compelling the state to grant a $3,408 credit memorandum to Swartchild & Co., Chicago watch and clock parts concern. The attorney general, in behalf of the finance department, had claimed section six was unconstitutional and this claim had been sustained by the Circuit court.

Chemical Maker Leases Fullerton Avenue Plant

The Philip A. Hunt company of New York, manufacturer of photographic and industrial chemicals, yesterday leased the two story building at 2108 Fullerton avenue from the Pillsbury Flour Mills company for 10 years beginning July 1, at a term rental of $46,375. It will more than quadruple the lessee's space, now at 1076 West Division street. The new quarters will be used for office and warehouse space and compounding of chemicals.

Truck Firm to Move Into New Plant; Arms Work Described

BY AL CHASE.

The Diamond T Motor Car company of Chicago, which has government armament orders exceeding 45 million dollars for various types of wartime trucks, next Monday will occupy a new $200,000 plant in the 51st street section of the Clearing Industrial district. The new building, erected by the district in exactly 43 working days, has been leased to the truck manufacturer for a term of years.

C. A. Tilt, president and general manager of Diamond T, said the new unit will be used to supplement the activities of the large main plant at 4517 West 26th street. The brokerage firm of Nicolson, Porter & List handled the lease negotiations.

One of the largest recent orders received by Diamond T, according to Tilt, was one from the war department for 835 ten ton truck tractors to be transferred to the British government under the lease-lend act. These are Diesel engined six wheel vehicles which the English call "tank transporters."

Service British Tanks.

"We call them truck tractors," Tilt said. "They're used to service British tanks stalled thru engine trouble or otherwise. They pull a low bed trailer on which the tank can be placed and drawn back where it can be repaired."

Diamond T also has a $14,220,000 order for "personnel carriers" which will get into production this month, he reported. The first 150 units will be shipped shortly.

"These are the newest things in modern warfare and were designed by the war department following observation of the present European war," Tilt said. "They are trucks to carry infantry wherever the tanks go. They have ordinary automobile wheels in front and caterpillar treads in the rear. They can go as fast as 45 to 50 miles an hour and probably will make about two or three miles to a gallon of gasoline.

"They carry 13 men each who are protected by quarter inch armor plate on all sides capable of standing 30 caliber machine gun fire—even the wind shield is a slotted half inch armor plate instead of the usual glass. They weigh 17,000 pounds, or 8½ tons."

1,500 Big Trucks Delivered.

Diamond T also has an order to supply the motor transport division of the quartermaster department with 4,000 four ton six wheel trucks. Of this order 1,500 have been delivered and work is under way on the rest.

"There are three types of the four ton trucks," Tilt said. "Some are used by the field artillery to pull 155 millimeter howitzers. A second type is used as wrecking equipment trucks and the third is equipped with pontoon bodies and is used by the engineers in carrying pontoon units for building temporary bridges."

Some of these four ton trucks are being made for the British, he said.

Diamond T has about $6,000,000 in armament orders in the offing in addition to the more than $45,000,000 already in hand, according to Tilt. The company employs about 800 persons [a 60 per cent rise over a year ago] and probably will add 150 more within the next 60 days, he said.

Masonite Plant Expansion to Cost 1½ Million

Masonite corporation, Chicago manufacturer of hardboard, insulating board, and other building materials, will expand and improve its main plant at Laurel, Miss., at a cost of more than 1½ million dollars, Ben Alexander, president of the company, announced yesterday.

Ben Alexander.

Besides its regular lines, the company is producing a die stock material used in making shearing and forming dies for the aircraft industry, chucks for metal spinning, and boards for shipbuilding patterns. Some of the company's products are used in army tank plate linings, shell containers, signal corps trailers, and powder bins.

Alexander said that the largest item in the expansion program is $800,000 allotted for a coal operated steam turbine power plant. The plant will go into service about Aug. 15, he said.

Will Ease TVA Load.

The electric power load of the Tennessee Valley authority will be eased when the new Masonite plant goes into operation, relieving the TVA of the necessity of providing power used at the Laurel factory. The factory buys TVA power thru the Mississippi Power company.

The new generators will supply nearly 13,500 kilowatts of electric power, which is more than the Masonite factory can use at its present 100 per cent capacity operating rate. Masonite has been taking about 4 million kilowatt hours a month from Mississippi Power, Alexander said. He said Masonite expects to be able to supply some power to other companies making armaments, or to communities running short of current.

More than $600,000 will be spent to build and equip an addition to the former Masonite plastics plants, which is producing the die stock and kitchen and bathroom wall material. Its capacity will be doubled.

Other Changes Planned.

Improvements also will be made in the company's Presdwood division. These and other changes will cost more than $100,000.

The war department announced that the Defense Plant corporation had taken over a contract for expansion of the Boeing Aircraft company plant at Wichita, Kas., and the amount had been increased to $17,500,000. Previously, the department had given Boeing a letter of intent guaranteeing reimbursement of plant expansion costing $10,000,000 at Wichita for the manufacture of heavy bombers.

The department said also that a $272,500 contract for expansion of the Wichita plant of Boeing's Stearman division also had been taken over by Defense Plant corporation.

Timken Roller Bearing company, which had begun an expansion program costing 3 million dollars, announced that the outlay will be doubled. All of the projects are in its Ohio plants.

27 YEARS OLD TODAY, INVESTORS' GUIDE HAS ASSISTED THOUSANDS

Twenty-seven years ago today THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE started a free service for its readers who desired unbiased information on investments and insurance. Since June 14, 1914, the Investors' Guide, which furnishes the service, has answered 463,000 inquiries by mail.

The Investors' Guide is the oldest investment service in the United States offered by a daily newspaper of general circulation. The inquiries are handled by a special staff whose full time work is to gather facts from reliable sources and submit them to readers in simple, understandable form. As an essential part of its service, the Investors' Guide assists the public in avoiding unwise investments, fraudulent schemes and unscrupulous promoters.

In 27 years the Investors' Guide has passed thru the speculative whirl of the last world war, the postwar crash of 1921, the prosperity boom of the late '20s, the gloom of the early '30s, the speculative revival of 1936-'37, the recession of late 1937, and the current war period.

INSURANCE FIRMS' STOCK AND BOND DEALINGS SHOWN

New York, June 13 [Special].—Reports from more than 1,000 of the nation's insurance companies that they bought or sold during 1940 a total of $6,491,311,428 in securities was disclosed today with publication of the 1941 edition of Poor's purchases and sales of securities. This total is slightly less than 6 per cent below the 1939 volume of $6,894,257,636. The 1940 figure is equivalent to an average of nearly $22,000,000 worth of securities transactions every working day.

The decrease last year was caused entirely by a drop in purchases, which amounted to $4,075,324,705, compared with $4,622,412,382 in 1939. Sales rose from $2,271,845,254 to $2,415,986,723.

NEW HEAVY TAX IS PREDICTED BY REP. DOUGHTON

Washington, D. C., June 13 (AP).—Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] predicted today that the house ways and means committee, in writing the new $3,500,000,000 tax bill, "probably" would vote to levy new income surtaxes on the "first dollar of taxable income." This would mean bigger tax bills for all present income tax payers.

Doughton announced, however, that the committee agreed this morning to postpone final decision on the income surtaxes until after determining a new schedule of excess profits taxes and the estimated amount that could be obtained therefrom. Excess profits taxes will be taken up by the committee tomorrow.

As to the income taxes, the treasury has proposed a surtax starting at 11 per cent on the first taxable dollar. The staff of the joint congressional committee on taxation proposed that a $2,000 surtax exemption be allowed before applying the surtax. One compromise before the committee proposes a 7 per cent surtax levy on the first dollar of taxable income.

PANHANDLE EAST. PIPE LINE TO BE INDEPENDENT

An independent management is contemplated for the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company under the plan whereby the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation and the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company largely get rid of their Panhandle holdings, David Boyd Smith, Chicago director of Mo-Kan, said yesterday. He said that W. G. Maguire, president of Mo-Kan, is slated to be chairman of the board of Panhandle, and James Brown, Michigan utility man, president.

Smith said that the Panhandle settlement, which is expected to terminate federal anti-trust suits against Columbia, provides that Columbia sell to Panhandle $1,000,000 of one class of Panhandle preferred which Columbia holds, and that Panhandle refinance $10,000,000 of preferred on a 4½ per cent basis. The new preferred would be sold to the public and the proceeds used to reimburse Columbia, which holds the $10,000,000 old preferred. Both issues of preferred are 6 per cent issues.

End Interunion Strife, Is Plea of Roosevelt

Auto Shutdown Looms

Detroit, Mich., June 13 [Special.]—The Ford Motor company, Briggs Manufacturing company, and Plymouth division of Chrysler Motor corporation, employing many thousands, face a shutdown for lack of parts, because of a jurisdictional dispute between two unions involved in a strike at the Douglas and Lomason Auto Parts company, which employs 500. The company makes hood mountings and radio shells for the three companies.

The situation was disclosed today by Victor C. Sweringen of the state mediation board. A strike was called at the plant Tuesday by the United Automobile Workers [CIO], which contends it has a majority of the employés. Altho the company has a closed shop contract with the AFL union the CIO union has asked for an election.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

President Roosevelt yesterday called for a moratorium on interunion warfare in a new extension of his personal efforts to eliminate production delaying labor disputes. On behalf of Mr. Roosevelt, Stephen Early, White House press secretary, gave newspapermen an oral statement that this was no time for unions to start "raiding one another."

Meantime the house military committee tentatively approved legislation authorizing the President to take over strikebound armament plants in which management refuses to make use of federal conciliation and mediation services. The measure also would permit use of troops to prevent unlawful picketing. A final decision was deferred until Monday.

Would Avoid New Clashes.

Mr. Roosevelt's statement was, in effect, a plea for unions not to enter new fields which would bring them into clashes with other unions and possibly lead to jurisdictional strikes.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the international teamsters' union [AFL], had telegraphed the chief executive that other organizations, influenced, he said, by subversive elements, were trying to win local groups from "loyal organizations." The CIO chartered a teamsters' local at Minneapolis Thursday in its first move into this field.

It was the second time this week that Mr. Roosevelt had intervened personally in labor affairs, aside from his order for the army to take over the North American Aviation corporation's plant at Inglewood, Cal.

Urged End of Strike.

Last Monday he asked the AFL machinists' union to end its strike at 11 San Francisco shipyards and drydocks. The union's executive council, in response to the request, directed the strikers Thursday night to go back to work.

Harry Hook, San Francisco business agent of the union, promptly called a meeting for tomorrow to consider the council's action. He said there was a possibility the machinists would go back on Monday.

The five week old strike of fewer than 2,000 machinists has obstructed work on $500,000,000 of ship construction and repair in yards employing about 20,000 men.

Meantime, at San Diego, Cal., ratification of a labor contract with Consolidated Aircraft corporation by a nine to one margin by AFL machinists was announced by union officials. Acceptance of the contract proposal by the membership removed a strike threat against the plant which holds $700,000,000 of armament orders.

Fight Subversive Elements.

A score of top ranking CIO officials will go to Los Angeles in response to Richard T. Frankensteen's call to purge the Pacific coast leadership of the United Automobile Workers [CIO] of subversive elements.

He reiterated his declaration that the strike at North American Aviation plant called by local union officials during negotiations before the national defense mediation board at Washington, was "a wildcat and outlaw strike." Yesterday he demanded an immediate return to work.

Last night, amid shouts of "Let's hang them right" and "Drive out communism," members of local 365 of the United Automobile Workers suspended 10 members and ordered them tried on charges of instigating a 90 minute walkout at the Long Island City, N. Y., plant of the Brewster Aeronautical corporation, busy on orders for fighter planes.

RESTRAIN STRIKE BY UNION SPLIT IN BOLT TO CIO

Minneapolis, Minn., June 13 [Special].—More than 150 Minneapolis firms affected by the bolt of part of General Drivers' union 544 from AFL to CIO obtained a court order late today temporarily restraining both factions from calling strikes without giving the 10 day notice required by state law.

As the labor jurisdictional fight became more muddled, observers believed they saw in this new development the means thru which the National Labor Relations board will be called in to effect a settlement by ordering an employé election.

The court order is returnable Thursday. It was granted on the court's findings on testimony taken from Feris B. Martin, executive secretary of the Minneapolis Transfer Men's association.

"We have been left in the middle," Martin told the court.

SMITH ASSERTS STOCK TRADERS SAVE IN CHICAGO

Asks SEC to Permit Unlisted Sales.

Kenneth L. Smith, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, said yesterday that it is less expensive for customers to trade on the Chicago board than on the New York Stock exchange.

Kenneth L. Smith.

He testified at a hearing in Chicago conducted by the Securities and Exchange commission on applications filed by the exchange to extend unlisted trading privileges to 20 stocks which have a wide public interest in this territory. Henry Fitts, trial examiner, will report to the commission which will then approve or disapprove the applications.

Smith explained that trading is more reasonable here because it obviates to a large extent mailing charges passed along by brokers to customers and it avoids the New York state transfer tax on sales. The commission rates are the same on both boards, he said.

Avoid Small Lot Penalty.

Smith said that the new system would permit customers to buy and sell close to home and to avoid a penalty for trading in 50 share lots that they incur in New York. It would stimulate more interest in the securties involved, he added, since they all have been selected because the companies have activities, plants, offices, or other factors identified with the vicinity of the Chicago exchange or adjacent territory.

Six exchanges, including New York, did not respond to notices sent by the SEC announcing the hearing, it was stated. The Philadelphia and Baltimore exchanges acknowledged the notices and waived objections. The Pittsburgh exchange asked for copies of the applications. No objectors appeared at the hearing.

If the applications are approved by the SEC, trading is expected to start about Aug. 1 in the 20 issues under the optional odd lot system, raising the total therein to 93.

List Includes Bethlehem.

The common or capital stocks which the Chicago exchange seeks to trade on an unlisted basis are:

American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation; Anaconda Copper Mining company; Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway company; Bethlehem Steel corporation; Curtiss-Wright corporation; General Electric company; Interlake Iron corporation; Glenn L. Martin company; Nash-Kelvinator corporation; New York Central Railroad company.

Paramount Pictures, Inc.; Pullman, Inc.; Pure Oil company; Radio Corporation of America; Republic Steel corporation; Standard Brands, Inc.; Standard Oil company [New Jersey]; Studebaker corporation; United States Rubber company, and Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing company [B stock].

RETAIL BUYING TOPS YEAR AGO 15 TO 18 PER CENT

New York, June 13 (AP).—Buying in retail stores this week averaged 15 to 18 per cent above last year for the country as a whole, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

"Retail selling was strong over a broad range of merchandise," the credit agency said. "Especially noted by retailers were tendencies to purchase in the higher-priced brackets and to buy more in clothing lines."

New England retail sales topped a year ago by 19 to 22 per cent, east 16 to 23, middle west and south 18 to 25 each, southwest 20 to 26, northwest 11 to 15, and Pacific coast 14 to 17.

SOY BEAN PRICE SUPPORT NEWS BOOSTS MARKET

Grains Follow Rise After Early Weakness.

Entrance of the government into the grain markets in a new rôle yesterday sent prices scurrying upward late in the trading session from the lowest levels of the week where they had sunk earlier in the day. Fluctuations in the soy bean market ranged from 4½ to 5¼ cents a bushel. The December and new October contracts closed at new seasonal highs for the second consecutive day.

The department of agriculture announced that it will support the price of soy beans at $1 a bushel in order to increase bean production and, subsequently, the output of soy bean oil.

Price Above Support Level.

Traders pointed out that prices already were far above this level, with the July future closing at $1.39½.

Gains in other grains reflected the strength in the soy bean market while soy beans, in addition to taking some strength from the new government program, firmed on advances in lard and cottonseed oil prices.

Lard traders extended the seasonal price peaks established in the preceding session as the hog market recorded new gains.

Wheat Rallies After Dip.

Wheat gained 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents a bushel in the last hour with July at $1.02⅛ after declining more than a cent a bushel in early trading.

Cash houses bought moderately in the corn market but the government controled ceiling and floor on corn prices limited outside interest to a minimum. The market closed ¼ to ⅜ cent higher. Commercial interests were active in the oats market and prices were unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Rye closed ¼ cent lower to a cent higher.

ILLINOIS' NEW BUILDING IN MAY ABOVE YEAR AGO

Building construction of all types in Illinois during May was 13½ per cent higher in number of permits and 33.3 per cent larger in value than in the corresponding month last year. A review of building in 162 cities made by the Illinois department of labor showed 4,394 building permits were issued for structures valued at $16,606,249 last month, compared with 3,870 permits valued at $12,457,691 during May, 1940.

Residential building showed an even larger relative gain over the same month of last year. There were 1,434 permits for new homes, costing $8,751,669, against 1,068 permits for $5,929,726 a year ago. This was a gain of 34.3 per cent in number and 47.6 per cent in value.

DISCOUNT FIRM HEAD REPORTS BUSINESS GAINS

Business of the Trustees System Discount corporation of Chicago has recorded a substantial increase thus far this year over last, Charles R. Overholser, vice president and general manager, told stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday.

He said, however, that it is possible that there will be less merchandise to finance next year because of the armament program. David L. Shillinglaw and John G. McDonald were reelected directors for three year terms. The company purchases installment contracts covering sales of refrigerators and other appliances, furniture, and industrial equipment.

Milwaukee Road's Income Much Improved This Year

The Milwaukee railroad yesterday reported net income of $166,693 for the four months ended April 30, compared with a net loss of $4,338,532 in the same period last year. Net loss in April was cut to $218,456 from the $1,433,839 a year ago.

DEFER DIVIDEND ON DISNEY STOCK BECAUSE OF WAR

2 Concerns Vote First Payments of Year.

Walt Disney Productions has deferred the quarterly dividend of 37½ cents on its 6 per cent preferred stock due July 1, the company announced yesterday. Two other companies ordered their first distributions of the year and another voted an extra.

The Disney organization stated that ommission of the regular payment was necessary because of reduced income as the result of the spread of war and its "repercussions" on the company's working capital requirements for producing and carrying its pictures.

Voting Machine to Pay.

The Automatic Voting Machine corporation voted a 25 cent dividend, its first since the 12½ cents in April, 1940. The National Aviation corporation also declared a 25 cent dividend, its first since last December.

The Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada declared an extra of 75 cents in addition to the semiannual distribution of 50 cents. Corroon & Reynolds corporation, insurance firm, voted $1.50 for payment on arrears on its preferred shares.

TRANSPORTATION.

My brother-in-law is offering me some 3 to 6 per cent bonds of the Philadelphia Transportation company in repayment of a loan. I would like to know how these bonds are rated and what the 3 to 6 per cent means. —L. V. B.

Answer: The Philadelphia Transportation company has outstanding $31,900,000 in consolidated mortgage 3 to 6 per cent bonds due Jan. 1, 2039, out of a total funded debt of $62,000,000. The bonds are rated as speculative.

The bonds carry a fixed interest rate of 3 per cent each year. In addition, noncumulative interest not exceeding 3 per cent is payable July 1 each year from net income of the preceding year otherwise available for dividends. This contingent interest must be paid before any dividends can be disbursed to stockholders.

Since Jan. 1, 1939, when the bonds were issued, the fixed interest has been paid, and, in addition, 2.52 per cent was distributed July 1, 1940, as contingent interest from 1939 earnings. A 3 per cent additional payment, the maximum, will be disbursed this year on July 1 from 1940 earnings, as well as the semiannual fixed coupon of 1½ per cent.

The consolidated mortgage bonds are junior to about 31 million dollars of bonds, mortgages and ground rents which have a prior lien on the company's properties. The lien applies to surface railway ar 1 motor bus franchises and lines owned by the company, and all real estate used in connection with the surface lines.

The company is a successor, thru reorganization, to the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, and represents the consolidation of 64 different units. The new system began to operate the properties on Jan. 2, 1940.

It furnishes a coördinated transportation service in Philadelphia and to communities outside the city extending into southern New Jersey. Trackage operated includes more than 600 miles of street railway, 450 miles of bus routes, and 65 miles of subway and elevated lines.

CALI.

What is the status of the Cali 7 per cent dollar bonds?—P. L.

Answer: The $2,408,000 in 7 per cent dollar bonds, due May 1, 1947, of the municipality of Cali, Colombia, have been in default since May 1, 1932, and are rated a hazardous speculation. The dollar loan is the only outstanding external debt of the city. Part payment of $24.70 on the $35 coupon due May 1, 1932, was paid Dec. 11, 1934. The issue is secured by a first lien on the city's waterworks and other real and personal property, and on its revenues and tax receipts.
